ICKES' CARS PUT HIM ON SPOT IN SENATE INQUIRY

Accused of Buying Without Authority.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The senate committee on public lands was told today that Harold Ickes, who inveighs against economic royalists, has a penchant for Packard limousines purchased without authority of law with taxpayers' money.

Ebert K. Burlew.

Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.] made the disclosure from the records of 1933, when Mr. Ickes had $3,300,000,000 to spend. The senator said it appeared that Mr. Ickes as public works administrator was jealous of Mr. Ickes as secretary of the interior because the secretary of the interior had a limousine. So Mr. Ickes as public works administrator bought a $4,875 Packard limousine and a $3,875 Packard sedan to compete with the limousine of Mr. Ickes as secretary of the interior. That made a total of two limousines and a seven passenger sedan for Mr. Ickes in his various capacities.

Burlew Shuns Responsibility.

Ebert K. Burlew, administrative assistant and right hand man to Mr. Ickes, whose nomination to be first assistant secretary of the interior is being investigated, was informed that the purchases were made in violation of three specific provisions of law, but he refused to accept any responsibility. He placed the responsibility primarily upon Secretary Ickes, but he did not stop there. He pointed out that one of the vouchers bore the legend, "o. k. F. D. R."

When Senator Frederick Steiwer [R., Ore.], who was doing the questioning at this point, said he had no intention of bringing in the name of the President of the United States, Mr. Burlew's pinkish face turned a shade pinker.

"I am very sorry," he said.

Asked About Autos' Use.

Senator Steiwer led into the automobile phase of the inquiry by asking Mr. Burlew whether he ever used government cars on private business. Burlew said he did this only when it would save his time for the government. Senator Steiwer then showed him two vouchers for the purchase of the limousine and sedan, both with money that was appropriated in 1933 for the relief of unemployment.

Mr. Burlew identified the vouchers and then Senator Steiwer read from title 5, section 78, of the United States code, prohibiting the purchase of motor vehicles for government use without specific authority of law. He read a provision of the treasury-post-office appropriation act of 1933 prohibiting the purchase of government cars costing more than $750 without specific authorizations.

Then he read a provision of title II. of the national industrial recovery act, appropriating $3,300,000,000 for public works, which specifically repealed the limitations on automobile purchases with respect to the $50,000,000 allocated to the Tennessee Valley authority, but did not repeal them for anything else.

Burlew Explains Procedure.

"Does the interior department claim that specific authority was given for the purchase of these automobiles?" asked Senator Steiwer.

"No, indeed," said Mr. Burlew. "At the time the PWA was established it was held by the controler general that the PWA could purchase these cars—also that other emergency agencies could."

Burlew said he personally took the vouchers to the general accounting office, but that he did not see Controler General John R. McCarl, whose term has since expired. The vouchers were approved by E. C. Carroll, an employé of the office. In response to another question, Burlew said that bids on the cars were solicited by the chief clerk of the interior department.

No Advertising for Bids.

"Were there any advertisments for bids?" asked Senator Steiwer.

"Oh, no, we don't advertise for

DEMOCRATS BEG ROOSEVELT TO STOP SPENDING

Blundering to Ruin

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The nation is trying to spend its way to happiness and prosperity, but instead is blundering toward the destruction of representative government, said John R. McCarl tonight in an address before members of Adsell league. The former Nebraskan, who was United States controler general for 15 years, said the policy of trying to spend our way to prosperity on borrowed money has brought us to the brink of another crash by recommitting most of the sins that caused the 1929 crash. "This time, however," he added, "we are lacking both unity and credit."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Continued government spending and failure to improve business conditions brought attacks upon the Roosevelt administration today from two Democratic leaders in the house of representatives.

Clifton A. Woodrum

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.], ranking member of the appropriations committee, charged that continued expansion of government activities and the growing public debt were the causes of the current business depression.

Representative Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], chairman of the house military affairs committee, in a letter to forty senators, begged them to override the senate appropriations committee which has approved an appropriation of $2,800,000 to start construction of the proposed Gilbertsville dam on the Tennessee river.

Forecasts Billion Deficit.

"The President tells us the deficit will be something like 900 millions in 1939," Representative Woodrum said. "I know that he hopes it won't be any more, but I equally know that it will be more than a billion dollars and so do you. Why? Because in the future we will continue to do as we have done at this session — increase government expenditures at every step of the road.

"In 1932 our platform, in a moment of enthusiasm and extreme optimism, promised the people of America that we would reduce government expenses 25 per cent. Conditions arose which made that impossible. Regularly since then, you and I, my colleagues on this side of the aile, and our great leader have promised again and again to try to reduce expenditures and balance the budget. And just as regularly we come back with increased expenses and continuing deficit."

"I am going to continue this song of economy in government," Woodrum warned as he repeated a charge he made a few days ago that certain Democrats were engaged in a deliberate plot to increase the public debt to the poin. where inflation which they consider desirable would be necessary.

Quotes Inflationist.

"One member said to me the other day: 'I promise to vote for an increase in every expenditure that I can get hold of and to put the budget and the public debt in as bad shape as I can in order to enforce inflation in this country, because that is what we should have.'" Woodrum declared.

Woodrum admitted that a serious relief problem faces the government this year, but said he wanted it held down, as he wanted it held down last year, and added that he believed the last appropriation could have been stretched a great deal further.

"Every nickel you spend you are borrowing and every time you borrow a nickel you prejudice and put a stumbling block in the way of those millions of men who are trying to get work and will not have work and security of regular employment until business opens up its heart and

Nazis Order Everybody to Start to Work

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—Nobody will be tolerated in Germany in the future, a government spokesman who is chief of the Nazi economic schooling courses said today when addressing 2,000 business leaders of Germany They were assembled in Munich to take courses organized by the "commission for Nazi Economic policy."

"Germany once proclaimed everybody's right to work," the spokesman declared. "Now we must proclaim everybody's duty to work."

In Berlin Der Angriff, official publication of the National Socialist [Nazi] party, said that girls who finish schools at the ages of 14 and 15, and who formerly became home girls when the families could afford it, also must learn to work.

Housewives to Be Trainers.

The newspaper declared that of half a million young girls who will emerge from school at Easter time 140,000 probably will stay at home with their mothers.

"This idleness of 14 and 15 year olds is usually harmful," the paper said. "It must be replaced by work in households or families under the supervision of a trained housewife."

An organization of Nazi women and Nazi teachers, Youth Front leaders, and representatives of the various state ministries recently held a meeting in Berlin to decide details of a campaign for housekeeping training for girls. Plans also were discussed to send school and university girls into factories during the summer vacation periods.

With hundreds of thousands of men serving in the army, and others working overtime in the armament industry, the demand for well trained women to fill posts in business and factories is increasing steadily.

Business to Be "Aryanized."

The official organ of the German association of big and medium sized retailing firms today issued directions for the "Aryanization" of German business, which is a newly coined term for the sale of Jewish enterprises to Aryans under the pressure of the anti-Jewish campaign in Germany.

Dr. Heuser, expert for the association, prescribed that when an Aryan buys a firm from a Jew, he must pay "only for the material value of the enterprise, and not for its reputation [goodwill]. The price must not be especially advantageous for the buyer, and still less advantageous to the person selling it."

Jewish employés and agents of firms which are sold to Aryans must be dismissed, Dr. Heuser said. In a number of cases Jews who sold their enterprises to Aryans because they were unable to obtain goods they needed from Aryan wholesalers, made contracts with their Aryan successors calling for payments of annuities to themselves or their dependents instead of full payment in cash.

Dr. Heuser declared that pensions or annuities for Jewish former owners or their dependents or pensioners are not to be recognized. All pensions must be paid by Jews selling their businesses.

Though Der Stuermer, anti-Semitic publication of Julius Streicher, chief Nazi Jew baiter, has been banned for a week by the government for some reason not given, the semi-official Angriff has launched a bitter campaign against Jews, asserting they still are succeeding in making a good living in Germany. The paper published names and addresses of successful Jewish firms, and promised to give its readers more "names, figures, and new proofs."

PROFESSOR FINDS WE STILL ARE SPEAKING CAVEMAN'S LANGUAGE

Palo Alto, Cal., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Figures of speech of the cavemen are still good, William Hawley Davis, professor of English at Stanford university, announced today. As examples he gave a "bone of contention," "an eye for an eye," "cut-throat competition," "wield a big stick," "left no stone unturned," "kept an ear to the ground," "killed two birds with one stone," "let sleeping dogs lie," and "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

Prof. Davis traced back to the horse and buggy days such figures as "raring to go," "prick up his ears," "bridle at," "hamstring," "take the bit in his teeth," and "do not swap horses while crossing a stream." He expects the use of such expressions to decline because of the displacing of horses by automobiles.

An Evanston Gent Enjoys His Vacations

Evanston police were searching last night for a burglar who shaves with an electric razor, wears a derby hat, fancies the gayer neckties, enjoys radio music, prefers trinkets to valuables, takes money only when he's broke, reads the society columns, and loves to see what other people keep in their bureau drawers.

The police call him the vacation burglar because he enjoys vacations so — the ones some one else takes. When Evanstonians are in Florida, or some place, he goes through the things they left behind.

Visits 4 Homes in Day.

Last Sunday he robbed, or more accurately snooped, four homes within three blocks of one another. In each case he left the back door open so he could duck if the owners suddenly returned and then carried all the drawers into the living room where he could look through them while he played the radio. He works in broad daylight.

The reason he reads the society columns, in the opinion of Lieut. Carl Ekman of the Evanston police, is that he wants to know who's out of town.

The homes robbed are those of R. W. Buddington, 2515 Sherman avenue, an assistant superintendent of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company; Frank H. Philbrick, 2668 Orrington avenue, an executive of the Power Ballaster company; Simon Johanson, 2677 Orrington avenue, a retired contractor, and Ernst G. K. Anderson, 614 Ingleside place, vice president of the Simplet Electric company. The Philbrick and Anderson families were vacationing, and the others were away for the day.

The Philbrick Electric Razor.

The electric razor he took from the Philbrick home. Neckties and shirts he selected from the Johanson home, where he also got $25. But he spurned $10 he found at the Buddington home, where he found things he liked better, the derby and an antique ring.

Nothing has been missed yet at the Anderson home, where he seemingly contented himself with a radio program and a look through the drawers. He scorns furs and silverware.

The detectives have had a number of suggestions that they look for their man in houses with the blinds down. But they'll stick to their electric razor and derby clews, because: Their man doesn't bother to put the blinds down.

Airliner Lost 6 Hours in Gale Lands Safely

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 25.—[Tuesday.]—For nearly six and one-half hours last night and this morning, a giant Douglas liner of the Eastern Air Lines, with five men aboard, was lost in rain and gale swept skies. At times the wind reached a velocity of 70 miles an hour.

During its dramatic and fearsome wanderings the ship roamed as far south as Philadelphia and as far north as Martha's Vineyard, off the Massachusetts coast, and flew helplessly over Delmar, Del.; Camden and Newark, N. J., and other cities, its pilots vainly groping for a landing field that they seemed unable to see or find.

Fuel Supply Runs Short.

All the while its precious fuel supply dwindled at the rate of a gallon a minute. But just as ground crews in half a dozen cities who had scoured the ether with radio messages and beams were despairingly giving up hope the airliner landed at Hartford —safe, but nearly 300 miles from its destination, Washington, D. C. The landing was made at 3:03 a. m., with only 30 minutes' supply of gasoline left.

This thrilling drama of the skies, which almost half the eastern seaboard followed by means of radio, began at 8:32 o'clock last night when the plane took off at Newark for Washington. Aboard were Fred Jones, veteran pilot; James Garrigan, copilot; G. C. Bane of Bethesda, Md., and P. King of Washington, passengers, and a steward named La Mieux. Rain was already pelting down, and winds were high, but it was expected the flight would be made in scheduled time of one hour and twenty minutes.

Runs Into Fierce Storm.

Pilot Jones soon ran into unexpected difficulties, winds that roared at gale proportions of 70 miles an hour. He attempted to buck the elements for an hour but found his plane being pushed back. Visibility was almost zero from rain that blackened further the black night. Jones turned back, intending to land at Newark.

He soon became lost. The fault was due to the failure of the apparatus for following radio beams to function properly. His situation did not, however, become known to ground crews at Washington and Newark until he failed to arrive at the capital on schedule. Then radio messages were sent him, but here again mechanical misfortune joined with the elements to threaten the ship. Static made Jones' radio virtually useless for ten and fifteen minute periods and one full hour period.

Not until 12:20 a. m. was the ship heard, and then over Bear mountain. At 1:05 a. m. Jones sent out his first radio message saying, "I can see lights below," but could not identify them. At 1:15 he reported, "Some one has turned a searchlight on us," but again he could not tell whence the light came. Newark inquired how much gasoline he had left. "One hundred twenty gallons," came the answer. This meant that many minutes aloft.

Appeals to Radio Listeners.

Newark appealed to all short wave listeners to listen for the plane's engines to help them locate the wandering ship. A few minutes later Jones reported, "We're circling some town at 1,100 feet." Again he could not identify the place. "We're trying to circle it," was his added word. Then he radioed, "There are quite a few towns here in a row; we're flying at 1,700 feet." Once he reported he believed he was southwest of Newark.

During the morning, however, his plane was noticed as far away as South Philadelphia, then later near Camden and other towns. Around 2 a. m. Camden airport watchers saw a flare drop out of the inky night. The drama continued for another hour.

In that time, the ship, far off its course, proceeded still farther, to a point near Martha's Vineyard. Then, somehow, Jones found true bearings. He bucked the gale and saw lights in this city. Just before 3 a. m. his plane was heard here. A few minutes later the ship landed.

MUTE AS CHARGE IS READ; ENTER NOT GUILTY PLEA

John Henry Seadlund stood mute yesterday afternoon when he was arraigned in the United States courthouse for the kidnaping that ended in the murder of Charles S. Ross.

Commissioner E. K. Walker.

When the killer failed to enter a plea, Edwin K. Walker, United States commissioner, entered a plea of not guilty for him. This is customary when a prisoner makes no plea.

On the government's request the hearing was continued until Feb. 2, by which time it is expected an indictment will be returned. This will end proceedings before the commissioner and transfer the case into federal court. Because the government asked only ten days' delay it was expected that the trial would begin soon.

A Dramatic Moment.

Twitching, grinning, and kicking at photographers in his path, the killer was taken into the commissioner's office an hour and a half after secret funeral services were held for the slain Ross in the chapel at Rosehill cemetery.

It was a dramatic moment when Seadlund came through the office door in the midst of a score of G-men to face the commissioner, United States Attorney Michael L. Igoe, and heads of the G-men whose search brought his capture at the Santa Anita race track near Los Angeles on Jan. 14.

The two government agents to whose arms the prisoner's handcuffs were chained brought him within four feet of the white haired commissioner in the office, 20x20 feet square.

Lunges at Photographer.

Commissioner Walker called for order among the 100 persons crowded into the tiny office. But a moment later the nervous Seadlund lunged forward and kicked at a photographer, who was obviously out of his reach.

The G-men quickly jerked the prisoner back. He continued muttering, as he had done since he entered the court.

Commissioner Walker turned to William H. McDonnell, United States marshal, and asked:

"Mr. Marshal, have you a prisoner?"

"Yes," the marshal replied.

"Where is he?" asked Walker.

Before the marshal could answer, Seadlund said in a low voice:

"Here."

The Complaint Is Read.

Commissioner Walker read aloud the complaint on which a warrant had just been issued under the so-called Lindbergh kidnaping law. Seadlund's mouth twitched ceaselessly—more, it seemed, from nervousness than fear.

"Mr. Defendant," asked Walker, "are you guilty or not guilty?"

The man who beat and shot Ross to death after collecting the $50,000 ransom grinned. He mumbled unintelligibly.

Commissioner Walker waited; then said:

"Enter it in the records that he stands mute and a plea of not guilty is entered for him."

Igoe, who had previously disclosed that he would go before the grand jury on Friday to ask Seadlund's indictment, said:

"Your honor, we would like a continuance of about 10 days.

"I will continue the case until Feb. 2," the commissioner said.

"You understand this is a case involving capital punishment," the commissioner said to Seadlund. "I shall order you held without bond. Do you understand that?"

Seadlund grinned again and began muttering:

"Yes, yes, I know, I know——"

Seadlund was hurried from the hearing to the marshal's lockup on the same floor, whence he will be taken to the county jail today. He was given a steak dinner—and a fiber knife and fork to eat it with, as the marshal feared he might try to commit suicide if he had metal utensils. Among his effects was a prayer book, brought from his home at Ironton, Minn. At the county jail, Warden Frank Sain said he had a cell prepared for Seadlund.

It was just on schedule, at 4 p. m., that Seadlund was taken across Clark street to the commissioner's office on the eighth floor of the courthouse from the G-man headquarters in the Bankers building. A crowd of 500, waiting in the street, had tied up motor and street car trafic, and 250 more of the curious were waiting in the lobby of the Bankers building.

Ten armed G-men descended from the nineteenth floor headquarters and formed an aile through the lobby. Seconds later, ten more, with Seadlund, stepped from an elevator in charge of D. M. Ladd, chief of the Chicago G-man office, and E. J. Connelly, the Department of Justice inspector from Washington who directed the search for Seadlund in California.

Flying Wedge Formation.

In formation resembling the old-fashioned football flying wedge, the G-men pressed through the crowd, pushing back those who tried to get into the aile. Grinning, but kicking at photographers, Seadlund was rushed across the street and into an elevator. One of his kicks smashed a camera.

The warant had been obtained a short time before, after a conference in Igoe's office attended by Warren Canaday, first assistant to Igoe; Martin Ward, another assistant who will aid Igoe in the prosecution, and Ladd and Connelly.

The G-men read to Igoe Seadlund's twenty-eight page confession and told him their other evidence.

Funeral Attendance Restricted.

The funeral of Ross was held at 2:30 in the chapel at Rosehill cemetery. Mourners arrived in cars numbering almost 75, but only those who had cards of admission were allowed inside.

Ross' widow, Mrs. May Ross, came with Edmund S. Cummings, the family attorney who helped her in negotiations with the kidnapers. She was heavily veiled and weeping.

Government officials disclosed that Seadlund's mother, Mrs. Delia Seadlund, and one of Seadlund's sisters had visited him in his cell Sunday. They wept as they tried to comfort him. After a brief visit, they returned home to Ironton.

The eight G-men searching the wilds around Spooner, Wis., where Ross was held prisoner and killed, returned to Spooner yesterday without finding the men they believe helped the kidnapers choose their hideout. They remained in Spooner, however.

Dugout in Old Well.

Revelation that the dugout in which Ross was held was really an abandoned well which the kidnapers enlarged and lined with timbers lent weight to the belief that Seadlund and his accomplice, James Atwood Gray, had help from a resident of the Spooner vicinity, since no one else would have known of the well's existence.

While Seadlund was being arraigned yesterday the husband of one of his kidnaping victims was being sentenced in Albany, N. Y., to 15 months to five years in prison for carrying a gun. This man was John Borcia, Chicago gambler, whose wife, Olive, was kidnaped by Seadlund near Lake Geneva, Wis., two weeks before the kidnaping of Ross. Seadlund released her when he learned her husband was unable to pay the $5,000 ransom demanded. Borcia later went to Albany, where he was arrested on the gun charge.

'ROSS GAVE ME KIDNAPING IDEA,' KILLER DECLARES

Remark at Roadside Leads to Victim's Death.

Charles S. Ross put the idea of kidnaping into the minds of the kidnapers by a chance remark, according to th story John Henry Seadlund told last night after his arraignment for the crime.

Telling the story as a federal agent was taking his family history, the confessed kidnaper revealed that it was he and not his accomplice, James Atwood Gray, who forced Ross out of his car at the point of a gun last Sept. 25.

"It was a plain stickup," Seadlund said. "Ross said as he got out of the car:

"'Gee, I always figured I'd be kidnaped some day.'

"That was the first time I'd thought of kidnaping him. 'You've got dough,' I said."

Picked At Random, He Says.

Seadlund said that no third person had put the kidnapers on Ross' trail. They were roaming the road, and picked him at random.

Asked if he would plead guilty, Seadlund answered:

"I'll plead guilty to the kidnaping but not to the murder."

[He seemingly did not know that no murder charge is contemplated, since the kidnaping charge carries the death penalty.]

Although he has confessed the beating in which Ross' skull was shattered, Seadlund went on:

"I thought he was dead when I shot him. So that's not murder."

Of Gray, whom Seadlund also shot, he said:

"We were fighting. It was his life or mine. That's not murder."

Sorry the Next Day.

Asked if he were sorry, Seadlund answered:

"I was sorry the day after I grabbed Ross."

The kidnaper said he did not return to Chicago after collecting the ransom. The nearest he approached Chicago, he said, was Rockford. Hence the ransom bills found in circulation here must have found their way from some other point, he said.

Offered a cigaret, the kidnaper declined, saying:

"No. I quit New Year's day because I was starting to be good."

CRIMINAL COURT.

Edgar Carr, rape, sentenced to two years in the penitentiary; Theodore Powers, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary; Raymond Bergstrom and Sheldon Brand, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary; John Sragido, larceny of an automobile, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary; Gus Novak, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Rush.

William Schumacher, confidence game, sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary; Louis Rawski, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary; Walter Kozel, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Francis B. Allegretti.

The trial of Attorney Harold Jackson and his investigator, J. S. Stahl, charged with conspiracy to collect a false accident claim from the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville [Monon] railroad, started yesterday before a jury in Judge Robert J. Dunne's Criminal court.

Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown, outlining the case, told the jury that the railroad was sued despite the fact that Rosemary Kieffer, 9 years old, of Michigan City, Ind., the victim of the alleged accident, was injured by an automobile several miles from the railroad crossing where the accident was said to have occurred on April 16, 1935.

Attorney Cameron Latter, representing Jackson and Stahl, said he would show the charges were brought by the railroad to avoid payment of the $50,000 verdict awarded Rosemary last July in Circuit court. The verdict was set aside last Oct. 7 by Judge Paul McWilliams in Circuit court after Mrs. Frieda Hanief, a witness for the girl, admitted perjury.

CHURCH WORKER TWICE VICTIM OF ACID THROWER

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—City and private police tonight were searching for a mysterious acid thrower who twice within the last ten days has attacked Miss H. E. Irene Wilson, 35 years old, school teacher and church worker. The last attack occurred last night.

A woman telephoned Miss Wilson and asked her to hurry and lend aid to a neighbor, whose home was burning. As Miss Wilson stepped out the door a few minutes later, some one threw acid at her. The acid seared her legs and damaged her dress. The assailant escaped.

Ten days ago, in the basement of the Union Congregational church, an unidentified person threw the same kind of acid, and Miss Wilson then was burned on the ankles.

In both attacks the acid thrower aimed low, evidently not wishing to disfigure Miss Wilson. She does not know whether her assailant is a man or woman. No official report was made to police. Their efforts to question Miss Wilson were met by the statement that private detectives are investigating. It is understood that Miss Wilson has received threatening phone calls and letters protesting against her church work. She is a Sunday school teacher and also a teacher of styles and dressmaking in the Peoria High school.

INTANGIBLES TAX ON OUT OF STATE FIRMS IS STUDIED

Cook county's right to tax intangible assets of out of state corporations which do business in Chicago or have their headquarters here will be discussed at a conference of county officials and lawyers for some of the companies today. Assessor John S. Clark, members of the board of tax appeals, and Assistant State's Attorney William T. Crilly will take part in the conference.

Assessor Clark has placed 30 to 40 million dollars in assessments on intangibles of companies incorporated outside Illinois on the 1937 personal property roll. In one case, that of Wheelock-Lovejoy, Inc., the Illinois Supreme court held a few months ago that such assets are not taxable here.

Assessor Clark maintains that the decision did not close the door to assessments on other companies, because attorneys for the county stipulated that the company paid taxes elsewhere on its stocks and bonds, whereas later information disclosed that part, at least, of these assets were going untaxed.

FINES REPORTERS FOR CONTEMPT IN STORIES ON TRIAL

Hastings, Minn., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Two newspaper men were found guilty of contempt of court and fined by Judge W. A. Schultz today in connection with stories the judge called false and untrue relating to the trial of Beatrice Johnke, charged with the poison murder of her husband.

William Chance, reporter for the St. Paul Daily News, was fined $30, with the alternative of fifteen days in jail, while Willis M. Kimball, Minneapolis Journal reporter, was fined $20, with ten days in jail as the alternative. Both paid their fines. Stories were printed in the two papers Saturday to the effect that three women jurors were missing and that a mistrial might result.

Convict 3 of Listening In on Colorado's Governor

Denver, Colo., Jan. 24.—(AP)—A jury convicted three men today of eavesdropping by concealing microphones in the offices of Gov. Teller Ammons. Those convicted were Earl Ellis, Denver attorney; Walden E. Sweet, former newspaper reporter, and Jack H. Gilmore, private investigator. The maximum penalty is one year in the county jail and a $300 fine.

FIVE GO ON TRIAL IN N. Y. AS RENO SWINDLING GANG

Case Is Before Justice Van Devanter.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Charged with operating a far flung swindling ring which extracted $2,500,000 from 70 wealthy victims who were lured to Reno, Nev., five men went on trial here today. They are before a jury in the Federal District court of Judge Willis Van Devanter, 78 years old, retired associate justice of the United States Supreme court.

William Power Maloney, assistant United States district attorney, told the jury in his opening statement that the racket was carried on through the corruption of police and authorities at Reno by two of the defendants, William J. Graham and James C. McKay, millionaire gambling kings of the divorce citadel.

Described as Like Spiders.

Maloney described the two gamblers as sitting like spiders in a web at Reno waiting with their well oiled machinery to dupe the victims snared in cities all over the country and brought to them by the other three men on trial.

The prosecutor said the racket was operated this way: The confidence men made a victim believe he had won a fortune on stocks or horse racing. Then they insisted he show his good faith by posting a sum of money and made him bring his securities to Reno. After the securities were cashed a final fictitious transaction wiped out all the sucker's profits.

The "right jug" [jargon for a bank that cashes securities without questioning too closely] in Reno was the Riverside bank, according to Maloney. McKay and Graham, the prosecutor said, furnished the bank with money to cash securities and later got the funds away from the victims.

Stresses Municipal Corruption.

Maloney also stressed a back drop of municipal corruption in Reno, where Graham and McKay were partners in the town's legalized gambling emporiums. He said they operated the Bank and Fortune clubs and the Cal-Neva lodge at Lake Tahoe, as well as the Stockade, a licensed vice establishment.

On the eve of the gamblers' trial one of the government's chief witnesses, George [Lefty] Harding, former Reno police lieutenant, disappeared. His case is almost identical with that of Roy J. Frisch, Reno bank cashier, who vanished just before a former trial of Graham and McKay.

Among witnesses the government has ready for the trial is John Paul Chase, one time pal of the slain Baby Face Nelson. Chase was brought here from Alcatraz Island penitentiary, where he was sent after a trial in Chicago for the murder of a government agent. He will be asked if he and Nelson were hired to do away with Frisch.

Third Trial of Charges.

Most of the day was consumed by the selection of a jury which was conducted painstakingly by Judge Van Devanter.

The examination of prospective jurors was enlivened when one talesman said he could not serve because he was connected with a bank which was assisting in a report on the automobile industry for President Roosevelt. Judge Van Devanter excused him, remarking dryly: "We do not want to interfere with the President's plans."

This is the third trial of Graham and McKay, the first two having resulted in jury disagreements. There is no precedent for a fourth trial in federal procedure. The defendants are charged with using the mails to defraud and the trial is held in New York because the securities of the victims were liquidated here.

HIRED ASSASSIN TO GET CHANCE FOR FINAL PLEA

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Angelo Ralph Giancola of St. Louis, scheduled to go to the electric chair at the state penitentiary at Menard early Friday with Mrs. Marie Porter, who hired him to kill her brother, will be given one more chance tomorrow afternoon to submit new evidence to the pardon board in support of his application for commutation.

By reprieves Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, acting as chief executive during the absence of Gov. Henry Horner, last Thursday postponed for one week the execution dates for Giancola and Mrs. Porter.

The pardon hearing will be for Giancola only and, unless plans are changed, will not involve Mrs. Porter, who had her brother, William Kappen, slain on his wedding day so she could collect his insurance money. Mrs. Porter is the mother of four children.

Gov. Horner refused to commute the death sentence for Mrs. Porter, who would be the first woman executed in Illinois since 1845.

COUNCIL TO GET RELIEF SURVEY REPORT TODAY

A final report on a relief survey in Chicago will be presented today to the Illinois Council on Public Assistance and Employment. A. E. Rose, director of the survey, and his staf have compiled the report from material gathered by business men lent to the council by Chicago firms.

Walter S. Gregory, vice president of the Palmer house and chairman of the council, said he will convey the report to Gov. Horner if it is approved by the council.

State WPA Chiefs Meet, Plan 50,000 More Jobs

Howard O. Hunter, regional director of the Works Progress administration in charge of 17 central western states, met yesterday with state directors to plan WPA needs for next month. The quota for the region is now 670,750 workers. Hunter said approximately 50,000 more jobs will be needed next month due to business layoffs. He estimated that from 5,000 to 10,000 more WPA workers will be alloted to Illinois, which now has a quota of 67,000.

CRIME RECORD OF U. S. CAPITAL TOPS BIG CITIES

Thefts Comprise Most of Violations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Attorney General Homer Cummings denounced the national capital's crime record as a national disgrace in a speech today before the Washington Criminal Justice association.

"Washington should be a model city," he said. "It should stand first in law enforcement and last in the number of crimes committed.

"With an estimated population of 640,000, Washington according to department of justice statistics for the third quarter of 1937 is tenth from top of the list in the number of murders and manslaughters among the ninety-three cities with a population of more than 100,000, eighth in aggravated assaults, seventh in auto thefts, sixth in thefts under $50, and third in thefts over $50.

"In the number of robberies it is seventh. In the number of burglaries and housebreakings it is fifth.

A Crime Center.

"One can make all the allowances he may wish for differences in assembling statistical information and the peculiar problems of the capital, but the bold fact remains that Washington is far too near the top in the list of ill-ordered communities. It stands forth conspicuously as a crime center."

Crime listed in the third quarter of 1937 by the federal bureau of investigation shows the following figures for Chicago, Washington, and New York:

Crime—	Chicago.	Wash'ton.	New York.
Murder, manslaughter	61	26	85
Robbery	1,195	211	273
Assault	438	167	887
Burglary	2,987	768	866
Auto thefts	744	677	1,775

Thefts of money not included since New York City does not report them.

Chicago Averages Smaller.

Adjusted figures on the basis of Chicago's population being approximately five times larger than Washington's show that conditions in the capital are much more serious, there being in Chicago only 61 per cent as many murders per capita; 53 per cent as many aggravated assaults; 77 per cent as many burglaries; 48 per cent as many thefts over $50; 35 per cent as many thefts under $50, and 22 per cent as many auto thefts. However, Chicago had 13 per cent more robberies than Washington.

In total number of offenses Chicago's crime rating among the large cities is second in murders; first in robberies, second in assaults, first in burglaries, first in thefts under $50, second in thefts over $50, and fourth in auto thefts.

HODES CONTENDS RACE BET LAWS WILL OUST GAMBLERS FROM CITY

Enforcement of the ordinance licensing race track brokers in Chicago will drive bookmakers and other professional gamblers from the field, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes asserted yesterday in an answer filed in the Circuit court to the quo warranto action brought by Attorney General Otto Kerner.

Quo warranto proceedings were started on Jan. 8 at the request of Mayor Kelly to get a ruling on the ordinance from the state Supreme court within a few months. In this litigation the city is directed to show by what legal authority the city council passed the licensing ordinance on Dec. 22.

The quo warranto case was assigned to Judge Harry Fisher. Attorney General Kerner is expected to study Hodes' answer for several days before having the case called. Whichever way Judge Fisher rules, the losing side will carry the appeal to the Supreme court, according to agreement.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MISS PINCHOT OF STAGE FAME ENDS HER LIFE

Pipes Exhaust Gas Into Sealed Sedan.

The body of the tall, blonde actress, clad in a white evening gown and an ermine wrap, was found at the wheel of her sedan in the garage behind her hilltop mansion on an old Brookville, N. Y., estate she had rented.

The sedan had been turned into a gas chamber. It was closed tightly except for a tiny opening of the window beside the driver's seat. A garden hose ran from the exhaust into this opening, the rest of which was stuffed with a lap robe to keep the gas from escaping.

Mother of Two Children.

Miss Pinchot, who was 32 years old, was the estranged wife of William Gaston, lawyer and playwright, by whom she had two children, William Gaston Jr., 9 years old, and James Pinchot Gaston, 5 years old.

Close friends of Miss Pinchot said today they could think of only one reason strong enough to make her kill herself. She must have decided she could not live without her husband.

"He was her one love," an intimate said. "She had the misfortune to be the type who falls in love only once in her life."

Fails to Make Movies.

Miss Pinchot, whose career began when she appeared as the nun in Max Reinhardt's production of "The Miracle," had failed to succeed in the movies when she went to Hollywood a few years ago, but her friends said this did not trouble her. As one put it, "She had no illusions about her abilities as an actress."

When the body was found by a maid at 7 a. m. Miss Pinchot's servants were unable to understand the white finery in which she was arrayed.

She had no appointments last night, they said. She did not go out and she had no callers. Yet her body was wrapped in ermine when they found her, dressed in white as though for a ball.

Separation Amicable.

The servants said Miss Pinchot had been depressed for the last two years over her separation from her husband, although it appeared to be an amicable enough arrangement in which they dined together and he sometimes visited her at home.

Recently, they said, she seemed more depressed than usual and frequently would go away for hours at a time. She went for a long walk yesterday afternoon.

This morning Ida Hannimen, a maid, went to the garage and found her. The engine had stopped. There were two notes, contents of which were concealed.

Nassau county police barred the estate to inquirers and made every effort to keep news of Miss Pinchot's death from leaking out, but they succeeded for only a few hours. Later, Inspector Harold R. King said so far as the police are concerned the case is closed.

Family Scattered Widely.

Friends of the family said Miss Pinchot's mother, divorced from her father, lives in Tucson, Ariz., and is very ill. Mr. Pinchot, a lawyer and publicist, lives here with his second wife and their two children. The actress' brother, Gifford Pinchot II., is said to be in France.

In 1926 Miss Pinchot announced she was quitting the stage. But she didn't, not even after her marriage in 1928 to Gaston, a world war flyer, and a member of an old Massachusetts family.

Picked for Stardom

OLYMPE BRADNA.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Phyllis Welch of the M-G-M studio was today placed at the top of a movie directors' list of eight women and two men most likely to reach stardom in the films this year. Annabella of Twentieth Century-Fox was second and Olympe Bradna of Paramount was third. Others on the list are Marjorie Weaver, Twentieth Century-Fox; Mary Maguire, Warner Brothers; Wayne Morris, Warner Brothers; Florence George, Paramount; Allan Lane, RKO; Ann Rutherford, M-G-M, and Joan Woodbury, RKO.

UNFAITHFUL WITH A MR. X? SILLY, SAYS WIFE OF 61

Mrs. Philo Orton Replies to Divorce Suit.

Mrs. Marie M. Orton, a grandmother, 61 years old, contended yesterday it was ridiculous to accuse her of infidelity. It also was absurd, she maintained, to infer she had become unladylike due to the presence of a Mr. X in her home.

Mrs. Orton set up these arguments in an answer filed in Circuit court to the divorce suit of her husband Philo A. Orton, president of the Orton Crane and Shovel company.

Orton, who is 64 and lives at the Stevens hotel, filed his suit after Mrs. Orton sued for separate maintenance, charging desertion. They were married Sept. 6, 1898, and have three grown sons.

Willing to Name Mr. X.

Mr. Orton averred he left home Oct. 23, 1933, after the mysterious Mr. X came to live there at his wife's request. Mr. Orton shielded the identity of the mystery man, but said he was willing to disclose it in court.

Mr. X is probably "a gentleman who came to live with us for six weeks in 1933," said Mrs. Orton, who lives at 5204 Greenwood avenue. If so, Mrs. Orton said, he is the husband of a dear friend of twenty-five years standing who came to Chicago while his wife was making arrangements to move their home from Michigan.

Mr. Orton declared his wife brought Mr. X home after meeting him in Florida, and thereafter began telling risque stories, drinking liquor, and using off color language.

Silly, Says Mrs. Orton.

These charges are silly, replied Mrs. Orton, who said she never used language stronger than "darn." As for Mr. X, Mrs. Orton said she met both him and his wife in Florida. Furthermore, she declared, he paid rent during his visit.

Her husband's suggestion that she get a job and support herself, Mrs. Orton stated, was unreasonable and preposterous, particularly since she spent thirty-five of their forty wedded years rearing a family of three sons.

But the accusation which irritated her most, Mrs. Orton declared, was the one of adultery. This charge against a grandmother of her years, she said, was malicious, false, and unwarranted.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan will hear both sides of the controversy on Feb. 14.

SEIZED AFTER PHONING AGENCY SECOND TIME FOR A PRETTY NURSE

Robert Ambrose.

Robert Ambrose, a private investigator, felt sick Sunday, or thought he did, anyway, and telephoned the Avondale Nurses' registry, 4825 Montrose avenue, to send a nurse to his home at 85 West Maple street.

Miss Dorothy Johnson, 28 years old, and pretty, hurried down. She didn't think he was so sick, although he insisted he was. Instead, she complained later, she thought he was very amorous. She left, explaining her business was to take care of people who were sick—not love sick.

Ambrose waited a while and called up the agency again and asked, according to Dora Clark, who took the message, that another nurse be sent to him, specifying that she be "as pretty as the first one, but a little thinner." Police were notified. Yesterday Detectives Albert Larson and Thomas Murray of the Chicago avenue station arrested Ambrose, and although he said he really wanted a nurse to take care of his ailing mother in Wisconsin, he'll be asked to explain himself at the sex bureau today. Ambrose is 53 years old and married.

FUMIGATE GOODS OF 30 TENANTS IN FEDERAL HOUSES

The household goods and personal belongings of 30 families that began moving into the Jane Addams houses, federal housing project at Roosevelt road and Racine avenue, were piled into a special fumigation chamber in the basement of the apartment building yesterday. After a six hour fumigation the goods were set out to air. Today the families can move into the apartments they have chosen.

The fumigation is a routine procedure which all tenants of the federal houses must follow, said Arthur Bohnen of the Chicago Housing authority. Between 40 and 50 leases have been signed by prospective tenants in the Julia Lathrop homes, Diversey parkway and the river.

MAY BE KIDNAP VICTIM OF 1870; WRITES SHERIF

Edwardsville, Ill., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The following letter from Louis Augusta Walch, Camden, N. J., has been received here by Sheriff Simon Henry of Madison county: "Will you kindly look over your criminal records and see if you can find where a boy was kidnaped in 1870 and his mother shot by the kidnapers. If so kindly advise the name of the party shot as I think that was my mother, that I am the boy who was kidnaped. I am trying to find my people and want to learn my real name."

DEKE CHAPTER IS BARRED FROM SOCIAL ACTIVITY

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The University of Illinois chapter of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity was denied social privileges until Sept. 1, 1938, by the university senate committee on discipline today. Officers of the fraternity were ordered to resign and are forbidden to hold further office so long as they are undergraduates. Neither will they be allowed to hold student activities offices.

The disciplinary committee, after intensive investigation, found the fraternity guilty of having violated regulations concerning unchaperoned mixed parties in men's houses and of having attempted to interfere with university police in the discharge of their duty.

It is said the trouble started when several girls attended a party at the chapter house several weeks ago.

The disciplinary committee notified the fraternity that further violations of university regulations probably would result in a demand for suspension or revocation of the chapter.

AUTOS ORDERED OFF DANGEROUS ILLINOIS LAKES

State authorities banned motorists from driving on the ice on all lakes in northern Illinois yesterday as a result of accidents Sunday in which two automobiles plunged through the ice on Lake county lakes. In one tragedy two boys were drowned.

Anthony Maggio, inspector for the 1st district of the state conservation department, which includes Cook and Lake counties, ordered deputy game wardens to enforce the order. It affects principally the fifty-five lakes in the western part of Lake county, where the ice has become treacherous during the recent mild weather.

JURY TO HEAR CONFESSION OF WRIGHT TODAY

Widow of Slaying Victim and Maid Testify.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Paul A. Wright's confession of how and why he killed his wife and best friend will be heard in Superior Judge Ingall Bull's court tomorrow. The story will be told to the jury by Police Chief V. B. Browne of Glendale who will read the questions asked by the police and the answers made by Wright when he was booked on two counts of murder after the slayings.

Police Chief Browne's appearance on the witness stand may be preceded tomorrow morning by that of Dr. A. F. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon. Dr. Wagner's testimony is expected to prove or refute charges by Wright that he slew his wife Evelyn and John Kimmel because he was so shocked and enraged by the position in which he found them in his home that he shot them in righteous fury.

Widow Weeps on Stand.

Mrs. Karrene Kimmel, widow of the slain man, told the jury today that after her husband had died she took his clothing home.

"Next day I sent the suit to the cleaners and got out another one for the funeral," she said. She broke down momentarily under cross-examination by Jerry Giesler, defense counsel, but regained her composure and finished her testimony.

Leona Navy, colored maid in the Wright home, testified that after she had ventured from her bedroom shortly after hearing shots, Wright laid his head on her shoulder and said:

"Leona, I've shot my wife and killed my best friend. I caught her cheating—cheating."

Tells of Last Day at Home.

"Wright was coherent and rational, wasn't he?" Chief Prosecutor S. Ernest Roll, asked the witness.

"Sure—yes, sir," the maid replied. She seemed astonished that Wright should have been considered anything else.

The witness then described the last day of the Wrights before tragedy struck their home. Wright carried a glass of orange juice to his wife and then ate his own breakfast, then he went outside, worked in the garden and played with their child, the maid said.

When Mrs. Wright arose early in the afternoon the maid saw her at the living room window which Wright was washing from the outside with a hose.

Mention of that last breakfast brought tears to the defendant's eyes. The dusky witness for the state also wiped away evidence of emotion.

MOTORMAN ON 'L' BLAMES FOG FOR CRASH INJURING 12

A heavy fog was blamed for the crash between two elevated trains early yesterday at the Laramine avenue station on the Lake street line in which twelve persons were injured, one of them seriously. The victims were riding in the front wooden coach on a two car local which smashed into a train of five empty cars standing in the station.

The motorman of the moving train, William Spencer, 67 years, 552 North Le Claire avenue, said that he could hardly see the train ahead in the darkness, but believed it was about to start and he was traveling at low speed when the collision occurred. Spencer, seriously hurt when the wooden coach telescoped into the train ahead, was taken to the West Suburban hospital.

Mrs. Anna Wynn, 40 years old, 810 North Washtenaw avenue, a passenger, suffered a broken nose and was taken to St. Anne's hospital. Ten other passengers were treated at hospitals and allowed to go home.

REPORT PLOT TO KILL GREEK KING; CENSORSHIP ON

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Jan. 24.—All signs point to a rigorous censorship in Greece during the last twenty-four hours, betokening important political events.

The first indication of it was the reported exile of former Premier George Kaphandaris, which still lacks confirmation. However, it is officially conceded that several leaders of old political parties have been sent to penal islands for activity against the régime.

By way of Sofia, Bulgaria, the story comes that the reason for the excitement in Athens is discovery of a plot engineered by the former director of public security, M. Polychromopulos, to assassinate King George and Prince Paul, heir to the throne, on the occasion of the latter's marriage, and also Premier John Metaxas on another occasion. The rumors could not be verified.

It is recalled that four years ago Polychromopulos was charged with preparing the attempted assassination of the late Demetrios Veniselos and his wife.

HORSE WORSHIP CULTISTS FIGHT POLICE; 140 DIE

Prophet of Brazil Sect Escapes Capture.

RECIFE, Brazil, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Pernambuco state officials tonight disclosed that 140 members of a rebellious religious sect, worshipers of the horse god Trancelim, had been killed in a backwoods battle with Brazilian police.

Five policemen were killed and ten wounded in the fighting which took place in a remote section of Bahia state.

Details of the battle were told in dispatches from Capt. Optato Quelroz, commander of a military police detachment operating against the sect headed by José Lourenco, prophet of the horse god.

Fight for Forty-two Hours.

"After a forty-two hour combat we have dominated the stronghold of the fanatics in Casanova township, killing 140 of them in addition to those wounded," the captain reported.

"Lourenco was among those who escaped in the hand to hand fighting. Our military detachment consisted of ninety-six men, five of whom were killed and ten wounded."

A punitive expedition was sent against the strange religious cult last autumn when political leaders began to fear the growing power of Lourenco and his equine god.

Horse God Refuses Fodder.

The horse, to the horror of cult members, was captured by police in a raid on a meeting last September. In custody Trancelim refused fodder, wasted away, and died.

Lourenco escaped and continued his cult without the horse. Several times police had closed in on the leader and his horse worshiping followers, but each time Lourenco escaped.

POLAND OFFERS TRUCE TO WITOS, EXILED PREMIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Jan. 24.—An invitation to Vincenty Witos, leader of the Polish Peasants party now exiled in Czechoslovakia, to visit America for a lecture tour, is having important repercussions in Warsaw. The government has opened negotiations to seek a compromise with the former premier.

The lecture invitation was extended by Polish groups in America, where followers of Ignace Paderewski, famous pianist and former Polish president, are opposed to the present régime of Pilsudski legionnaires.

Followers of Paderewski and Witos recently joined forces in an attempt to compel reorganization of the government and to obtain cabinet posts for themselves. Because of pending negotiations, the Peasants party has postponed its annual congress, scheduled to be held in Cracow on Jan. 30 until the end of February.

FLOODS RECEDE AS COLD WAVE FOLLOWS RAINS

Hundreds Forced from Homes; One Dead.

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Falling temperatures and an end of heavy rains caused a recession tonight of flood waters that surged out of rain swollen streams all through northern Illinois and in southern Wisconsin.

The high water took at least one life and drove hundreds of families from their homes. Forty head of cattle drowned, thousands of acres of farm lands were inundated, and considerable damage was caused to winter wheat crops.

Eddie Proctor, 6 years old, drowned at Amboy, Ill., in the swift current of an ordinarily dry run as he walked to school. Two young companions who were fording the stream with him reached safety.

Rain Averages Two Inches.

The floods were caused by torrential rains that had fallen steadily since yesterday over the entire area. An average of more than 2 inches of rain fell and records were established in several places. At Peoria, Ill., 3.92 inches of rain broke an 87 year record. The rain had ceased tonight and snow was falling.

Most of the damage was done by overflowing streams in the Rock and Fox river watersheds. Rockford's southeast section, a district of some thirty blocks, was hardest hit. More than 200 persons were moved from flooded homes there. Among those evacuated were two expectant mothers and patients suffering from scarlet fever and chicken pox.

Jammed ice in the Rock river in downtown Rockford was blasted to avert an ice dam that might have raised water back into the business district. The water flowed from one to two feet deep in streets in the low southeast district.

Many Rescued by Boatmen.

Many persons were rescued by boatmen. Mrs. Charity Robinson, 88 years old, a baby, and nine other persons were taken ashore in launches from their flooded homes on islands in the Fox river near Aurora which were inundated.

Thousands of acres were under water in west Bureau county. It was there damage was done to winter wheat. Numerous families living near Mineral were forced to leave their homes. State route 6 was covered with water in both directions from that village for several hours.

State police and volunteers dragged the swollen waters of Indian creek, four miles south of Kewanee, after Ralph Hartness, 20 years old, of Elmwood, a baker truck driver, was reported missing. His truck was found in the creek late today after the water had receded.

The rising Galena river flowed over Commerce street in Galena, 75 miles west of Rockford. Several stores on the street and the main business thoroughfares were flooded. In Marengo, on the Kiskwaukee river, the north section of the city was covered with water.

Forty Cattle Drowned.

Forty head of cattle drowned near Lewiston, Ill., despite efforts of men in boats to rescue them. Twenty other animals were rescued from deep water near Duncantown. The floor of the municipal water pumping station at Canton was covered with six inches of water.

The village of Ray in Schuyler county was flooded when McKee creek overflowed after a 3.5 inch rain. A track washout on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad interrupted service between Ray and Rushville. The Illinois river was rising one inch an hour at Beardstown, but had not reached a danger stage.

Wisconsin was attacked by both floods and blizzards. A raging snow storm swept the northern and western part of the state, drifts blocking many highways. In the southern section sheet ice and water were threats to transportation.

At Janesville, Wis., high water caused several families to flee from their homes and washed a bridge out east of the city. Fifty families were moved from the flood area at Beloit, Wis., and South Beloit, Ill., when their homes were menaced by the overflow from Turtle creek.

Northern Minnesota and Michigan were lashed by a 50 mile an hour gale accompanied by a cold wave as the storm swept eastward. Winds caused heavy damage at Duluth, Minn. A Chicago bound bus was stalled 14 miles from Superior, Wis.

STORMY LAKE BALKS EFFORT TO RESCUE 2 MAROONED ON ISLAND

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 24.—(AP)—High seas and a lashing gale over Lake Superior forced the coast guard cutter Diligence to abandon efforts tonight to reach two marooned fishermen on Cat Island, off the Wisconsin shore.

The Diligence returned here after a six hour fight against the storm. Members of the crew, however, hoped to make another attempt at dawn tomorrow.

The fishermen, Conrad Shovick and Henry Aiken, have been marooned on the island since Jan. 12. They had gone there by dog team, but shifting winds broke the ice and the floes drifted out.

PUMMEL STREET CAR BANDIT WHO TRIES ROBBERY

Frank Felt, 28 years old, 143½ North Central avenue, was overpowered and captured early today when he tried to rob a conductor on a Pulaski road street car at Lake street.

According to the conductor, Michael J. Masterson, 1318 South Kolin avenue, Felt, with his right hand in his pocket as though he had a gun, demanded his money. Angelo Passarella, 40 years old, 2439 South Avers avenue, a passenger, overheard the demand, police said, and knocked Felt down and leaped upon him.

Passarella and Masterson then overpowered him, and turned him over to Policeman Andrew Goralka, of the Fillmore street station, at Madison street. Police said that Felt will be questioned about several recent street car holdups, and also the holdup murder of Conductor Truman Hanmer on a 47th street car early Sunday.

BRITISH TRY OUT NEW SHIP TO FLY 42 PASSENGERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Great Britain's newest airliner, the twenty ton, forty-two passenger "Ensign," a monoplane, passed its first flying tests today. It is the first of fourteen of this type craft being built at Hamble, near Southampton, for the Imperial Airways to fly over empire and European routes.

The plane has a wing spread of 123 feet, an over all length of 110 feet, and is powered by four 880 horse power supercharged Armstrong-Siddeley "Tiger" engines. The plane is said to have a top speed of 200 miles an hour.

WINDSORS DROP PLANS FOR LONG OCEAN VOYAGE

Will Push Search for a House Instead.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 24.—An ocean voyage, possibly ending in the United States, which the duke and duchess of Windsor had been contemplating, has been canceled, THE TRIBUNE learned today from a source close to the couple.

Instead of making a trip, they will intensify the house hunting which has absorbed most of their attention recently, and will settle down in or near Paris for a prolonged stay as soon as they have found a suitable home.

This is a new development, for until today it generally was believed that Edward and Wally were planning to make a long trip somewhere as soon as they found the house where they could deposit surplus baggage pending their return — in fact, the annoyance of traveling around with mountains of baggage is supposed to be one of the main motives for taking a house.

It is chiefly the duchess who does the house hunting, THE TRIBUNE learns, although occasionally Edward accompanies her, if some particularly interesting prospect turns up. When not accompanying Wally, Edward plays golf with the professional, Audrey Boomer, at the St. Cloud club.

The Windsors have been living very quietly since their return from the Riviera, doing virtually no entertaining and going out little. Wally explains to all friends that they do not feel like any serious social activity until they have settled down in their own home.

ANNUL MARRIAGE OF A KERNER AID; WEDDED ALREADY

Edwardsville, Ill., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The secret marriage of Simon Kellerman III. of Edwardsville, Ill., an assistant attorney general, and the secret annulment of that marriage a short time later because he already had a wife, became known tonight. The temporary bride was Mrs. Irene Ludlum Peterson of Kewanee.

Both are prominent politically downstate as vice presidents of the Illinois State Young People's Democratic club. Mrs. Peterson is also president of the Kewanee Business and Professional Women's club.

The two were married in Davenport, Ia., at 3:30 a. m. last Dec. 19, after a political meeting. On Dec. 27 the marriage was annuled here by Judge D. H. Mudge on the showing by Kellerman that he was still married to his first wife. Judge Mudge quoted him as saying "he did not realize what he was doing" at the time. In Chicago, Attorney General Otto Kerner said his aid's marriage looked like an escapade.

ITALIAN FLYERS REACH DAKAR ON HOP TO BRAZIL

Duce's Son Leads Airmen on 2,800 Mile Jump.

DAKAR, French West Africa, Jan. 24.—(AP)—An Italian squadron led by Bruno Mussolini, 20 years old, son of Il Duce, rested here tonight after a 2,800 mile hop from Rome—the first part of a propaganda and experimental flight across the Atlantic to Rio de Janeiro.

The three fast tri-motored Italian planes were brought down at Dakar airport just 10 hours and 50 minutes after taking off from Rome's Guidonia military airport.

The flyers were greeted by French officials and the Italian consul as they climbed from their planes, named Green Mice.

The planes, each carrying a five man crew, were piloted by Mussolini, Col. Attileo Biseo, young Mussolini's flying companion in the Spanish civil war, and Maj. Nino Moscatelli.

[Rome dispatches said no news of the flight had been published in Italy late in the day. They said Premier Mussolini had ordered the news withheld until the outcome of the venture was known.]

The flyers, after leaving Rome, struck directly across the Mediterranean and flew over the wastelands of northwest Africa to the Atlantic coast about 700 miles north and east of Dakar. From there they followed the coast line down over Port Etienne and St. Louis.

The flight was made difficult by the fact that the planes were loaded with gasoline enough for 3,750 miles. The weight made it harder for the planes to fly over mountain ranges along the way. The machines are sleek S-79 monoplanes. One of them won for Italy the Istres-Damascus-Paris air race last year.

City's Revenue from Auto Licenses Is $3,892,982

Requests for 1938 city vehicle licenses continued to decline yesterday when 9,401 were issued from the office of City Clerk Peter J. Brady, making a total to date of 420,396, costing $3,892,982. During the day police issued 264 court summonses to motorists driving without new licenses.

"Time after time I've seen Lucky Strike get the prettiest tobacco in the auction. That's one reason I've smoked Luckies ever since I've been an auctioneer.
"Another reason I and so many other tobacco auctioneers prefer Luckies is because we have to watch out for our throats." (Luckies are extra-easy on the throat because the "Toasting" process takes out certain irritants found in even the finest tobacco.)
Mr. Riggs goes on to say that Luckies are the top cigarette with people who know tobacco. And he is talking facts.

MANY CITIES HIT AS FOES EXTEND AIR WAR IN CHINA

Jap Planes Take Off from Aircraft Carrier.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 25 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Both Chinese and Japanese reported a series of damaging air attacks in widely separated areas today.

Chinese said their air force, which "is becoming stronger," had destroyed the Japanese airdrome at Wuhu, sixty miles up the Yangtze from Nanking, and had bombed Japanese positions south of Wuhu "with damaging effect."

Japanese planes, operating from an aircraft carrier off the north coast of Kiangsu province, repeatedly bombed Suchow, strategic railway junction north of Nanking.

The Japanese declared their bombs destroyed tracks, locomotives, and cars in the sheds and troop barracks. Japanese infantry columns pushing toward the city from the north and south fought indecisive engagements.

Build Base at Tsingtao.

Japanese occupation and establishment of a military base at Tsingtao, Shantung province seaport, was reported going ahead with a minimum of friction between Japanese and foreign residents. Four cases in which Japanese soldiers searched British property for "bad elements" were reported.

The Japanese also reported they had destroyed Chinese aircraft and hangars near the central China cities of Changsha and Ichang and were continuing their bombardment of railroads in the Canton area in South China. At Ichang a number of suburban houses were wrecked and forty civilians killed and wounded. Some of the bombs fell in the Yangtze river not far from the United States gunboat Tutuila.

War Lord Han Fu-chu Shot.

HANKOW, China, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Gen. Han Fu-chu, who failed to prevent the Japanese armies from conquering most of Shantung province, today was found guilty of treason and shot.

Gen. Han had been governor and "war lord" of Shantung since 1930. Shortly after he abandoned his capital, Tsinan, to the Japanese invaders last month he was arrested on orders of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

He was tried by court martial on charges of disobeying orders from his superiors, retreating on his own initiative, misappropriating public funds, and forcing the sale of opium. Gen. Han, who was 48 years old, was the third former war lord to be removed from authority. The others were Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, governor of Shansi province, and Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, famed "Christian general," North China militarist.

Assail Japanese Tariffs.

The Chinese finance ministry today asserted that tarif reductions put into effect by the Japanese inspired North China régime at Peking would destroy the integrity of China's national financial system and jeopardize payments to bondholders and foreign nations which are secured by customs revenues.

The tarif reductions ranged from 30 to 90 per cent on a number of items, most of which are produced by Japan.

"If the action remains unchallenged," the finance ministry said, "Japan will possess a powerful weapon to keep commodities from other countries out of that part of China under Japanese influence."

The Chinese government said today it never had received the "necessary information on details of Japanese peace proposals submitted through German Ambassador Oskar Trautman.

"But we realized that Japan's four conditions, which appeared to be mere vague principles, were in reality so broad and all embracing in scope that they including many things impairing China's sovereignty and territorial and administrative integrity," it was said.

BRITISH FLOTILLA MAY CALL ON U. S. FLEET IN SPRING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—British warships may visit the United States during the spring maneuvers to return the proposed call of three American cruisers at Singapore. The American cruisers are to join with the British in the dedication of new docks at the powerful Singapore base on Feb. 14.

It is understood that a return visit was discussed tonight at a meeting of the British cabinet, and while no decision has been announced political circles believe a return visit may be made. The gesture is intended to underline for Japan the hint of possible naval coöperation conveyed by the scheduled visit of the American warships to Singapore. The British are delighted at the United States gesture, and feel this would be the best way to encourage a further show of sympathy by America.

Baylor is being held in Chicago.

JAPAN ACTS TO END INVASION OF U. S. PROPERTIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 24.—The Japanese government has taken necessary steps to prevent further invasions of property belonging to United States citizens in China, and will inform the United States government to this effect within a few days, a spokesman for the foreign office said today.

[Last Saturday the state department in Washington, D. C., announced that an emphatic protest against Japan's disregard for American property rights at Nanking, China, had brought a speedy apology from Tokio. The apology failed, however, to lessen American concern over the dangers of another "incident" similar to the Panay affair.]

The foreign office spokesman said the Japanese government is using every effort to establish the facts in each of the fifteen cases cited by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, although the United States protest does not mention specific damages in these cases.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Jan. 24.—Dispatches tonight from the interior of Russia said the purge of persons charged with counter revolutionary and disruptive practices continued unabated. Thirty-eight death sentences were reported, making a total of 77 thus far for January. The sentences were for destructive practices in cattle breeding, mismanagement of collective farms, bad conditions in timber camps, poor grain collections and trade with White Russians.

LOYALISTS QUIT TERUEL; BATTLE RAGES NEAR CITY

France Fortifies Border Against Air Raiders.

PERPIGNAN, France, at the Spanish Frontier, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Teruel, center of a month long battle in eastern Spain, tonight was reported to have been evacuated by government troops in the face of unceasing artillery fire. The loyalists, however, still held commanding heights around the city, making it impossible for the rebels to enter the "no man's land."

The rebels reported that Gen. Miguel Aranda's troops which drove down the Alfambra valley, north of the city, had occupied Villalba Baja and Trotajada without encountering resistance.

Bitter fighting was going on for possession of El Muelton hill, west of the city. The rebels were planning to drive on against Mansueto hill and Santa Barbara, the strongest government positions south of the city.

Planes Fall in Air Battle.

A Madrid dispatch said forty Spanish government planes bombed the rebel lines around Teruel and engaged rebel airmen in a battle. One Italian made plane was said to have been shot down and two others forced to withdraw trailing smoke. The rebels declared seven government planes were shot down and two crippled in the engagement.

The government reported twenty-two persons were killed, thirty injured, and six houses destroyed in a rebel air raid on Reus, 50 miles southwest of Barcelona.

Along the frontier, France rushed the installation of anti-aircraft guns at Bourg-Madame to fight off civil war planes. Rebel craft dropped eleven bombs on French soil Sunday while raiding the government held towns of Puigcerda, Seo d'Urgel, Figueras, and Port Rosas.

France Protests to Rebels.

The Paris government protested to rebel headquarters at Salamanca, although no persons were killed in France. The French army's regular patrol planes were ordered to offer combat to any planes crossing the border. Four hundred residents of Puigcerda remained in the French town of Bourg-Madame where they took refuge during yesterday's bombardment.

The French destroyer Albatros today rescued the 2,810 ton French steamer Prado from a warship said to be "Spanish." The "pirate" vessel halted the Prado eight miles off Palamos, Spain. The Prado was ordered to follow the "pirate," but the Albatros arrived and the "pirate" steamed away.

French Warship Fires on Planes.

CERBERE, France, at the Spanish Frontier, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The French torpedo boat La Poursuivante fired on three Spanish government war planes flying over French territorial waters today.

The surface craft opened fire on the planes as they flew to attack three rebel warships steaming off the coast. Apparently mistaking the La Poursuivante for a rebel vessel, the aircraft wheeled and bombed her. Neither the torpedo boat nor the planes were hit.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR MILLION TO AID WAR SUFFERERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt appealed to Americans today to contribute 1 million dollars to help suffering civilians in China. Immediately, the Red Cross made arrangements to receive contributions through its 3,700 chapters.

The appeal was made in a letter to the Red Cross chairman, Admiral Cary T. Grayson, in which the President said:

"There is, I am confident, a widespread desire on the part of our citizens in every section of the country to contribute to a fund to aid in meeting the extreme distress of millions of civilian people in China.

"In order to give effect to this desire to aid the people of China it is necessary that some organization be designated to supervise the collection and distribution of the funds and for such a task we naturally turn to the Red Cross.

"I should like to request, therefore, that the Red Cross take such steps as it may deem appropriate to afford the American people an opportunity to respond by their contributions to the need of our suffering fellow beings."

RUSSIANS PLAN BIG NAVAL BASE AT LENINGRAD

Foreign Consuls Ordered Out as Work Begins.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Behind the soviet government's recent move to oust foreign consuls from Leningrad on the Baltic is a plan to convert Russia's second largest city into a gigantic secret fortified naval dockyard and arsenal base, diplomatic sources in London said tonight. No foreigner will be allowed to remain in Leningrad, it is said.

The drive against foreign representation was launched by the soviet government with a demand that Great Britain cut down the number of consulates in the soviet union to one on grounds of "parity." The British government's reply was to close the consular offices in Moscow and to retain only the office in Leningrad. The soviet government is showing signs of dissatisfaction with this arrangement.

Other Governments Warned.

The Scandinavian governments have already been warned by Moscow to withdraw their consuls from Leningrad, and the British government is expecting similar intimation. Should it come it will be treated as an act of diplomatic discourtesy, and Great Britain's ambassador probably will be ordered to protest.

Leningrad, according to reports reaching London tonight, will be made a closed zone. New naval yards equipped for building and repairing the biggest capital ships are already under construction and are being pushed forward at top speed. The immediate ship building program includes three 35,000 ton battleships equipped with 16 inch guns.

Fortify Pacific Coast.

Meanwhile, on the Arctic shores a new harbor and dockyard at Pojarnose, accessible all year round, is being made to provide a base for a part of the soviet fleet outside the Baltic. In the far east, where the air force and navy are being maintained on a war time footing, plane and submarine bases and new military towns are being built, and the coastline facing Japan is being strongly fortified.

JAPAN REPORTS NEW MANCHUKUAN CLASH WITH SOVIET PATROL

TOKIO, Jan. 24.—(AP)—A new clash between Manchukuan frontier guards and a soviet detachment was reported today in a Domei [Japanese news agency] dispatch from Seoul, Corea.

The report said a soviet patrol had penetrated Manchukuan territory for nearly 100 miles in Heilungkiang province and was mapping the terrain when it encountered Manchukuan guards.

The four soviet officers and two soldiers in the patrol "fled under a hail of bullets," Domei said.

ACCUSES YOUTH; WOMAN FACES CHARGE HERSELF

The accusation by Mrs. Helen Hastings, 41 years old, that Ernest Henderson, 16 years old, colored, made advances toward her proved a boomerang to her yesterday. Mrs. Hastings, who lives at 4618 Kenmore avenue, told the Town Hall police that she ordered liquor Sunday night from a store at 1040 Wilson avenue and gave two drinks to Henderson, the delivery boy.

Then Henderson threw her to the floor, she said, and she lost consciousness. Henderson, arrested later in his home at 4600 Prairie avenue, admitted he had taken the drinks but denied he molested Mrs. Hastings. Mrs. Hastings was charged with disorderly conduct for offering liquor to a minor and will be arraigned in the Domestic Relations court today.

Self-portrait, by Anne Goldthwaite

ANNE GOLDTHWAITE'S work has received recognition that places her in the very front rank of living American painters.

She frankly says: "Before I was 40, I'd sold a picture or two—but I'd hardly begun to arrive!"

Now, her paintings in oil, her prints and water colors, are in collectors' demand. A few years ago she modeled some negro heads in rich, brown Alabama clay, "just for fun." Most of them sold right out of her studio. Last year she did her first mural. Now she's at work on the second.

She is President of the New York Women Painters, more than half of whose members are over 40. Though Anne Goldthwaite claims she "can't even remember" when she was 40, today she is doing some of the most important work of her life.

"Given natural ability," Anne Goldthwaite says, "it is the years of hard work that count. And, of course, good health. Without health, any creative work must lose much of its vitality."

By the time I was in my 40's, I was holding office in my district. Then, six years ago, I was told I'd have to have 14 teeth extracted. It really amounted to a major operation. So, in preparation, I began to build up my health by eating Fleischmann's Yeast. Early in my career it had helped me.

Thanks to the yeast, I stood the ordeal perfectly. Now I wouldn't go without my Fleischmann's Yeast every day for anything.

I've recently moved to a new district, and already I'm in the thick of things, politically.

Feels Better About Job These Days

Dear Life Begins:

A while ago, they'd begun to think I was a physical wreck. I had digestive trouble, was out of the office for some weeks, and then didn't pick up. I was worried about my job, which is in the advertising end of the newspaper business—no place for a man in such condition. I couldn't sleep well at night and by day the noise of the presses aggravated my strained nerves.

But only a few weeks after I'd started eating Fleischmann's Yeast, the stomach troubles began to dwindle away, my nerves calmed down and I began to sleep well again. With my new health I feel a whole lot better about my job, too.

EDDY McLAUGHLIN

Feeling of Age Often Due to Slower Digestion

After 40, the digestive juices have a tendency to become scantier and weaker.

But, by eating Fleischmann's Yeast, many people past 40 have been able to check digestive decline. Fleischmann's Yeast has a special stimulating action—due to the millions of tiny, live yeast plants in fresh yeast. It helps bring about a fuller, stronger flow of gastric juices.

4 health-building vitamins in Fleischmann's Yeast give you added help. They are the Nerve Vitamin, the Cold-Resistance Vitamin, the Bone Vitamin and the Vitality Vitamin.

You'll soon learn to like the fresh, malty flavor of Fleischmann's Yeast. Eat 3 cakes every day—plain or in a little water—1 cake ½ hour before each meal. This will help stimulate the gastric juices to flow freely and be ready to digest your food more quickly and thoroughly.

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

CRAZY CAPITALIST

By CALEB

SOME years ago a famous writer economist for a great national weekly went to Detroit to interview Henry Ford and write a story of the great industrial empire he dominates.

The writer spent his day with Mr. Ford, and his evening with a friend of mine. My friend said, "What do you think of Mr. Ford?"

The writer said, "He's crazy. I think I'll return east in the morning," but instead he returned to Mr. Ford.

That night, the author mused. "The 'old man' is not so crazy as I thought he was. I'm going back to see him tomorrow."

The third evening the writer volunteered with great emphasis, "Henry Ford is not crazy. It's the rest of us who are crazy. I believe he is thinking more clearly on economic subjects than any man I have ever met."

I was reminded of this story by an examination of Ford figures.

In thirty-three years Ford sales in the United States have totaled almost thirteen and a quarter billion dollars. Twelve billion, four hundred million dollars Ford put into wages to his employes, materials he bought for manufacturing, and taxes.

The remaining 6.4 per cent, or eight hundred forty-four million dollars, is all that was retained through the years by Ford for expanding and improving his plants, for buying new equipment and machinery, and for profit.

Ford's "crazy ideas" of economics have largely been in connection with high wages for his help and low prices for his products.

Henry Ford is a capitalist if ever there was one. He has created his industrial empire without the benefit of fancy financing. If this be capitalism and if his ideas of economics are crazy, I wonder when anything will ever be discovered to do labor and this nation more good than crazy capitalists.

Terrific impetus was given to the advancement of workers when Ford initiated his $5.00 a day minimum wage. And again when he initiated the policy of reducing his prices for automobiles whenever he possibly could.

Ford, the "terrible exhibit" of the theorists who malign big business, is, more than any other single factor in this wide world, responsible for (1) the development of a vast network of highways and all the labor entailed in their making, (2) the tremendous oil and gasoline industry and all the labor that has gone into its development, and (3) the tremendously important automobile industry which has given us nationally several vitally important surges toward prosperity in times of distress.

ROOSEVELT TORN BY INDECISION ON TRUST QUESTION

Pledge of Two Years Ago Remains Unfulfilled.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Although it is nearly two years since the Democratic party made a platform pledge at Philadelphia to end monopolies, the Roosevelt administration, it was learned today, is still groping for a policy.

The President is torn between a policy of strict enforcement of free competition, as envisaged by the Sherman, Clayton, and Trade commission acts, and a policy of government shepherding of big business along the lines of the defunct NRA, which suspended the anti-trust laws and fostered production control, price fixing, and other monopolistic practices.

Mr. Roosevelt said a few days ago he had no idea when he would transmit his special message on anti-monopoly legislation, which he told congress at the opening of the session he would submit. He denied, however, he had abandoned the project.

Blame Judicial Alterations.

The alibi of the administration for failure to redeem the party's platform pledge is that existing anti-trust laws have been so whittled away by judicial interpretation that they are no longer effective restraints of monopoly and that revivifying legislation is necessary. The delay in formulating such legislation, however, has been such that the enactment of new laws at this session has become exceedingly unlikely.

Some Democratic leaders predict that the whole administration drive against monopoly as the cause of the current business recession will wind up in the creation of another commission to study the subject.

Mr. Roosevelt conferred for an hour and a half today with Robert H. Jackson, the assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust prosecutions, and Benjamin V. Cohen, brain trust expert on the drafting of bills dealing with regulation of business. The subject of the discussion was shrouded in mystery.

Jackson Slated for New Job.

Mr. Jackson is slated for solicitor general to succeed Stanley Reed when the appointment of Mr. Reed to the Supreme court is confirmed. Mr. Reed's nomination received the unanimous approval of the senate judiciary committee today, and senate confirmation is expected in time for him to take his seat on the court next Monday. Reports also are current that Mr. Cohen is under consideration for trust buster when Mr. Jackson moves up.

It was rumored that the conference had to do with charges of monopoly aimed at the big moving picture producers. Mr. Jackson, emerging from the executive office, would neither confirm nor deny the report.

Asked whether the success of the government in convicting the oil men at Madison of violation of the Sherman act had caused him to change his opinion that the anti-trust laws are decrepit Mr. Jackson replied: "No, I still think they need amendment."

Monopoly Record Under Fire.

The Roosevelt administration long has been under fire for alleged indulgence of monopolies and restraints of trade. Its record of anti-trust prosecutions compares unfavorably with that of its Republican predecessors, a record that Mr. Jackson and Attorney General Homer S. Cummings excuse on the plea that the courts have weakened the law. Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] contends, however, that the growth of monopolies would be pretty effectively checked if existing laws were vigorously enforced.

Throughout the President's term the anti-trust laws were virtually a dead letter. They were suspended in important particulars in the legislation creating the NRA. The suspension was deliberate in pursuance of the terms on which big business consented to accept the NRA. When Senator Borah attempted to strike out this suspension, he was defeated by an overwhelming Democratic vote.

KILLS SELF IN CORNFIELD.

Taylorville, Ill., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The body of Frank King, 65 years old, of Springfield, a former resident of this city, was found in a cornfield northeast of this city today with a bullet through his heart. A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of suicide.

Demand Reassurance to Nation's Business.

expands," Woodrum concluded. "Business will not do that until it has confidence that congress is going to leave business alone."

Representative May's appeal against construction of the Gilbertsville dam declared the project wasteful and unnecessary and needless expense of 112 million dollars.

May reminded the senators that the house committee had found the project of questionable value after protracted hearings and thrown out the appropriation. He said further study of the project was necessary and that the house committee had appropriated $100,000 for study. The senate committee passed the $2,800,000 appropriation without a hearing.

Five Towns to Be Lost.

For the information of the senators in waging a floor fight against the dam May drafted a long memorandum detailing objections to the project.

"The dam will drown out wholly or partly five small towns with a population of 2,200, two in Kentucky and three in Tennessee," May said in this memorandum. "The TVA estimates that the Gilbertsville reservoir will drown out the homes of 3,500 families and create a human dislocation to 17,500 American citizens. They also estimate that 2,000 graves must be dug up and relocated. One hundred and sixty-six miles of main highway and three major highway bridges, 38 miles of railroads and three railroad bridges will be inundated."

May ridiculed the power possibilities in the dam. Only by creating an enormous reservoir and by proceeding 184 miles down stream will it be possible to develop an adequate head of water to generate hydro electric power in large quantities, he declared. With an installed capacity of 192,000 kilowatts and an overall cost of 112 millions the cost of power will amount to $581 a kilowatt. Without Gilbertsville, TVA would average only $227 a kilowatt, he said.

The committee chairman also criticized the project from the navigation standpoint.

"It will create an inland sea 184 miles long, varying in width from 2 to 8 miles," he wrote. "Expert testimony indicates that this lake will generate waves to the height of four feet—a depth from crest to trough of 8 feet.

"The modern river craft is a barge which is lashed with others into a 'tow' which is pushed by a specially designed shallow draft tug. Built to navigate waters where the waves are seldom more than half a foot high, they would flounder quickly in the rollers of Gilbertsville sea. The same criticism also is applicable to other large TVA dams, but to none so forcefully as the Gilbertsville reservoir."

Moreover, May said, the evidence is that any flood control benefits resulting from the project will be more than overbalanced by the positive losses entailed by this attempt to manipulate the handiwork of nature.

"Gilbertsville dam will drown out the natural flood storage of the river and create a permanent flood in its place," he wrote. "It will create a sea wall twenty miles upstream, barring the Ohio flood waters from backing up into the Tennessee natural channel storage many miles upstream."

When the Tennessee Valley authority first was proposed to congress, Gilbertsville dam was not thought of and the whole TVA project was expected to cost 50 millions to complete, May said. Already, however, the congress is committed to the expenditure of 505 millions, he said.

NIGHT SESSION FAILS TO BREAK LYNCH BILL FILIBUSTER IN SENATE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Southern senators, openly announcing a solemn covenant to block the anti-lynching bill, talked tirelessly tonight through the senate's first evening session of the year.

Administration leaders held the chamber in session late in an effort to break the legislative jam caused by the filibuster against the lynching bill. The night session finally ended late in the evening in a parliamentary wrangle about whether Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] would be making his first or his second speech when he resumed tomorrow. He already had spoken six hours when he quit tonight. Only a handful of senators were present.

FIX THAT COLD!

And Fix It Right—Depend on No Mere Half-way Measures!

A cold neglected may be a cold regretted!

Many a "slight" cold has ended in flu and pneumonia.

Your Treatment!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets) are what you want for a cold. First, they are a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds and nothing else.

First, they open the bowels.

Second, they check the infection in the system.

Third, they relieve the headache and fever.

These four effects make a real cold treatment and in Bromo Quinine you get them all in the form of a single tablet.

The Stitch in Time!

Beat a cold to the punch. As soon as you feel any symptoms, start taking Bromo Quinine tablets at once. Two tablets every four hours will soon break up the cold.

Bromo Quinine tablets may be taken with confidence. They have been on the market for over 40 years and are the world's largest-selling cold tablets.

Bromo Quinine tablets come in 35c and 60c sizes. The 60c size is the better "buy." It gives you almost 20 per cent more for your money.

Ask for—and insist upon getting—Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets). Any attempt to sell you anything else may be viewed with suspicion.

ICKES' AUTOS PUT HIM ON SPOT IN SENATE INQUIRY

Accused of Purchasing Without Authority.

Senator Steiwer then read another provision of law requiring all government purchases to be made by advertising for competitive bids except in cases of emergency."

"There was emergency. The secretary required those cars," Mr. Burlew said.

"What was the urgency?" asked Senator Steiwer.

"Well," said Mr. Burlew, "the administrator wanted the cars and, after all, Senator . . ."

"Did the secretary already have a car in his capacity as secretary of the interior?"

None as PWA Administrator.

"I don't recall. He may have had."

"You think he had one as secretary of the interior, but none as PWA administrator."

"Oh, no, he had none as PWA administrator."

Senator Steiwer said there was nothing in a memorandum attached to the automobile vouchers to show why the requirements of law were ignored. He also said he had been informed by the general accounting office that there was no authority for the purchases.

"Well, that's unfortunate for them," Burlew said.

"It may be unfortunate for you," Senator Steiwer said.

Committee's Other Discoveries.

During its investigation in the last two weeks the senate committee has discussed the $85,000 embezzlement of Reno E. Stitely, a voucher clerk, which he accomplished by putting through vouchers for nonexistent CCC employes. The embezzlement brought a charge from Senator Pittman that there was astounding laxity and inefficiency, if not criminal carelessness, in the interior department.

The committee also heard details today of a case in which an investigator lost his job because he accused two inspectors of taking bribes from a Texas hot oil operator, while the inspectors were retained by Ickes.

Most of the committee members obviously wish to end the inquiry, but some are reluctant to do so, and efforts will be made to recall both Secretary Ickes and Louis R. Glavis, former chief of the Ickes espionage system. The senators want to know whether Glavis ever did any spying in connection with nonofficial matters and whether he was ordered to do so.

CLERGYMAN GRUDGING IN EFFORT TO GAIN HEALTH LOST IN FAST

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 24.—(AP)—The Rev. Israel Harding Noe grudgingly joined with doctors tonight in their efforts to restore strength to his fast-ravaged body.

The Rev. Canon James R. Sharp. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Conceding his fast had been broken by well meaning friends, the clergyman, removed as dean of St. Mary's Episcopal cathedral because of what Bishop James M. Maxon called his religious vagaries, drank the juice of six oranges this afternoon, ate the pulp, and swallowed several ounces of water.

The former dean, who was succeeded last week by the Rev. James R. Sharp, fell into a deep sleep after twenty-two days of absolute abstinence and was taken to a hospital last night.

"If his organic functioning is not too far gone," a physician said, "I believe he will live. It will be a gradual process, requiring three months to return him to normal health. If he dies, it will not be for several days."

TOLEDO POLICE NAME CENSORS FOR MAGAZINES

Toledo, O., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—A censorship board for magazines has been established by the Toledo police department. About fifty periodicals will be examined for offensive content.

The board was appointed by Lieut. Charles Roth, in charge of operations and personnel of the police department. Most of the magazines are on the questionable list of the Detroit police department, whose censorship bureau furnished the Toledo police with the list.

Lieut. Roth announced that on the findings of the censor board the police department will proceed under state laws against publications which are thought to exert a harmful influence upon youth.

Found Shot to Death in Car on Highway Near Elgin

Eugene A. Frenier, 28 years old, member of an old Aurora family, was found shot to death last night in his automobile in Barrington road, north of U. S. highway 20, eight miles east of Elgin, in Cook county. A gun was found under his body. State police said notes in his brief case indicated financial difficulties. Frenier lived at 210 Richard street, Joliet, with his bride, the former Vivian Wolff of Elgin.

GREEN HOLDS OUT FRESH HOPES FOR TRUCE WITH C. I. O.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 24.—(AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor indicated today he still is hopeful for a truce with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

He let it be known that it is far from being a foregone conclusion that the A. F. of L. executive council, which opened its mid-winter meeting today, will oust the C. I. O. unions.

"The council is not meeting in a belligerent frame of mind," he remarked in connection with the possibility that the United Mine Workers, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and other groups whose charters are suspended might be expelled outright and their fields opened for organization by A. F. of L. units.

"The council is conscious of the state of mind of the masses of workers throughout the nation," Green said in an interview. "They want a united movement. In my opinion the council will proceed judiciously and carefully in dealing with the situation between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O."

John Milton Takes Oath as Senator from Jersey

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—John Milton, a Jersey City lawyer, became the junior senator from New Jersey today. He was sworn in by Vice President Garner, who then referred to the elections committee a protest filed by labor's nonpartisan league against the appointment of Milton because of his association with Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, who has barred radical activities of the C. I. O. in his city.

Joseph Dudea, 72 years old, 5158 South Marshfield avenue, died last night in the county hospital of injuries incurred on Jan. 11 when he was struck by an automobile at 52d street and Ashland avenue. The driver was Morris Silverman, 44 years old, 1115 West 61st street.

CHURCH REPORTS NEARLY ALL ITS PASTORS HIRED

Unemployment among ministers of Congregational-Christian churches is virtually nonexistent, the Rev. Dr. Charles Emerson Burton, general secretary of that denomination, said in a report submitted to the national executive conference which opened yesterday at the First Congregational church, Evanston.

Of 6,086 ministers only 82 were listed by Dr. Burton as unemployed and available ministers under 65 years of age. These returns are based upon reports made by the state superintendents of the churches.

Belief that contributions toward missionary work are increasing was expressed by the Rev. Leonard M. Outerbridge of New York, executive secretary of the missions council, whose report stated that donations for 1937 were $1,546,000, an increase of $17,000 over 1936.

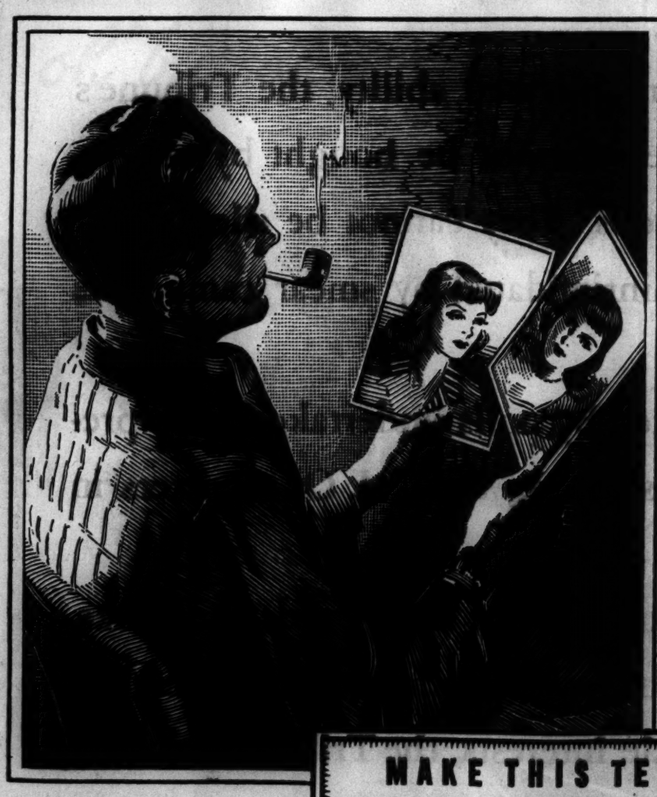
Advice on Choosing a Wife?



Don't take it! Choosing a wife is one thing every man should do for himself. It's the same with a brewmaster in choosing hops. No laboratory rule-of-thumb can guide him. Only skill and experience can distinguish between the mere fragrance of ordinary hops and the medley of exquisite and elusive aromas that exudes from truly fine blossoms. The costly imported Saazer hops used in brewing BUDWEISER are chosen only after three separate and distinct judgings. Hence the sprightly bouquet that hovers over each glass of BUDWEISER . . . and the distinctive taste that sets BUDWEISER so vividly apart.

MAKE THIS TEST! DRINK Budweiser FOR FIVE DAYS ON THE SIXTH DAY TRY TO DRINK A SWEET BEER. YOU WILL WANT Budweiser's FLAVOR THEREAFTER.

NOTE FOR HOUSEWIVES: A glass of cold BUDWEISER is always a thoughtful compliment to a husband — especially in the evening. Has he ever expected it when there was none in the icebox? ON WATCH ON THE WASHINGTON NEWS FRONT

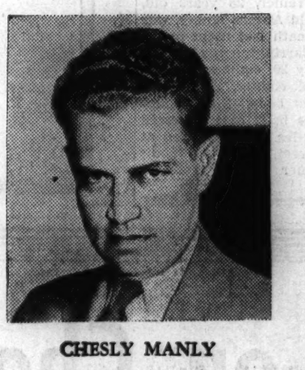
ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

WILLARD EDWARDS

WALTER TROHAN



CHESLY MANLY

IN his home town, the reporter is in constant touch with his editor. The editor is conversant with affairs. Under such circumstances, it is easy to publish the news without fear or favor.

In Washington, everything is different. The editor is not familiar with conditions. The reporter, far from his home office, is under constant pressure of all kinds. The power of the authorities constantly coerces him.

Every blandishment known to intrigue and politics is showered upon him. The corruption of political appointment is dangled before his eyes.

Chosen for their demonstrated ability, the Tribune's Washington reporters cannot be bought by charm, cocktail parties or jobs. They cannot be silenced by threats. They are unintimidated by smear campaigns to discredit them.

They are unaffected by polls undertaken with preconceived prejudices among the C. I. O. reporters in Washington.

In spite of fake statistics put out by reds and pinks, these men give you the real Washington news. And, undominated by outside interests, the Tribune prints it.

UNITE TO UPHOLD CONSTITUTION! SAYS PETTENGILL

Urges Return of Court Packing Foes to Congress

No new political party or formal coalition is necessary for the imperative task of returning to congress those members who stood by the constitution in the Supreme court packing fight, Representative Samuel B. Pettengill [Dem., Ind.] told members of the Union League club at a luncheon yesterday.

But, he declared, the next five years, and to a large extent, the next five months, embracing the primary campaigns, constitute the third great crisis of American history. That crisis is even greater, perhaps, than the twenty year period which gave America independence and the constitution, or the civil war crisis, he said.

Sees Failure in Public Relations.

"American business," said Represenative Pettengill, "has achieved miracles in the production of goods. Yet American enterprise has failed signally. It has failed to sell the system which has produced those goods, failed in the field of public relations.

"What has American enterprise failed to sell? The idea that ours is the greatest liberal government. Let no one believe that this movement to the center, this abdication of constitutional rights by the citizen, this concentration of power—let no one be so fatuous is to believe that this is a liberal movement. It is a reactionary, a Tory movement.

Gives More Bread to More People.

Representative Pettengill referred to the jibe frequently made in political campaigns, "You can't eat the constitution," retorting:

"You can't eat the Lord's Prayer. You can't eat the letters your mother wrote your father as a young girl, nor the letters she wrote you as she neared the end of her life. Thank God there are some things in this world that you can't eat. But under our constitution, more people have eaten more bread than at any other time or place in history.

"The men in public life who came to the defense of the Supreme court must not be repudiated. If they are, there will be a mandate, which no one can deny, to proceed with the destruction of constitutional safeguards. If, however, they are returned to office, there will be an entirely different mandate.

Pleads Unity of Flag's Friends.

"The issue is clear. It is equally clear that the men who abandoned the flag at Washington must be left at home.

"Republicans and Democrats together answered the call of Lincoln. Democrats and Republicans must again present arms together. It is not necessary now for any one to foreswear permanent allegiance to the party. No new party is now necessary. No formal organization is now necessary. Nor is it necessary nor wise to look ahead to 1940. Nineteen thirty-eight is all that concerns us now.

Calls for Coalition.

"We had an informal coalition in Washington on the Supreme court fight. No one gave up his own party loyalty. He simply merged it for the time being in the greater loyalty which is the end for which party loyalty is only the means—how best to serve one's country.

"A similar informal coalition of citizens, as individual voters, is all that you need plan today. If your party candidate is right on this great issue of constitutional democracy, vote for him. If he is wrong and his opponent is right—vote for the man who is right. Let your slogan be, 'We support no candidate who does not carry the flag and keep step to the music of the Union.'"

Divorcee Now

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. DOROTHY SCHIKORA.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday granted Mrs. Dorothy Schikora, 24 years old, 5607 Lake street, a divorce on the ground of cruelty from Richard, a golf professional. The court reserved ruling on support for their children, Beverly, 6 years old, and Diane, 5 years old, when told Mrs. Schikora does not know where her husband is. Her attorney, Reuel H. Grunewald, said Schikora disappeared after beating his wife March 1, 1934, in a dispute because the gas and light had been turned off in the apartment they rented from his parents.

Delay Gillmeister Trial to Await Mayor's Return

A hearing of confidence game charges against William F. Gillmeister, a former state senator, was continued to Feb. 9 yesterday by Judge Oscar S. Caplan, in Felony court, because of the absence from the city of Mayor Kelly, a state witness. Gillmeister is charged with trying to collect money from three former policemen on promises to have them reinstated.

INQUIRY STARTS ON AUTO RULING OF JUDGE GEIGER

House Committee Will Conduct Hearing.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The house judiciary committee will begin an investigation tomorrow of charges made against Federal Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger of the eastern district of Wisconsin by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

On its face, the hearing is to determine whether Judge Geiger, by discharging a grand jury investigating alleged violations of the anti-trust laws, has been guilty of conduct justifying impeachment proceedings.

Actually, in the opinion of lawyers, the issue at stake is this: Shall the federal courts and grand juries be considered adjuncts of the department of justice?

The hearings will be secret, Chairman Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], decided today. But so much feeling has been aroused by this controversy between the government and its own judicial system that substantial reports of the proceedings are expected to be made known by the various witnesses after they testify.

These witnesses include representatives of the department of justice on the one hand and representatives of the Wisconsin State Bar association and Milwaukee County Bar association on the other. Judge Geiger is also expected to appear.

One of the government witnesses slated for questioning is Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, very much in the public eye at present for his bitter attacks upon business. He is in charge of the government's anti-monopoly campaign.

Question of Propriety.

Several committee members have indicated that they will ask Mr. Jackson what he thinks of the propriety of discussing terms of a consent decree in Washington with representatives of several automobile finance companies while those same companies were being investigated by a federal grand jury in Milwaukee.

During these conferences, it is alleged, officials of the department of justice were said to have told the prospective defendants that the grand jury was "rarin' to indict," that it was "incensed about things," and that it was "stirred up." Other remarks attributed to the government lawyers were that the grand jury was "taking this thing passionately" and that "the only way to satisfy the grand jury was to sign the consent decree.

When the conferences were prolonged, acording to briefs filed by the bar associations, Special Assistant Attorney General Russell Hardy was quoted as telling the prospective defendants: "You had better stop talking and get busy because the grand jury is not going to wait for you."

What the committee intends to determine, according to several members, is whether such tactics are to be considered proper. Shall grand juries be used by the government to force compliance with decrees drawn up by the government? Shall government lawyers intimidate prospective defendants by holding possible grand jury action over their heads as a club? These are questions to which the committee intends to find an answer.

Judge Geiger certainly thought such methods were outside the pale. When testimony concerning these points was brought before him, he discharged the grand jury, commenting:

Attorney General Protests.

"I do not think it was proper for these parties to get together during the session of this grand jury and negotiate a deal here in a matter that would be comprehended within the terms of a possible indictment. There is nothing to do here but to discharge the grand jury."

That was on last Dec. 17. The following day, before he had a chance to examine the record of the testimony on which Judge Geiger based his decision, the attorney general wrote an indignant letter to Chairman Sumners.

In the conferences, he asserted, the government was only undertaking to discuss a decree which, if agreed upon, would be submitted to the grand jury for its consideration along with evidence already before it.

The attorney general complained that Judge Geiger by discharging the grand jury had saved the companies from indictment.

"This course of conduct is so obstructive to the administration of justice that I could not justify a failure to bring to it your knowledge," Cummings concluded.

Asks Records Be Impounded.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Robert H. Jackson, assistant United States attorney general, today petitioned the federal court here to impound for ninety days the records of the Chrysler Motor corporation and its affiliate finance company which the government sought to indict. The petition asked that the records be impounded to give the government a chance to present them again either in this or another judicial district. Judge F. E. Gerger ordered the records held until there is a hearing on the request. Counsel for the Chrysler company had petitioned the court for a return of the records and they were brought back here Saturday from Washington.

LET'S GET THESE AIR BASE ISLANDS.

In every country in Europe and in most of Asia there is a nourished and cultivated fear of air raids. In part it may be attributed to the desire of governments to gain popular support for defense expenditures and in countries under dictatorship to keep the people contented with military rule and loss of liberty. All people are being taught that in war there are no longer any noncombatants and no part of a population can look for protection unless it is to be found in national strength.

The United States has a sense of security because of the distances which guard its shores from points of launching attack. The invulnerability may be more seeming than real. If defense against air raids is to be a major problem, the United States government which now is asking for large military appropriations should carry its precautions into every field where they may be needed.

It has often been remarked, without effect, that vestiges of European imperial enterprise are scattered about the American coast and many of them are the holdings of nations which owe America money, given for their aid in the world war, on which payment is defaulted. There is a ridiculous notion that national pride and imperial sentiment bar the subject of transfer even from discussion. That is a part of the idea that the United States is reasonable only when it is giving aid and never when it asks for compensations.

Although the western hemisphere is at peace and seems to have guarantees which would be a blessing elsewhere in the world, no one can prudently say that dangers will not arise. We do not know how long the obstreperous nations of the world will be content to keep their hands off this continent. We don't know what events in Europe might do to produce consequences close to us.

It has been American protective policy to exclude European and Asiatic influences from the western world and to liquidate alien holdings whenever the opportunity was presented. It has been done by war and it has been done by purchase. Now that air bases have entered into the problem of national defense, the need to extinguish remaining alien possessions near the American coast is the more imperative.

Both Great Britain and France, for instance, are in default on their debt and they are possessors of bases which in their hands or in the hands of other nations might be used for operations against the American continent. The good will of the United States is constantly sought by peoples who think they will profit from it. Their interests are argued here very shrewdly and their influence is great. Good American statesmanship would take advantage of conditions favorable to driving a just bargain for the territories now in other hands.

Nearly every development in the art of war makes it increasingly difficult to predict what will be invaluable in the way of bases for operations, and the whole situation around the American coastline should be cleaned up. Then at some future time there might not be occasion to regret that this country neglected to police its waters in the thorough manner in which it should have been done. Now is the time for action in this direction, and the request by the United States government that negotiations be opened could not be rejected with any show of face. There couldn't be any rebuttal of the American arguments or any rejection of its proposals which would fall within reason or honesty. If we don't ask for a settlement of this problem, it is because we are giving a foolish respect to considerations which ought to be of no account whatever.

HARD COAL AND A SOFT GOVERNOR.

Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania thinks he has a sovereign remedy for the ills of the anthracite coal business. Let the federal government obtain title to all the hard coal deposits either by purchase or condemnation, he says. Then let the government lease the mining rights to private operators but retain control of production and marketing.

Practically all the anthracite is in Pennsylvania. At present the industry's principal difficulty arises from Gov. Earle's refusal to accord the owners of the coal deposits the minimum of police protection required in a civilized society. The governor has permitted the wholesale theft of coal by bootleggers. He has pretended that he can do nothing effective to stop the practice though he has a powerful state police force and a militia at his command.

As Gov. Earle is himself responsible for trouble in which the hard coal industry finds itself, it was particularly handsome of him to pass the problem along to the federal government. His invitation to the taxpayers of Illinois, California, and the other states to rescue him is greatly appreciated. The offer, though generous, must nevertheless be declined. It would not be neighborly to alienate from Pennsylvania's control any of the riches which a bountiful nature has bestowed upon her.

We suggest that if a socialist organization of the hard coal industry is required it be undertaken under state auspices. As the mines are all in Pennsylvania, the state can control the industry quite as effectively as the federal government could. Mr. Earle says the federal taxpayers will lose no money under his scheme; there is therefore no risk of loss to Pennsylvania's taxpayers, either. The per capita wealth in Pennsylvania is higher than in the nation as a whole and her credit is still good. Thus the financing of Gov. Earle's adventure in socialism should present no serious obstacle to the carrying out of the plan.

Of course it might be a good deal simpler to revive the industry by enforcing the law against theft as Mr. Earle's oath requires him to do. The objections to that course appear to be insurmountable. Mr. Earle is not opposed in principle to taking his oath seriously; he seems concerned, rather, to avoid antagonizing lawbreakers when they have substantial voting power. Evidently he prefers to have the federal government take over that thankless task.

FRANK J. LOESCH.

The retirement of Mr. Frank J. Loesch as president of the Chicago Crime commission was an expectable event in the history of that highly useful institution. At the age of 86 Mr. Loesch may fairly claim discharge from the direct responsibilities of the office he has so long and memorably filled. He has added greatly to the prestige and public influence of the crime commission, apart from the benefits of his advice and direction, and as president emeritus we trust he will long continue to support its important service to the community.

In the ten years of Mr. Loesch's presidency of the crime commission Chicago has emerged from discredit and demoralization widely advertised in America and abroad. Chicago had been held up to the world as the crime center of the United States. It was an exaggerated ill repute, overshadowing similar but unadvertised conditions in other large cities. Nevertheless, it called for militant action and Mr. Loesch led the charge. The alliance of crime and corrupt politics was at the height of its power. Al Capone was riding high, wide, and handsome. Prohibition had been his golden opportunity. The underworld of politics was under his thumb. His gangsters appeared, even in court, armed and arrogant. In 1930 the crime commission put forth its celebrated list of public enemies, twenty-eight in number, with the great Capone as No. 1. It followed up with a list of lesser gangsters, twenty-eight in number. The curtain was raised. A great drama proceeded. The gangsters began to lose their immunity. They were harassed and prosecuted under various laws. The Chicago police authorities, as Mr. Loesch said the other night, coöperated loyally. The federal arm intervened and Al Capone fell from his throne. Ironically but effectively he was locked up in a federal jail for tax evasion. His empire was gone. Today nearly all of the public enemies are dead or in prison.

This was the swift and sensational victory for public security and good government, one of the great chapters of city government in the nation's history, and the soul of the achievement was Frank J. Loesch.

Under the presidency of Mr. Loesch the crime commission has accomplished other less sensational but valuable services. In 1929 Mr. Loesch called public attention to the heavy glut of pending cases in the Criminal court, two thousand, a scandalous situation gravely demoralizing to the enforcement of law. Today the Criminal court is up to the minute. In the intervening years the court has steadily advanced in efficiency. In 1932 Mr. Loesch and the commission tackled the automobile thieves whose operations had skyrocketed automobile insurance in this district. A special court was established and auto thefts began to recede. They fell from about 110 per day to fewer than 10. Since the start of this campaign insurance rates have been reduced by 64 per cent.

Throughout the ten years of Mr. Loesch's activities in the war upon crime he has been "the outstanding leader in Chicago if not in the nation." His latest interest has been in the correction of the deplorable conditions of parole. To this cause also he has brought his experience, knowledge, and devotion to good government and we know it will continue to benefit by them.

Mr. Loesch has retired from the active presidency of the crime commission, but his influence as a great citizen is not dependent upon any honor or office.

RECOGNIZING SAFE DRIVERS.

[Kansas City Star.]

An injustice in motor car accident and liability insurance rates has long been apparent. Why should the careful drivers be charged the same rate as the "accident prone" individuals who never learn? That has been a mystery for many years.

There is now widespread agreement among insurance men that a system of merit rating for drivers is both just and necessary. The argument is principally over methods.

A refund system of 15 per cent for drivers who make no claims for a year has been announced by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, this to be accompanied by a 5 per cent increase in the standard rates.

The associations of insurance agents opposed the plan and offered a substitute which they contended was simpler and more just. It would avoid the initial increase in rates and would increase the amount of refunds for good driving records past a year until it reaches a total of a 20 per cent refund for three or more years without an accident.

Whether or not the adopted plan is the best available merit rating, at least it recognizes the rights of the safe drivers. In the past a few companies have offered advantages to selected groups. Now the attitude becomes general. A scientific merit rating to compare with life insurance ratings may not be far distant.

Pete Howe of Monmouth, Ill., sends a clipping from the Monmouth daily paper of a story about an owl 31 years old, owned by Mrs. R. G. Walter of Monmouth, that has hatched a brood of chickens every year for the last 24 years. It concludes:

Mrs. Walter said that the owl had again started to make a nest, apparently aware of the approach of spring, but that she did not believe eggs would be placed in the nest this year because Mr. Walter had not been in the best of health.

AFTER THE THEATER CHATTER.

(Notice to old contribs who write in they don't like theater stories—skip it.)

Miss Hayes and various members of her company and Cornelia Otis Skinner who is her company were settled in Miss Hayes' apartment at the Ambassador eating Russian pancakes. A long distance telephone call and a story told over the wire to one of the group started the theater reminiscences. The story concerned Jane Cowl and an occasion upon which she was engaging an actor to play in stock. He was trying to find out what kind of rôles he could expect.

"It's repertory, so you'll play various rôles," said Miss Cowl soothingly. "We all will. For example, one week I might be playing the lead and the next carrying a tray."

"Yes, and I know whose head will be on that tray," retorted the actor.

ALEXANDER CLARK, who plays Prince Ernst in "Victoria Regina," told the story of a magician who was playing in London in one of two theaters that stood side by side, like the Selwyn and the Harris in Chicago. As a finale he demonstrated his disappearing act. Flourishing his black cloak, he was dropped through the trap door to the basement, rushed upstairs and into the alley, into a side entrance of the theater—the wrong theater—due to his haste—and up the stairs to the balcony. Dashing to the balcony railing he fired a blank cartridge and shouted, "Here I am" . . . in the middle of the third act of "Candida."

ACTRESS' DILEMMA.

Miss Hayes was reminded of an incident Madge Kennedy had once told her. Miss Kennedy was on the stage and the butler in the play entered and announced with pompous dignity, "Mrs. Craig-Willoughby." Then between his teeth "She's not here."

MISS SKINNER told a story of an actor's benefit in which her father, the late Otis Skinner, was doing a scene from "Richard III.," in which he forgot his lines. He was playing "Sancho Panza" at the time, and members of his company appeared in the Shakespeare scene in the costumes they wore in "Sancho Panza" minus the ruffs—"looking like unfinished Velasquez paintings," Miss Skinner explained. Miss Skinner played with her father in the scene. She said her entrance lines, and noticed a glassy look in his eyes. Then he began to speak. It was Shakespeare all right, but it wasn't from "Richard III." Mr. Skinner said lines from "The Merchant of Venice" and from "Hamlet" and anything else he could think of in iambic pentameter. He left the stage, at the end of the scene, to tremendous applause. Miss Skinner tried to cheer him in the dressing room afterward.

"Nobody knew you weren't saying 'Richard III.,'" she said. "You heard that applause."

"But Dan Frohman will know," said Mr. Skinner.

At that moment Frohman appeared and shook the veteran actor's hand enthusiastically.

"The best performance of your career," he said.

COLDS MAY BE SPREAD BY UNCLEAN EATING UTENSILS.

WASHING dishes always is a chore despite the seeming enthusiasm of the visitor who says, "Now, girls, let's all pitch in and help Alice. I'll wash and you wipe."

But the task has to be done and for health's sake it must be performed well. We want them not only to look spotless, but to be free from germs. A drinking glass that is unclean may be used as a container for milk a few hours later and transfer numerous organisms to the fluid. During epidemics of influenza and other diseases which produce nasal and throat irritation it has been found that eating utensils constitute one of the principal avenues for the transmission of infection. The saliva cannot fail to harbor naughty microbes. We put glasses and cups to our lips, and forks and spoons into the mouth. If they are improperly sterilized they may convey bacteria to a susceptible person.

Rarely will those who use mechanical dishwashers encounter unsterile results, provided enough hot water is available. Especially is that true if some soap powder is used that is sufficiently alkaline to "cut" the grease. Many find that a chlorine solution is more efficient for disinfecting purposes.

Now comes an important step. Every article must be scrubbed thoroughly and dried with a clean cloth which is not damp or soggy. It has been found that soapy water, if allowed to evaporate on dishes, will aid contamination. Careful rinsing with boiling water is essential, therefore, before the "wiper" is applied.

Just because the dishwater contains a generous amount of soap does not mean that it may not be badly polluted. In fact, with a large run of tableware, if it is not changed frequently—it may spread more germs than it removes. Furthermore the hands of the operator may not only defile the water, but sometimes bacilli may find their way beneath the skin around a hangnail and be responsible for inflammation about the nails, extending to the fingers.

Dipping glasses in chlorine water will not suffice. It requires the benefit of a bath in boiling water with thorough swabbing to make certain that microbes will not remain in large numbers.

A standard solution for the water contains tri-sodium phosphate and chlorine and if one is in doubt or if the articles are badly soiled or used repeatedly—as at a soda fountain—a second chlorine bath is advisable. Here the items may remain for several minutes [8 to 10] before being subjected to the final rinse and drying. The washing temperature should be about 120 degrees Fahrenheit; the rinsing, about 170 degrees.

Some public eating places have taken this matter in hand and have instituted a high sanitary standard. On the other hand, repeated surveys indicate that unless special precautions are taken about one-third of the "bugs" present on glassware, etc., remain after they are supposed to be innocuous. Soda fountains and drug store restaurants at one time were notable offenders. For the most part, however, adequate facilities have been furnished, so that little danger need now be apprehended. Constant watchfulness, however, is the price of safety and one careless attendant can defeat the most ideal technique in any establishment.

We must recall that colds are disseminated not only via droplets of sputum thrown off by a sneeze or cough, but by placing within the mouth or to the lips dirty china, silverware, or glassware.

SMALL FAT DEPOSITS.

Mrs. S. writes:

1. I am troubled with xanthoma on the eyelids. What is this condition and what can I do?

2. I also have tiny warts on the eyelids, around the eyes, and on the skin. What can I do? I have a large wart near one eye and I am afraid to tamper with it.

REPLY.

1. Xanthoma is the name given small yellow tumors in the skin caused by deposits of fat. Apparently the circulation is unable to dispose of them in the normal way. The most common form of this disease involves the tissues about the eyelids, most often the inner part of the lower lid. The blemishes form as small yellowish raised areas resembling plaques, or streaks. They can be removed by the physician with some slight scarring, but they often return because the disordered metabolism that causes them is still present. In those cases associated with diabetes, insulin produces spectacular absorption of the lesions.

2. Warts are overgrowths of the skin and are readily removed by the use of caustic chemicals and by surgical and electrical methods. It is safest to have them removed by a physician since efforts at home treatment frequently result in infection and scarring. X-ray may be tried if the lesions are numerous.

HEART VALVE DEFECTS.

G. D. writes:

1. What is a mitral heart disease?
2. What causes it?
3. The remedy?
4. Could this be what is causing severe pains around the heart?

REPLY.

1. In mitral insufficiency the valves do not close completely when the ventricles contract. This is termed regurgitation. If the valve orifice is narrowed the condition is called stenosis.

2. The vast majority of cases develop from an attack of acute endocarditis following rheumatism, chorea, or some infectious disease. Additional causes are congenital defects, alcoholism, gout, and arteriosclerosis. Strenuous exertion may be a cause.

3. Unless disturbed by acute disease or excessive work, the heart will make up for the defect by enlarging. Frequent rest periods and avoidance of violent exertion are advised.

4. Distress in the region of the heart may come from overexertion [fatigue] or bear some relation to angina pectoris. Occasionally tea or coffee in large amounts may be responsible.

IT'S NOT INHERITED.

Mrs. L. writes: Would the children of a parent, man or woman, who has had gonorrhea and taken the cure, develop the disease at birth or in years to come?

REPLY.

Gonorrhea is not inherited, but may be acquired at birth from an infected mother. If the mother has been completely cured of the disease before the child's birth, there is no danger of congenital infection.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Several months of difficult work lie before the eleven members of a committee set up by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to investigate and overhaul the Conservative party machinery in London.

At the first meeting the committee will decide on procedure. Certain organizations then will be asked to prepare reports on a basis for discussion.

These bodies are expected to include the Conservative central office, London Municipal society, committee of London members of parliament, Municipal Reform party on the London county council, leaders of the Municipal Reform party on each borough council, Conservative associations and Conservative agents' associations.

When the reports have been received individuals connected with these organizations will be invited to give evidence. After this mass of evidence has been sifted and collated the committee will be left the task of presenting a scheme of reform to the prime minister. It is not expected that this report will be ready until next midsummer.

In addition to working out a scheme for a London Conservative organization to control parliamentary, London county council, and borough council elections, the committee will have to consider means of establishing closer contact with the electorate to increase the voting, particularly on local government elections.

Propaganda will be an important aspect of the committee's work. The national publicity bureau, of which Sir Kingsley Wood is chief, publishes a quarterly paper called New London Pictorial. This contains only national political news. The committee will have to consider the growing demand that it should be published monthly, provide municipal as well as national propaganda, and be localized for each of the twenty-eight London boroughs.

This proposal would involve heavy expenditure by the party, but it is recognised that the cost must be faced.

Many Conservative associations in London have formed or are forming canvassing corps, whose members regularly visit the electors. Part of the committee's task will be to discover how best this system may be organized throughout London.

One important outcome of the committee's work may be that the Conservative central office will become the central organization for local government in addition to parliamentary affairs.

REFRIGERATION UNIT.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. The refrigerators in our building have been operated from a central unit until recently. When the central unit was worn out it was replaced by individual units on the tenants' meters. The leases for the past four years and the present one have been the standard form without mention of the refrigeration, the cost of which has always been assumed by the landlord.

2. Now, after the installation of the new boxes, the landlord states that the cost of the current used is to be paid by the tenant. Should the tenant or the landlord pay the current? W. L.

1. In our view, where heating or refrigeration is supplied from a central plant, the landlord is under an implied obligation to maintain the central plant.

2. Something must have been said at the time of the installation of the new boxes. Presumably they are in some respects advantageous to the tenants. If the tenants did not raise any question as to who was to pay for the current we would assume that they had impliedly assented to the change.

EXECUTOR'S DUTIES.

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—An intimate friend and business associate for thirty years in Chicago died and named my husband executor.

1. He knew when he made his will that my husband spends his winters in Florida. Now, a neighborhood lawyer, knowing conditions, [2] has appointed himself to take charge of affairs.

3. Is it legally necessary for my husband to go north to take the oath of executor in court?

4. Can't he take the oath here before a notary or even over the phone to Chicago and [5] carry out the executor's duties from here? He knows all the affairs and except for two properties the estate is liquid.

6. Is it necessary to hire this lawyer and [7] pay him from the estate 10 per cent under these circumstances? A. S.

1. This fact is unimportant if your husband actually has his legal residence here.

2. We do not see how he could do this without your husband's consent. We could advise to better advantage if you had stated exactly what he has done.

3. It is customary for the executor to appear in person. We are not in a position to pass upon the seriousness of delay.

4. Take these questions up with the clerk of the court.

5. In general, yes.

6. In general, the executor can employ any attorney that he pleases.

7. Such a percentage would be exorbitant in an ordinary estate. The Illinois statute fixes the executor's fee at 6 per cent of the personal property. In our opinion the attorney's fee ought to come out of this percentage. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PIGEONS AT LARGE.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—I wonder if anything can be done about a fellow who owns pigeons and does not live on the premises. He does not keep them locked up and they fly all the time. He lives a block away. These pigeons dirty my windows and I cannot hang out my wash at all at any time. We asked him to keep them locked up. He says he will fly them when he feels like it and nobody can stop him. He has them over a garage on the property where I live not more than twenty-five feet from the house. I pay good rent to have a yard and wash when I feel like it, but cannot do so account of this nuisance which has continued for the past three years. J. B.

This matter was investigated by one of our sanitary inspectors. His report of conditions resulted in the following written notice being sent to the offender: "Confine pigeons to own premises or dispose of pigeons."

Several reinspections revealed that the pigeons are being confined; therefore the order was canceled on Jan. 2.

SPEED.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—I have been interested in following the comments made about the causes of automobile accidents.

Readers have said that poor visibility, low seats, driving with one hand, and even the fabric on the seats are to blame for most crashes. I'll admit that these may contribute to the high accident rate, but I believe that in the majority of cases speed is a major factor. The modern car is much too fast for the average driver, and far exceeds the safe speeds on the roads that we have today. The fastest road in this part of the country is built with curves designed for only forty-five miles per hour.

In most crashes it is the driver's inability to handle his speed that is at fault. Either he hasn't the skill necessary to handle a car at high speed, or else his muscular reactions are too slow to cope with an emergency. This slowness may be brought about through natural causes, lack of sleep, or liquor [usually the latter].

Understand, I'm not saying that cars should never be driven fast. I like speed as much as any one, but I am saying that unless the driver is mentally and physically alert it is by far wiser to take a few minutes extra and drive more slowly, and be sure of reaching your destination. And I defy anybody to honestly say that they don't think that that is good advice.

SELF-RESPECTING TOWNS.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Certainly, it would be fine if there were more towns with "self-respect," that "have received no WPA money and needed none," as Marian C. Davidson phrases it. But where does the "self-respect" enter? A number of people seem to think that the unemployed are personally responsible for the unemployment. There are not enough jobs to go around, and every intelligent person can see that.

People cannot be left to go hungry, to be without shelter and clothing. Therefore, there must be relief until these great economic problems are resolved. And is it not better to have as many people as possible [who are on relief] working for the government, contributing some labor to society? Or do these scorners of the WPA deny that it has contributed anything?

BLANCHE HARDING.

CHEAP INSURANCE FOR DRYS.

Westerville, O., Jan. 20.—One of the oldest and wealthiest insurance companies in England has just announced that motorists who are pledged total abstainers will be given a discount on their premiums of 10 per cent, because, other things being equal, the abstainer is a better risk for insurance purposes than the drinker. Why wouldn't it be a good thing to apply this principle in the United States? Should not the motorist who drives carefully and never takes a drink pay a lower premium than the drinking driver? Why should the careful driver pay for the drinker's recklessness? R. I. GRINDELL.

A PROMISE THAT WILL BE KEPT.

PRESENTATION SPEECH.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—A. M. is to be commended for his great struggle through life. If there are any medals set aside for such as he, A. M. is certainly deserving of them.

Were I to have the honor of presenting the medal, my speech would be in part as follows:

"It is with great pride that I am about to present this medal to a man who has uncontestably won it through his own efforts, and upon him rests the honor of being the most selfish, hard hearted individual in this great commonwealth. I present this medal to a man who by his own admission gloats over the fact that he feeds his children worm-infested cereals, claiming that to be wholesome food. I present this medal to a man who denies his children all of the little joys that are children's, even prohibiting the purchase of a penny tidbit so dear to a child. I present this medal to a man who, although capable of building a house with his own hands, is and has been unable to better his financial standing in the community.

"In closing let me say that this man deserves this medal because if for no other reason he gloats over his achievements and the utter domination of his children and wife by fear and harshness instead of love and kindness."

FURTHER ECONOMY.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—I think you've got something there, A. M., but you're passing up a golden opportunity. Why not sift out the weevils for the family and sell the oatmeal back to the grocer at a neat profit? ELEANOR LUNDMARK.

HOT WEEVILS.

Melrose Park, Ill., Jan. 17.—The bargain-hunting husband, A. M., who did his own shopping and allowed his wife and kids to eat hot weevils for breakfast to economize is not altogether a crackpot. You can't regard a bill of several billion dollars spent annually for cosmetics, 90 per cent of which is used by women, as economy. The fact that women spend about 85 per cent of the national income does not necessarily make them shrewd bargain hunters but may be the answer to A. M.'s query, "What is the matter with the poor sticks that call themselves men nowadays?"

Go to any 5 and 10 or department store and look around, or examine any general catalog and note the pages devoted to feminine gewgaws at ultra fancy prices. Is this the sort of wise spending thrifty wives are supposed to emulate? As Schopenhauer said, "Women think it is men's business to earn money and theirs to spend it. All women are, with rare exceptions, inclined to extravagance." A. G.

CANDID CAMERA SHOTS.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—While one of the Northwestern university deans is spending his time trying to find something wrong with Supt. Johnson's vocational plan for the Chicago high schools, students of his own university are running around taking pictures of co-eds in the bath tub. Then some one had to get to work and pull the pictures from the paper before it could be distributed.

The professor had better tend to his own knitting. B. VAN ARMAN.

ARTHUR DUNHAM, NOTED CHICAGO MUSICIAN, DIES

Organist at M. E. Temple, Conductor, Composer.

Arthur Dunham, one of Chicago's leading organists and a musician of national prominence, died early yesterday in St. Luke's hospital at the age of 62. His home was at 5806 Harper avenue. Surviving are his widow, Florence Fairchild Dunham, a son, Arthur Jr., a daughter, Leonora, and a sister, Mrs. T. S. Pemberton. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the First Methodist temple, 77 West Washington street.

Arthur Dunham.

Helped Design Great Organ.

It was in this church that Arthur Dunham achieved much of his recent fame as an organist. When the skyscraper church was being built in 1924, Mr. Dunham was engaged to help prepare specifications for an imposing instrument. When the organ, with four manuals and 6,300 pipes, was completed, Mr. Dunham was appointed organist of the church, a position he held until his death.

At the time of his death Mr. Dunham was also organist of K. A. M. temple at 50th street and Drexel boulevard. He had previously served in a similar capacity at Sinai temple.

For nearly twenty-five years Mr. Dunham conducted the Association of Commerce Glee club, an amateur singing organization of wide reputation in the central west. This group was honored in 1935 by being asked to sing at the first concert given at the Swift Bridge shell at A Century of Progress. For 11 years Mr. Dunham also conducted the Lyric Glee club of Milwaukee.

Organizer of Orchestra.

Mr. Dunham was a conductor for the Boston English Opera company in 1921. In 1917 he organized the Philharmonic orchestra of Chicago to give popular symphony concerts. The project, though short-lived, was greeted with critical admiration at the time. In 1922 he directed the symphony orchestra of the Tivoli theater.

He also achieved recognition as a composer. Among his longer works are "Marpessa," a tone poem for large orchestra; "Symphonic Fantasy," for organ and orchestra; a symphony in D minor, and "Suite Moods." His shorter works include the choral tone poem, "Silence," as well as many songs and anthems.

SNITE APPEALS FOR SUPPORT OF PARALYSIS DRIVE

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 24.—(AP)—"I know the need," Fred B. Snite Jr. told an international radio audience tonight as he made a fifty word appeal from his iron lung for support of the Foundation for Prevention of Infantile Paralysis.

Snite, who has lived in the metal respirator since he was stricken by the disease in China almost two years ago, spoke on a program designed to center interest on the President's birthday balls next Saturday. The respirator's pumping action permits him to speak only at intervals.

"I am happy to speak to you this evening and, like President Roosevelt, I am asking you to join with him in helping the foundation to fight infantile paralysis—I know the need," said the brief script which he read.

Snite's father said earlier today that the boy has shown some improvement and that the respirator was shut off for sixteen minutes recently while he was given a sun bath.

He was awarded custody of them at the time of their divorce last June 30.

BRITISH WORRIED BY DRIVE ON JEWS IN SOUTH AFRICA

Semitic Ratio Is 6 Times That of England.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Anti-Semitism is growing in South Africa, and it has the British worried.

Efforts have been made there to halt the immigration of Jews, but the proportion of Jews to other white inhabitants is about 4½ times as high as it was in Germany when Hitler came into power and about six times as high as in England.

As the Jewish community plays an important part in the life of South Africa, the British do not want to see any active anti-Semitism there. Large scale immigration has been halted, and the British hope that the orderly process of assimilation will solve their problem, though Jews are slow to melt into other races.

Lured by Gold and Diamonds.

Before 1870 there were few Jews in what now is the Union of South Africa. With the discovery of diamonds and gold, they began to flow in, among other settlers.

By 1911 there were 49,926 Jews in the Union of South Africa. After the United States passed its quota act in 1924, immigration to South Africa increased and by 1931 the Jewish population was 62,438. Estimates now place it well over 80,000.

The first anti-semitic move was the passage of an immigration quota act, modeled on the American act, in 1930. This drastically restricted immigration from Russia, Poland, the Baltic States, and Rumania, but not from Germany. Many German Jews have found refuge in South Africa from Nazi persecution. Though only 479 German Jews entered the union in 1932, there were 3,431 among immigrants in 1936. This aroused the nationalists again, and they claim credit for making the government pass a new "aliens act" in January of last year.

Special Permits Required.

Under the new act, an immigration selection board appointed by the government has absolute power to bar any immigrant who is not a citizen of the union or a natural born British subject.

All but those two groups must have special permits to enter the union, and the requirements are vague enough so the board can keep out anybody it wishes. There are four requirements:

1. Good character.
2. Ability to be assimilated easily into the white population of the Union of South Africa.
3. Each immigrant must be a person whose presence is not "harmful" to the country.
4. A profession or means of making a living which the board does not consider to be overcrowded.

Chicago's most famous restaurant

No... Henrici's Is not "expensive"

It's flattering . . . but it's not fair to let you think of Henrici's as a "high-price" establishment. You will dine here for not more . . . possibly at lower cost . . . than at many other establishments of far less notable character. There are very practical reasons for this. Here you choose only the foods you wish . . . and dine as simply or as elaborately as you desire. And here there are no pretentious extra features to add unnecessarily to our costs. Consequently we are able to serve the very best quality food . . . at very moderate cost.

MIAMI MAYOR, 3 MORE NAMED IN BRIBERY COUNTS

Robert Williams.

A special grand jury conducting an investigation of the new administration which took office last May also indicted Carl F. Lambert, a consulting engineer employed by the city, on a charge of having exacted a $2,800 bribe from a company which was to make a water waste survey.

Quarter Million Bribe Charged.

One indictment charged that the three commissioners and Grady accepted $250,000 from Bryan Hanks, president of the Florida Power and Light company in return for which they would vote to repeal a rate fixing ordinance adopted in 1933 that the utility has been battling in the courts ever since and to adopt a new ordinance setting electric rates suitable to the company.

$150,000 More Sought.

A second indictment charged them with conspiracy to the end that the said Grady should corruptly obtain from an officer and officers of the Florida Power and Light company for the three commissioners, $150,000. It alleged that the commissioners were to have received $50,000 apiece.

$144,730 VERDICT FOR WHOOPEE ERA EXPERT IS UPHELD

Judge Martin M. Gridley yesterday denied a motion to the city to set aside a verdict of $144,730 returned by a jury in favor of Frank H. Mesce, a real estate man, who sued the city for $854,676 in so-called expert's fees for appraising city property seventeen years ago. Assistant Corporation Counsel William Wilson said the city would appeal. Hired as an expert for a former Republican administration in the whoopee era, Mesce received $496,000 on his contract before the city refused payment.

WINS ROUND IN FIGHT FOR ESTATE OF JULIA MANN

Harry Mann, a former night club owner, yesterday won the first round in his court fight to obtain a one-third share of the $300,000 estate left by his late wife, Mrs. Julia Hertz Grossmann Mann.

Judge Michael Feinberg denied a motion to dismiss Mann's suit and ordered Mrs. Mann's daughter by a former marriage, Mrs. Lillian Ascher, to file an answer.

Mrs. Mann died Nov. 13, 1936. In the absence of a will, her estate was expected to go to Mrs. Ascher. Fred Hertz, administrator of the estate, said then that Mann could not be located. The Manns had been married May 24, 1932, at Valparaiso, Ind. In July, 1935, Mrs. Mann filed suit for divorce. Mann countered with a cross-bill. Both charged desertion, but neither bill was tried.

In his suit, drawn by Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, Mann, who lives in Milwaukee, seeks to void a prenuptial agreement made on March 30, 1932. In it he agreed to waive any interest he might have in Mrs. Mann's estate.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Hogs Into Pork.

January 24, 1938.

NEW gadgets installed in the farm sized packing plant built into the new tool shed were put to test for the first time at the Wheaton farm last week. More than 5,000 pounds of hogs are being transformed into an assortment of tasty hams, bacon, shoulders, ribs, back bones, sausages, headcheese, and mincemeat. Practically all the meat will be used on the farm.

Nineteen hogs were put through the little packing plant in short order. Sixteen of the porkers were fattened chiefly on yellow corn at the Yorkville farm and then trucked to the Wheaton farm. They weighed an average of slightly more than 263 pounds. The other three were fattened at the Wheaton place on fresh garbage collected daily from the homes scattered over the farm. Two of these averaged 250 pounds and the third one weighed about 400 pounds.

Work Speeded Up.

Regardless of size, all the hogs were easily handled with the hoisting apparatus now permanently installed in the packing plant. Even the 400 pounder was handled with ease. The carcasses were shunted on a track from room to room as they were put through the various steps required in butchering.

The men found that with the new equipment they could take a hog out of the holding pen and within 15 minutes have the carcass cleaned and hanging on the hook in the cooling room. The manager says that the time the men ordinarily take on butchering day can now be cut in half.

Six men operated the equipment. They were able to keep the hogs constantly moving along the line from the holding pen to the cooling room. The equipment is so arranged that all of the back breaking jobs are taken out of the work.

Work Is Lightened.

In every department the work of tugging away at the heavy hogs or carcasses is now done with hoisting devices fastened to overhead tracks. Even the carcass of a full grown steer can be handled in the plant with little difficulty.

The manager has found that hams and bacon slabs from hogs weighing 250 to 260 pounds are just about the right size for proper curing under the Virginia process. The same formula for curing hams and bacon used by farmers in the hills of old Virginia has been adopted at the farm. Since the winter of 1935, when the Virginia cure was first successfully tested, the farm has not used either the salt or sugar cure methods commonly employed among farmers in the middle west.

The Virginia formula for curing hams and bacon is now being used by other corn belt farmers who cure their meat at home. Details of the method are given in THE TRIBUNE'S book, "Day By Day on the Farm." Copies of this publication are on sale at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, and the Tribune Tower, at 25 cents a copy; 32 cents postpaid by mail.

MOTHER ON TRIAL FOR SLAYING OF HER LOVE RIVAL

The murder trial of Mrs. Ada Szczytowski, mother of three, opened yesterday in Judge Rudolph Desort's Criminal court. She is charged with the fatal shooting last Nov. 22, of Irene Kirstein, 26 years old, a clerk in the Szczytowski bakery at 1351 North Paulina street. Mrs. Szczytowski, 34 years old, told police she thought her husband and the clerk were having an affair.

Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin indicated he probably would not seek the death penalty. Defense Attorney Roland V. Libonati hinted that emotional insanity and the unwritten law will be his client's defense.

Husband and wife had their first real meeting in nine weeks shortly before the noon recess. Szczytowski went to his wife's side and embraced her before he was pulled away by bailiffs.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A new fashion in nail care decorates them beautifully and heals and strengthens them as well. It's done with the aid of a white protective wax applied beneath the coating of enamel.

For months we've been hearing about a wonder woman on the west coast who accomplished miracles with ailing nails. It was all done with the aid of a protective wax used beneath the enamel coat. Her salon was besieged by clients and finally she marketed her wax.

It's now come to Chicago, together with the enamels to be worn over it and her special remover. If you've a clear eye and a steady hand you can do your nails yourself with these three aids; otherwise you can tote them to your favorite manicurist.

The wax is a white liquid. Two coats of it go on before you apply polish. The whole point of the wax is that it makes a protective base that sheathes the nail surface and oils it. It's wonderfully helpful in the case of brittle, splitting, and delicate nails. It permits them to heal, because no enamel touches the surface. After a period of regular use of the wax you'll find your nails much sturdier.

The wax is brought up to the very tip of the nail and even under it. Polish must be worn in the streamline fashion and must be in a shade sufficiently dusky to conceal the white beneath it. One of the things we like best about the whole arrangement is that you can patch polish if a bit chips off. Just apply more of the same! As one typewriter banger to another we recommend this to business girls; it's a comfort to be able to repair quickly.

The shades that have been introduced with this wax are very attractive. None of them is clear or pale but none of them is in the horrible slaughterhouse class. We're told, by the way, that these are the only enamels that should be used with the wax; they've been specially blended to do the job well.

If your nails have been driving you mad lately here's a new idea you ought to look into.

Winter Trips Take Many to Warm Climes

BY JUDITH CASS.

"No one is going away this winter," said a Lake Forester yesterday and not ten minutes later we heard another resident of Lake Forest say, "Every one's planning to go somewhere except me; soon there won't be a soul left in Lake Forest"—and so it goes. Neither is right, of course, for just about as many are planning winter trips as usual, but, also as usual, no matter how many go away there always are plenty left at home to keep life busy and gay.

The Samuel Insulls, who went abroad late last summer, are now in Rome; they plan to spend the rest of the winter there and probably will return to Chicago in the spring. The junior Insulls and their little son, Sammy III., arrived at home recently from a vacation on the Pacific coast. They went west with their good friends and Geneva neighbors, the Arthur Farwells, and their little son, who is just Sammy's age. Mr. Farwell returned with the Insulls, but Mrs. Farwell and young Master Farwell are still in Pasadena with her parents, the Frederick H. Bartletts.

Joseph H. Kings Going to Bermuda.

The Joseph H. Kings and Mrs. C. Morse Ely are planning to sail on Feb. 10 for a month or six weeks in Bermuda.

California was the destination of the Rush C. Butlers, senior and junior, and Crilly Butler, when they departed by motor last week. The junior Mr. and Mrs. Butler will be away only three weeks, but Mr. and Mrs. Butler Sr. and Crilly Butler will remain in Hollywood until June.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers, who usually take a trip to Phoenix each winter, are making no plans for this year, for neither of them is in very good health. Last week they enjoyed a visit from their only granddaughter, Mrs. Hamilton Merrill [Joan Williams], who came from her home in New York and brought her little son, William, who will be a year old on March 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Woodward are leaving Friday for a six weeks' holiday in California. They will visit her father, Lyman A. Walton, in Del Monte and friends in Santa Barbara and Pasadena.

Plan Vacations in Sun Valley.

Not to seek sunshine and warmer climes, but to find sunshine and snow, Miss Anne Jay Bryant and Miss Betty Keith are leaving for Sun Valley, Idaho, on Feb. 7. Going to the popular winter sports resort on the same train will be Mrs. Reid Chatillon, Miss Frances Jeffery, Miss Narcissa Thorne, and Miss Mary Wood.

Miss Wood's parents, Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood, are planning to go to Houston, Tex., a bit later in the winter, to visit their son, Robert W. Wood II., and his bride. Another daughter of the Woods, Mrs. James R. Addington, and Mr. Addington expect to move back to Chicago from Wabash, Ind., this spring. Mrs. Addington is in Lake Forest now, visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Otis L. Hubbard.

Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr. and her children are leaving Sunday for Vero Beach, Fla., where the Madleners built a house last winter. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kennedy will go south in March to visit the Madleners. The senior Mrs. Madlener will pay them a visit later on.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr. and three debs of the season, Miss Kay Goodman, Miss Betty Armour, and Miss Mary Gardner, are leaving next Sunday for Phoenix, Ariz. Mrs. Dewey

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

When Hearts Stood Still!

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 24.—March, 1929—Backstage at the Four Cohans' theater, Chicago, the cast of the musical show, "Boom-Boom," is excited over the visit of the famous Hollywood director, Ernst Lubitsch, who has just left the dressing room of the prima donna. An actor goes to her door, raps on it, and she opens it. "I'm signed for the movies, Archie," she says excitedly. The actor throws his arms around her, and shoots the news to the rest of the company. The prima donna was Jeanette MacDonald; the actor who congratulated her was Archie Leach, better known today as Cary Grant.

July 2, 1921—The first $1,000,000 battle of the century at Boyles' thirty acres, Jersey City, with 169 pound Georges Carpentier pitted against 192 pound Jack Dempsey. As Carpentier and his entourage sweep up the aile to the ring from his dressing room, a preliminary fighter passes him. The prelim fighter is Gene Tunney. The great thrill came in the second round. Carpentier side stepped, and as Dempsey turned sharply after him in pursuit, Dempsey's chin came up from behind his shoulder. Swifter than lightning, Carpentier threw a right hand at Dempsey's chin. The blow landed on Dempsey's cheek and as the crowd screamed, Dempsey staggered, his eyes glazed and then—Dempsey charged forward again, both hands lashing out. Carpentier came within three inches of the heavyweight championship in the second round—he was knocked out in the fourth.

Christmas night, 1924—Two vaudeville agents, Max Gordon and Al Lewis, are producing their first show, "The Wild Westcotts," at the Frazee theater, New York City. It is the second act, and a $50 a week girl, 17 years old, appears and reads one line: "It was so lovely, the garden is very beautiful—I am so hungry." The girl is Claudette Colbert, and that was her entrance to show business.

July, 1934—At Chicago's world fair, a travel stained boy is applying for a job, any kind of job. He visits one concession after another, and is rejected. "How to Make Movies," last concession in that alle, is his last chance. Timidly he goes up to the man in charge. "I'm broke, hungry, I need a job and I've had a little experience in the movies as an extra," the travel stained kid says. The man hires him for $2 a day. The boy's name—Tyrone Power.

October, 1924—The twelfth inning of the first game of the world series between the Washington Senators and the New York Giants, at Washington, D. C., with Walter Johnson against Artie Nehf. With two men out in the last half of the twelfth, and Washington runners on second and third, McGraw signals Nehf not to walk Goose Goslin. Nehf pitches a low outside curve and Goslin hooks at it savagely. The ball speeds toward second base, and George Kelly, playing second, grabs it in his bare hand and without straightening up, hurls it to Bill Terry at first. Terry, playing his first world series game, perks himself off the bag, digs the bad throw out of the dirt with one hand and holds on to it. Umpire Bill Klem waves out Goslin, and the game is over.

March, 1919—A 17 year old boy, decorating a Hollywood drug store window, unmindful of the crowd of gapers in the street, is handed an envelope by a clerk in the store. The sidewalk gapers watch him open the letter and then see him leap into the air wildly. The letter is from Munsey's magazine and inclosed is a check for his first magazine story sale. The 17 year old window dresser —Darryl Zanuck.

August, 1918—A high school boy, somewhat abashed, enters the shop of Theodore Mack on Van Buren street, Chicago. "Is he ready yet, Mr. Mack?" he asks. "It will cost exactly $35, my lad," says the shop owner. The boy hands him thirty-five $1 bills and Theodore Mack hands Edgar Bergen the woodcarving you know today as Charlie McCarthy.

November, 1921 — Benny Leonard against Ritchie Mitchell at the old Madison Square Garden, in the feature attraction of Anne Morgan's benefit for devastated France. The bell for the first round calls them to mid-ring. They spar, go into a clinch and out of the clinch. Leonard floors Mitchell with a hard right to the mouth. Mitchell staggers back to his feet, backs away and Leonard floors him again with another right to the chin. Mitchell, badly shaken, pulls himself up on the ropes and is hardly erect when Leonard charges in, measures him calmly and drops him with a volley of blows to the head and stomach. Mitchell, blood streaming from his mouth, crawls back to his feet and staggers around the ring as if in a drunken stupor. Benny misses him with a left and starts a right—but Michell throws a right hand punch in desperation, and Leonard, rushing in, is dropped to the canvas. He gets up shakily, the crowd in an uproar, and taunts Mitchell: "Come in and fight." Mitchell, startled, backs away, permits him to recover and in the sixth round, Benny Leonard flattened him for the full count in the wildest fight old Madison Square ever had seen.

Career Girls! Here's a Find in Office Wear

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Dresses for career girls limping along on slim budgets have been hard to find, but constant prowling has resulted in a break for all. It's the white dotted office dresses to be found in one up and coming medium price dress collection. These dresses are positive miracles of smartness.

Slightly less than five dollars buys one of these crisp, fresh beauties.

The skirts are short and pleated all the way around, with pleats that are narrow at the hipline so that it stays smooth and slender. Sleeves are elbow length, and the bodice high and demure with two neat little pointed turnover front tabs faced with snowy white. Around the waistline is a tie belt of the same dotted material as the dress. Dark red spattered with small white dots, and deep navy blue, almost black, are the color choices.

For such low price they're of course not all silk, but the material is sturdy and crisp and should keep its press with just average care. In one of the dotted numbers you can feel like a million dollars in something new and perky.

At a low price you can also find some particularly good tweedy textured fabrics in dusty pastels, made with excellent tailored details and short sleeves. None of them is over ten dollars and all are snappily designed and easy to wear.

Swedish Art Society Opens Good Exhibit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The annual exhibition of the Swedish-American Art association has opened in the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, to continue to Feb. 12. It is an excellent show and bids fair to rival in popularity the exhibition of little etchings put on in the same gallery last fall.

There are landscapes, some superb still lifes, a few figure studies, a marine or so, and a scattering of fantistic pictures, in the current exhibit.

In the first of the series of little galleries there are several paintings which command an instant appreciation. Chief among them is the portrait of Thorvald Otterstrom by Mary C. Peterson, who is, by the way, one of Chicago's most gifted painters. Mr. Otterstrom is portrayed in a very casual and friendly fashion, slouched in a chair, wearing a blue shirt and tie and holding in one hand a comfort-inducing pipe. Miss Peterson has secured a capital likeness and a most pleasing painting.

"Cosmos," by Minnie A. Carlson, hangs near the portrait and is a fresh and charming study of flowers. Near it, too, is "Church of Vera Cruz," by Carl T. Linden, delightful in color and atmosphere and in the free swinging technique the artist has chosen to use. "Twilight in the Woodland," by Alex Linus, is a large landscape in the same gallery, a romantic and picturesque dissertation on trees banked deep in snow.

"Trees in Autumn," by Ernest Fredericks, is a gleaming, glittering landscape in another of the cubicles, and keeping it company are "Hawk and Crows," by Cecil Larson, well done and most effective, and "Danseuse," by Paul L. Olson. "The Old Swimming Hole," by Frederic Remahl, is a bit too near the farmhouse to be true to American tradition, but nevertheless the canvas has a certain quiet charm. Remahl is prone to "quaint" pictures; there is something of this quality in his work in the present show.

Among the other paintings which make this an important exhibit are "Black and White" by Gus Wick, "In the Berkshires" by Thomas Hall, "Winter Landscape" by Grace Spongberg, "Still Life" by Thure Almgren, "Still Life with Flowers" by Mrs. Elizabeth Goranson, "Echo of the Flower Show" by Minnie A. Carlson, "Summer in Indiana" by Lillian E. Hall, and "Ice Palace" by Carl Wallin.

Stanley Field Starts His 30th Year as Museum President

Stanley Field, recently reëlected president of the Field Museum of Natural History, is beginning his 30th year in that office. Clifford C. Gregg, museum director and secretary, also has been reëlected.

GUNHAMMERED GOLD

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1938: By Frederick Dilley Glidden.]

SYNOPSIS.

Poco St. Vrain arrives in the western town of Christian City, escaping a pursuing troop of cavalry. There Two-Way Hornbeck approaches him with a scheme. Abe McCandless, who framed Poco and made an outlaw of him, owns a gold mine on a mountain peak. Two insurance agents sent to meet at the mine and bring down the gold are murdered by two different bands of outlaws. Two-Way persuades Poco to pose as one of the agents, Jake Finger, whose papers he has, and get the gold. At the mountain camp Poco finds Repey Cardewan, killer gunman, posing as the other agent. They dare not give each other away to Shayne, the mine manager, and his lovely daughter, Kate.

INSTALMENT VIII.

TRAPPED.

Poco whirled, startled, and then remembered himself. "Hello," he answered.

Kate was beside him now, and he noticed for the first time that she was shorter than he. Looking out over the moonwashed mountains, she said, "They aren't near as grand in full moonlight."

Poco said, "No."

She looked at him now. "Does it make you not want to ever talk again?"

Poco glanced at her obliquely and said, "No. People can do that to me."

She caught his glance and regarded him calmly for a full moment. "I'll go," she said. She turned away, walked a few steps, then wheeled and came back. "I'm hanged if I will!" she said in a low, angry voice. "You can be as rude as you want. You won't drive me off."

Surprised now, Poco observed her, but there was not one jot of apology in his tone when he said, "I didn't mean you."

"You mean everybody," Kate said flatly. "I've been watching you ever since you came up here with your still, sneering face, your wary deep eyes and that smile that seems to hurt you. You don't trust or like anybody except yourself, do you?"

Poco turned this over in his mind and said, surprisingly, "That's right. Who else would I?"

"Not Shelton, certainly. You don't like him. I could tell that."

Poco smothered a start. "He's all right."

"Next to you," Kate said, "he falls in the class everybody else is in. To be tolerated, not liked."

Poco just looked at the mountains and said nothing and the silence dragged. Finally Kate said, "I'm sorry I said that. It was none of my business. I hardly know you."

Poco said sardonically, without looking at her, "Go on. It sounds like we're married."

Instead of getting angry, Kate did not speak, and Poco looked at her, puzzled.

Kate said, "What has happened to you?"

"Nothing." Poco still regarded her with his insolent stare. "What's happened to you? I thought I was minding my own business until you came along."

Kate laughed uneasily. "Nothing, I guess. Only I've been up here all winter, seeing the same faces, getting to know these men. And then you come up from below. You've been with people, lots of people, and you moved around through lots of country. But Shelton is close-mouthed, never speaks unless to answer a question. And you."

"What about me?"

"I've watched you since you first came up. You built up a wall of reserve every time I tried to talk to you. I like laughter and fun and people my own age and—and consideration." She paused. "I wonder. Is the whole world getting like this? Surly and unlikable?"

"It always has been," Poco said.

"Have you ever stopped to think that people like you on first sight?" Kate asked. "You could make friends, lots of them, if you weren't like a porcupine."

"I've got a job, enough money, what it takes to live," Poco replied. "What else do I need?"

"What do you?" Kate echoed. "I know what I need. I need love and—and respect, and affection and some one to lean on."

"You're a woman."

"Dad does, too. He pays it back, though. He helps people, tries to be kind and tolerant and just. He's kept these men in harmony all winter. He saw what a temptation it was for them to be mining a fortune every week and only drawing wages for it, just because somebody else had luck. Do you know what he did?"

"No."

"He fought for a thousand dollar bonus for every man. He got it for them from Abe McCandless. These men would die for him now."

Poco said, "Give one of them a gun, enough shells, a key to your door, the keys to the chest and a chance to make a getaway, then see. They might die for him if he shot them. That's all."

Kate did not move, did not say anything, but Poco had the feeling that he was being reproved.

"I don't understand how you've worked for this company as long as you have," Kate said at last, and there was no reproof in her voice.

"I'm tough," Poco said tonelessly. "I earn my pay. I can fight, I've got brains, I've got guts."

"Isn't that what you said about St. Vrain tonight?" Kate asked. When Poco only shifted uncomfortably, she continued. "I think you admire him."

"I do."

"An outlaw?"

"That's chance," Poco said carelessly. "If he'd been treated with kindness and decency and—"

"Toleration," Kate put in. "All those things you were ridiculing a minute ago. If he'd had all that when he needed it, he'd have been a fine, strong, silent law-abiding man like you. Is that it?"

She turned and paused long enough to say, "Maybe so. But if he turned out like you, perhaps he's better off where he is. Good night."

Poco felt his face hot as he bade her good night. When she was gone his lips lifted in a soundless oath. A preacher—a woman preacher who looked like an angel and talked like a pious circuit rider. What did she know about men, about a man that was thrown on his own when he was a kid, framed when he was seventeen, hunted and hounded until he was driven into shooting his way to a goal? But underneath all this self-justification, Poco sensed a grain of truth in what she said.

He was cold now, and he strolled back to the shack and entered it. Cardowan had his boots off, ready to go to bed.

"That's a good looking gal," he said slyly. "Do yourself any good?"

Something bright and hot flamed up in Poco and he strode across the room and grabbed Cardowan by the shirt and half pulled him off the bed.

"You cheap killer slob!" he said thickly. "Talk of her again and I'll kill you now and the gold be damned!"

Cardowan shrunk away. In all his dealings with Poco St. Vrain, he had always beheld a cool, insolent, nerveless piece of machinery who seemed not to have a temper. Now he was looking at a wild man.

He said, "Take it easy, Poco. Hell, I didn't say anything."

"Don't," Poco said, and released him. Cardowan fell back on the bed, Poco blew the light. In bed, he lay with open eyes thinking about tomorrow. He was trapped, sure as day followed night. He tried to think of a way out, but he found the image of Kate Shayne, her serene face bathed in the pale moonlight, crowding out all other thoughts. Why had he lost his temper with Cardowan over a remark that usually he would have grinned at? Was he getting soft? He didn't know, lying there with his hands over his head. He went to sleep that way, with Cardowan's uneasy breathing a little louder than the pushing wind at the cabin corners.

Family Car Is Start of Much Marital Woe

BY DORIS BLAKE.

All of the motor fatalities are not recorded in the frequently published lists of dead and injured after holiday and week-end jaunts. A good many occur where not even a broken fender shows. We speak of the companionship casualties between husbands and wives that occur right inside the family car. Marjorie D. Kern, in her excellent book, "Getting Along Together" [McBride], says: "If any one can think of a topic guaranteed to arouse more provocation, I wish he would tell me about it. The thorn in the situation is that whoever is not driving is sitting beside the driver, bored, with nothing else to do but try to take part in the driving by remote control."

The number of particulars connected with the operation of a motor vehicle, about which there is room for a difference of opinion, in Mrs. Kern's judgment, is an endless source of astonishment. There is the speed at which the car is driven that starts an argument which may end in a bitter quarrel. The wife may be a nervous passenger and the man know it, but he often will put on speed and resent like the very mischief a word of appeal from her to go slowly. The faster he drives and the longer he keeps it up, the closer his companion is to a burst of temper. So, if said outburst eventually descends upon his head, the man can blame himself.

We heard of one promising romance that ended a couple of months before the planned wedding date. The fiancé's habit of deliberately rushing up to an automobile parked immediately ahead at trafic stops, just to show off how well and quickly he could stop his car, drove the girl into a frenzy of fear time and again. She pleaded with him not to do it, but it was his show-off act, apparently, and he did it once too often. Result, a bad quarrel and permanent dissolution of all future plans together.

Mrs. Kern lists a similar offense, that of rushing up to an obstacle and slamming on the brakes in lieu of a more leisurely approach which would enable the passenger to maintain his seat without going through the windshield. Driving in the inside lane of trafic because the inside lane is thought quicker is another irritant, because the driver finds himself held up at corners by somebody wanting to make a left turn.

Anyway, you know the danger signals, some of them, at least, which just a little kindliness and common sense would render harmless.

Cites Role of Liberty in America's Advance Toward Social Justice

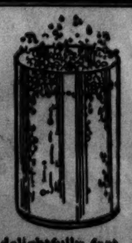
The United States' problems today are caused by unprecedented success, not failure, Barclay Acheson, associate editor of the Reader's Digest, told members of the Woman's City club yesterday. This country has made more progress in the last 100 years than was made anywhere else in the world in 1,000 years, and that progress inevitably has given rise to present day problems.

"Our material progress is generally conceded, but our progress toward social justice often is debated," Mr. Acheson said. "Yet it was only 100 years ago that 1,600 persons were imprisoned in the New York Bridewell for debts of less than $25. After the civil war children still were working in factories from 4:30 in the morning until 7:15 at night for from $1 to $3 a week."

"Only in a democracy can orderly, progressive change take place," Mr. Acheson emphasized. Our existing agencies for social justice we owe to individuals who have been free to develop them. We have freedom of speech and of the press, and we also have freedom of imagination. We are free to pitch in and find a solution to our difficulties without fear of dictatorship either by government or by tradition."

"In Russia an obstreperous minority would be rubbed out by a firing squad," Mr. Acheson added. "Here a minority can work out its ideas by the trial and error method. If they work, the rest of us can follow suit; if they fail, not every one suffers, as is the case in a totalitarian state."

Relieves Pains, Distress of "Morning-After Acidity"



WHEN YOU WAKE UP IN THE morning dull, headachy or out-of-sorts with yourself and the world, don't keep on feeling miserable. Your trouble is probably due to a night-time accumulation of excess acids that cause "morning acidity" and may lead to...

Constipation	Gas
Sour Stomach	Heartburn
Acid Indigestion	Loss of Appetite
Headache	or Nausea

To relieve this condition just do this: Take a little condensed JAD Salts in a glass of warm water before breakfast and almost at once you'll start to feel better.

Relief comes so delightfully fast because this sparkling pleasant drink acts on "morning acidity" two ways at once. It counteracts acidity and cleans away the toxic waste matter. As a result, it helps to make you feel fine and look fine.

Now don't endure misery—causing "morning acidity". To feel clean, keen, gloriously alive, start the day right...with a little JADS in a glass of warm water. Get a bottle of Condensed JAD Salts from your druggist—today!

It was an early apeman who discovered honey, you know. 'Tis said he was stung on a finger by an angry bee when accidentally plunging his hand through a honeycomb. Sucking the honey dripping finger to ease the pain he found the sweet stickiness delightful to taste.

Honey Fruit Dressing.

¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon caraway seed [optional]
⅓ cup strained honey
¼ cup lemon juice
⅓ cup salad oil

Measure salt, paprika, and seed into a bowl. Stir in the honey. Add lemon juice gradually, beating it in well with a wire whisk. When thoroughly mixed add salad oil a little at a time, beating it in well. Serve at once. Or pour into a bottle and store for future use. The dressing will need to be shaken each time it is used. For a more piquant flavor rub the mixing bowl with a cut clove of garlic before making the dressing.

Simple Honey Dressing.

⅓ cup honey
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons crushed pineapple

Stir lemon juice and honey together and add salt and crushed pineapple. Serve with fresh or canned fruit. This dressing is particularly good with banana salad.

Honey French Dressing.
[1⅓ cups.]

½ cup salad oil
¼ cup honey
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon powdered mustard
2 teaspoons paprika
¼ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons catsup
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Honey Cheese Dressing.

1 package [3 ozs.] cream cheese
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
¾ cup salad oil

Blend cheese, honey, lemon juice, salt, and paprika. Add the cold oil gradually at first and more generously later, beating vigorously all the time. Serve with any simple fruit salad.

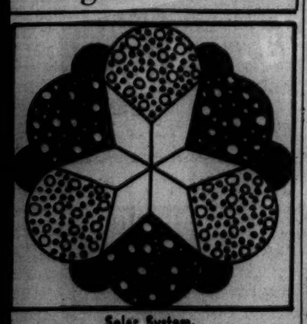
Honey Meringue Dressing.

Use a fourth cup honey to one egg white. Beat the egg white until stiff and add honey slowly, beating constantly. After all honey is in, beat until the mixture stands in peaks. Keep this dressing in a flat bowl, uncovered, in the refrigerator.

WEDDING

The wedding of Miss Ruth Isabel Atwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Atwood of Oak Park, to Lieut. Frank W. Chesrow, son of Mrs. Frances Chesrow, 3240 West Washington boulevard, took place yesterday at the Lake Shore Athletic club with military ceremonies. Lieut. Chesrow is in the reserve corps. Lieut. Chesrow will take his bride on a three months' hunting expedition in Dutch Guiana. Upon their return the couple will be at home in Oak Park.

"Solar System" Quilt Based on Eight Point Star



Solar System.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Solar System" is an old favorite in the quilt realm. It is based on the simple eight pointed star and incorporates all the major and minor satellites in the celestial sphere. This is not a difficult applique pattern in spite of its rather complicated appearance, although one must not be lacking in patience when sewing the patches together. A combination of printed and plain materials aids in achieving that brilliant effect found only in the heavens. The finished applique block measures 12 inches square and 30 applique blocks are set together with four inch bands between blocks and surrounded by a seven inch border and a one-half inch bias binding.

A Charming Mid-Season Frock

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This charming midseason frock, which emphasizes two important fashion trends, the slim waist and the use of colorful prints, is a major item which you can't afford to leave out of your wardrobe. It also will serve you well when spring arrives.

This frock, which is dressy enough for all types of informal social events, whether in the daytime or evening, has a V neckline which may be left plain or be topped with a wide rever collar. The sleeves, puffed at the shoulders, may be short or full length. Shirring, radiating from the shoulder yoke and the waistline, gives soft fulness to the bodice. A tailored belt or a soft sash may be used at the waist, as you choose. The skirt is paneled for a slim fit through the hips and plenty of width at the hemline.

This is the season for both prints and gay plain shades. Such selections are tonics for winter-weary clothes collections and also ideal starters for the next season.

Style No. 3438 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Prepare Child for the Birth of a New Baby

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

What people who haven't had experience with it can't understand is the complete naturalness of little children in regard to the facts of reproduction, sex, and all the parts and functions of the body. Their curiosity touches these subjects as it touches all others that come within their range of interest. Their attitude is the same and they accept the information given to them in a perfectly simple way, except where the wonder and beauty [as of birth] lift the actual facts above the prosaic. Although they are entirely natural in their acceptance of the story of how they came to be, they often are also, strangely enough, touched by it, even when it is not told in an emotional way.

As to embarrassment and self-consciousness, they exist only when they are communicated to children by their grownups; or when some older child with a distorted attitude or garbled facts has gotten there before you in imparting information.

There are still adults who think it quite shocking to tell young children the enchanting news that they are to have a little baby brother or sister. Imagine depriving them of this delight. Imagine missing this opportunity of sharing a rare experience with them.

Small children should be told that a baby is coming. Then they will ask questions. These should be answered simply and clearly. If you aren't sure of some of the facts yourself or if you are in doubt how to word your replies, we have helpful reading suggestions that cover the subject thoroughly.

Give Party Today for Fire Survivors.

The Chicago Historical society is entertaining about twenty socially prominent Chicagoans who survived the great fire of 1871 at luncheon today in the Chicago room of the Palmer house. After luncheon the party will visit the site of the start of the fire, at De Koven and Jefferson streets, and then will view the city—weather permitting—from the Chicago Board of Trade building observation tower.

The party will have tea at the Historical society and meet June Lang, Brian Donlevy, and Cesar Romero, film players who are here to attend the opening of "In Old Chicago" at the Apollo theater Thursday night.

The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, Inc., and the International Air Show, Inc., have invitations out for a preview of the International Air show on Friday from 11 to 1 o'clock in the International amphitheater.

Many dinner parties are being planned for Friday night to precede a piano recital by Rudolph Reuter for the benefit of the Fund for Young Artist Appearances. The recital will be given in the Goodman theater at 8:30 o'clock.

The fund has been established to compensate prize winners and others deemed worthy of having public performances. The Society of American Musicians will administer the fund.

THE KIND DOUBLE.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

If a player were to address his adversaries as follows: "Look out, you fellows! The suit you are about to name trump is horribly divided. You'd better select a safer contract," he would either be rushed off to the booby-hatch [if he had told the truth] or thrown out on his ear [if he were lying].

Yet, on more occasions than I should like to attempt counting, this warning is presented to the appreciative opponents, and in a form just as understandable as the above words. I refer, of course, to that silly type of penalty double that steers the opponents past the rocks of distribution.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	6 clubs	Double
6 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

South undoubtedly would have permitted the six club bid to stand had not East, by his double, warned of a bad club break. After that South felt that his best chance would be in no trump.

West opened his fourth best diamond. Declarer took East's queen and proceeded to make the correct spade play. In a superficial sense, the finesse was a guess, but there were sound reasons for finessing to dummy instead of playing East for the queen. First, East was marked with long clubs and the assumption, therefore, was that he was short in other suits. Second, the queen, even if guarded three times, could be comfortably picked up if it lay in West's hand, but under the same circumstances could not be taken away from East.

On this sound reasoning, declarer laid down the spade ace and followed with the jack. West, having no reason to cover, ducked and the jack went through. The ten followed. West again ducked and then a low heart was led to the queen. The spade king was cashed, declarer discarding a heart and then the ace and king of hearts were cashed.

At this point all hands were down to five cards. Declarer's were a losing heart, the king-jack of diamonds and the queen-four of clubs. Dummy held nothing but clubs. East had been forced to keep the K-J-9 of clubs and, therefore, had only two diamonds. Now declarer cashed the king and jack of diamonds, after which he led the club queen and passed it. East was helpless. He could do nothing but take the king and return a club from his jack-9 up to dummy's ace-10.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Studebaker theater, neglected by the drama although admirably prepared to shelter it, adds to the list of Chicago playbills a casual entertainment of Afro-American type called "Sugar Hill." The show, given by an all-colored cast, largely recruited in Chicago, is a loosely arranged comedy with songs, dealing in a satirical vein with the ostentatious aristocracy of the Harlem district in New York.

This production has been staged for the benefit of the Frederick Douglass Health Foundation, and as an enterprise with a charitable purpose it may be considered as privileged against uncompromising criticism. It serves its purpose well enough; its interpretation is generally competent; and some of its characterizations of Harlem's fantastic pseudo-intellectuals are fairly humorous. The cast is large and well dressed, and a number of the players have professional skill.

Maurice Evans' engagement in Shakespeare's "Richard II." at the Grand Opera house, Feb. 21 to March 5, may contain a special performance of "King Henry IV." [Part I.], with the star in the rôle of Falstaff. He has already appeared as Shakespeare's toss-pot knight in Philadelphia, Toronto, and Detroit with striking success.

Katharine Hepburn has decided not to appear in "Jane Eyre" under the Theater Guild's auspices in New York this season. She is, however, under contract to the Guild for a New York production in another play next season.

Burton Holmes will begin his annual series of travel talks in Orchestra hall on Feb. 16, to remain for five weeks. His topics will be: "A Motor Tour Through South Africa," "Italy and the New Roman Empire," "The World-Wide British Empire," "Picturesque Germany," and "Down to Rio Over the Andes."

Diva Lily Pons Shares Beauty Care Routine

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Lily Pons is considered one of the most attractive stars of opera, radio, the concert, and motion pictures. However, she is the first one to admit that she has her good and bad facial points, even as you and I.

The diva has a few basic beauty practices which she willingly describes to all who ask her about them.

Taking exquisite care of her jet black hair is one of them. The diminutive star declares that it is far more important to keep black hair immaculate than it is in the case of shades of brown. To look its best, black hair always must be kept clean and shining. Because she has it shampooed once a week at least, with a dry shampoo in between, Miss Pons' hair always is perfect in texture, without a trace of oiliness to mar its beauty.

Miss Pons' large brown eyes are another of her best features, and she is particular in her care of them. Morning and night she uses a simple eye wash. When she does this, she rolls her eyes ten times, as this not only enables the eye bath to do its work thoroughly, but rests the delicate eye muscles as well. When they are tired, she soothes them by applying fragrant herbal packs or cotton pads soaked in witch hazel or cold tea.

The singing star prefers cream mascara to the cake type, and applies either brown or bronze shadow to her lids, which have been subtly outlined with a brown pencil.

Although the star's mouth is of a generous size, it is perfectly shaped. For this reason she follows the natural shape of her lips when applying raspberry lip rouge.

Because her skin has warm, almost dusky tones to it, she uses deep shades of powder, applied with cotton, carefully avoiding her eyes. She also finds warm powder tones most flattering to her features.

Because she knows that perfect health is the underlying secret of a vibrant personality and radiance of skin, hair, and eyes, Miss Pons does not neglect her diet.

Swimming and gardening are listed as her favorite outdoor pastimes, combining both muscle limbering exercise and the opportunity to be out in the fresh air.

The last point of beauty in her régime, and one which she considers of utmost importance, is one which is purely mental. Her great love of people and her joy in the contacting of all things living undoubtedly account for much of the warmth and magnetism of the "mite of the Met's" personality.

The Housewife

Is the electric cord to your iron worn and frazzled? Many an accident happens when electrical appliances are neglected and are allowed to run down at the heel.

If you need a new cord invest in one of the handy, elastic ones that lighten the task of ironing. There are two types, each having a metal bracket that clamps to the table, holds the silk cord out of the way of the iron, and eliminates dragging of the cord, tangling, and soiling of clean clothes.

We liked the type with the metal elastic cord the better, for it seemed a little easier to use. It will extend to 8 feet or automatically take in the cord, as you iron. And the clamp folds down even with the ironing board or the table when not in use. The price is just a little over a dollar.

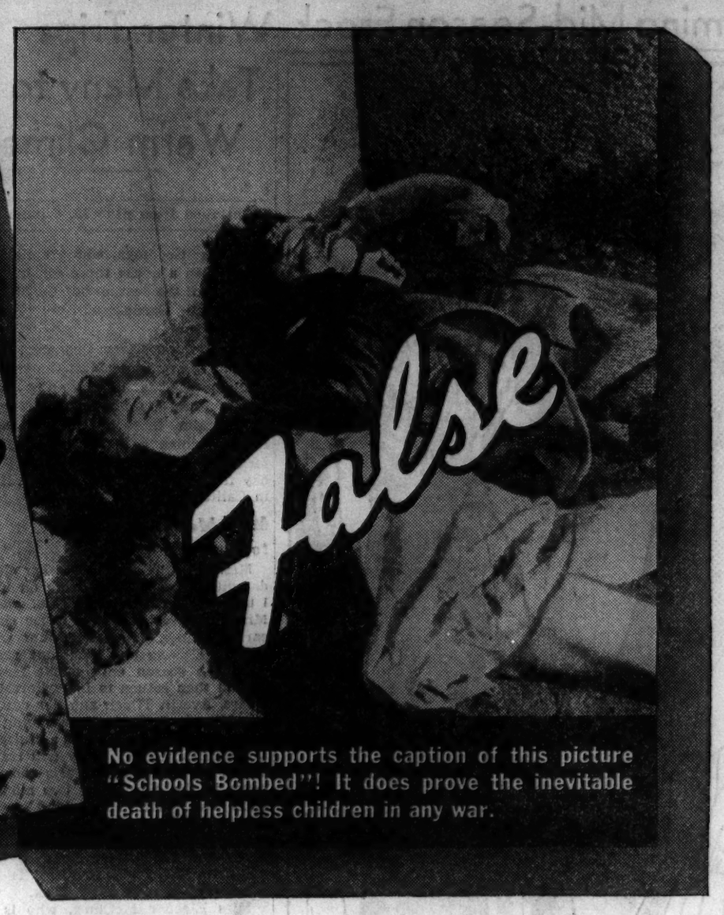
LOOK EXPOSES VICIOUS WAR PROPAGANDA!



False
No evidence supports the caption of this picture "Schools Bombed"! It does prove the inevitable death of helpless children in any war.

"Distinguished Service to the Nation," Say Leaders in Every Walk of Life!

THERE is a well established publicity technique for the conduct of a successful modern war. Millions of people are whipped into a patriotic frenzy and a hysterical hatred of other millions by well manufactured lies—"propaganda" if you prefer the polite name for these distortions of the truth.

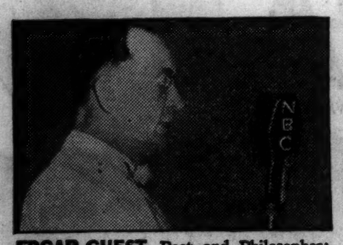
These lies are circulated principally by recruited spellbinders, by the printed word, by inflammatory cartoons, and by the always convincing faked photograph.

In war's excitement it is not always easy to distinguish the false from the true. LOOK feels that by exposing the bag of tricks employed by war's press agents to stir up bloody death—and particularly the picture lies—straight thinking Americans will be encouraged to examine war propaganda with intelligent skepticism.

This LOOK feature is in keeping with LOOK's avowed editorial purpose, which is to give the average American family a clean, interesting, informative program of magazine entertainment, and also to aid and abet the universal human desire to SEE and UNDERSTAND. LOOK will continue as it has begun, to reveal the inside facts—to expose chicanery and humbug wherever and whenever it finds them.

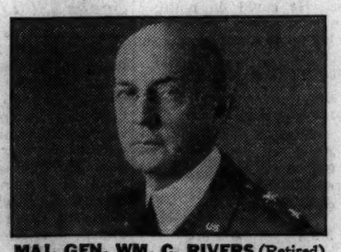
LOOK's purpose as a serious, substantial picture magazine is becoming more and more apparent to the American public as each issue appears. One year old, and more than 2,000,000 people buy it every issue!

On this page are quotations from some of the leaders in American thought who have expressed approval of LOOK's editorial policy.



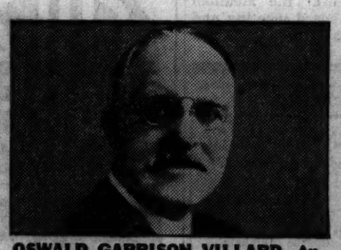
EDGAR GUEST, Poet and Philosopher: "In this interesting exposure of some of the trickery by which wars are promoted and prolonged, LOOK is bringing to light some of the material which should have the careful consideration of all thinking and peace loving people."

GLENN FRANK, Noted Author; Editor and Educator: "Hats off to LOOK for exposing war propaganda. The camera has done what millions of words have failed to do."



MAJ. GEN. WM. C. RIVERS (Retired) Croix de Guerre and Distinguished Service Medal: "I believe that LOOK is performing a useful service to the American people in exposing false and deceptive propaganda which was widely circulated during the World War."

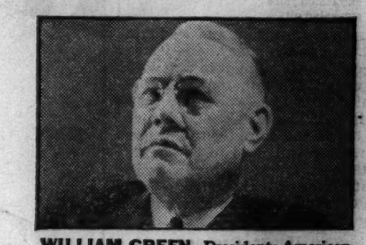
GERALD P. NYE, Senator, North Dakota: "I am one of those who is desperately fearful lest we find ourselves on the road to war again even more definitely than we are at this moment. You are making a startling success of your picture magazine, and I was especially pleased with the present issue and its approach on the war propaganda issue."



OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD, Author and Nationally Known Liberal: "I have been immensely gratified that LOOK has begun to expose war propaganda. I hope you will keep it up. . . . With heartiest thanks for the work you are doing for civil liberties and peace. . . ."

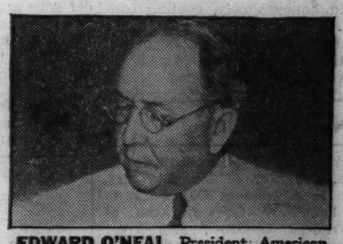
PHILIP F. LaFOLLETTE, Governor of Wisconsin: "I think LOOK is to be congratulated for its illuminating exposure of war propaganda methods. Its series on this subject is a genuine contribution to public education."

WILLIAM E. BORAH, Senator; Idaho: "To LOOK . . . no greater service can be rendered to the cause of peace than to expose the villainy of war propaganda. War propaganda has been reduced to an insidious, sordid, brutal science. There is no way by which the people can be placed on guard against its evil effects so well and so effectively as by the method you have chosen. I congratulate you on a great and most humane undertaking."



WILLIAM GREEN, President; American Federation of Labor: "The editors of LOOK are to be commended for exposing the horrible propaganda methods employed by both sides during the World War. These pictures, distributed originally to stir up national hatreds, should, by their publication and dissemination at this time, accomplish the opposite objective of inspiring a universal determination for peace."

IDA B. WISE SMITH, National President, Woman's Christian Temperance Union: "I rejoice in another patriotic service LOOK is rendering to our country. With war hysteria plainly beginning; with some leaders (particularly of youth) who have been so strongly opposed to war now weakening; sad to say, there needs to be every possible approach to people's minds. 'Visual Education' is the method of the hour; so I am glad LOOK will reach the millions who see its pictures."



EDWARD O'NEAL, President, American Farm Bureau Federation: "Keeping the truth about the tragic realities of war before the people will be a major factor in making them think twice before entering into another conflict. Through the realism of pictures, the mass of people, unaware of war's horrors, are being educated to the point where they will not be easily beguiled. LOOK is to be commended on its giving the people a true picture of the horrors of war."

CUBS, DODGERS RESUME ACTION ON MUNGO DEAL

MacPhail, Rowland Go Into Huddle.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The two month old sparring match between the Chicago Cubs and the Brooklyn Dodgers over the services of the latter's choicest playing asset, Pitcher Van Lingle Mungo, was reported resumed last night.

Larry MacPhail, recently appointed business manager of the Dodgers, was in town for a few hours, presumably having a conference with Clarence Rowland, secretary of trades in the P. K. Wrigley baseball cabinet.

MacPhail asked for the appointment by wire during the afternoon, saying that he wanted to get a definite idea of what the Cubs would offer before he proceeded to St. Louis to find out how high the Cardinals will bid for his star right hander.

No Demaree, No Trade.

All the previous discussions with the Brooklyn club in connection with Mungo were conducted with officials in charge until MacPhail ascended the throne. Those officials, who opened the negotiations by asking for bids from the Chicago club, rejected various combinations of Cub athletes because the latter club didn't include Outfielder Frank Demaree. Whether MacPhail, who has gone far enough during his few days in office to admit Mungo is definitly on the block, will make a similar demand isn't known.

The Cubs, since the bargaining started last December, have submitted three or four separate propositions based on players and cash.

The Brooklyn club, according to reports, has placed a $150,000 valuation on Mungo although refusing to consider disposing of him for cash. The figure was set merely to provide a working basis.

These Things Get Around.

The idea—at least it was such until MacPhail leaped into the picture—was to whittle down the cash payment for every Cub picked by the Brooklyn club. The pick was to be made from a list of men furnished by the Cubs. The makeup of the entire list never has been divulged, but some of the names have leaked out from time to time.

Each man on the list carried a valuation based on his individual ability, thus providing definite figures to charge off against Brooklyn's theoretical $150,000. Should four Cubs be picked by the Dodgers and the paper worth of the quartet was agreed upon as $75,000, the Chicago club would pay the remaining $75,000 in cash.

They Want Bryant, Too.

When the deal was first discussed in December the Brooklyn club, along with its demand for Demaree, insisted that Pitcher Clay Bryant be among the two or three others. The Chicago club, according to reports, not only refused to consider giving Demaree away, but balked on Bryant on the theory that the latter is as good a prospect as was Mungo a few years ago.

The last offer made to Brooklyn included First Baseman Rip Collins, Infielder Linus Frey, Pitcher Leroy Parmelee and Outfielder Carl Reynolds. The Dodger bosses spurned this because they didn't want to take back Frey, who was a Brooklyn employé until traded to the Cubs a year ago. The Brooklyn club also wanted Joe Marty substituted for Reynolds.

If the swap is made and Collins is included, it probably would mean that Buddy Hassett, now the Dodger first baseman, would be traded to the Giants, who need a man for that particular precinct.

CAVARRETTA SIGNS

Player contracts, properly signed, continued to arrive at the Cubs' offices in the Wrigley building yesterday. The documents came from Phil Cavarretta, listed as the 1938 first baseman; Bob Garbark, who will fill the third string catcher's job, and Tony York, an infielder drafted from the Tulsa club. Cavarretta is wintering in Houston, Tex., and expects to proceed from there direct to the training camp.

Second baseman Billy Herman came in yesterday from his gum route but was so busy making out sales reports that he delayed turning in his signed contract.

Manager Charley Grimm is expected to arrive today to attend funeral services for John O. Seys tomorrow afternoon.

HOLD FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR SEYS OF CUBS

Funeral services for John Osborn Seys, vice president of the Cubs, who died Sunday night as the result of pneumonia, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue. The service of the Episcopal church will be read by the Rev. Carl Naumann of Evanston.

The body will be cremated.

Is There a Champion in the House?

Report Ohio Banker Buys Half of Reds

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Powel Crosley, president of the Cincinnati Reds, has sold a half interest in the ball club to Edgar T. Wolfe, publisher and banker of Columbus, O., it was reported in Wall street today.

Wolfe, reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in the middle west, is publisher of the Ohio State Journal, a director in the Bancohio corporation, a holding company which controls fifteen banks in Ohio, and owns a radio station in Columbus. Wall street estimates his assets in excess of $20,000,000.

It's a Hobby.

He is 45 years old and enters baseball strictly as a fan. Until the present time, he has been successful in avoiding publicity and will regard his interest in the Reds purely as a hobby.

The report of Wolfe's purchase checks on two points. Although Crosley is a rich man, business conditions have had a serious effect on his radio business, in which most of his capital is invested. It may be that Crosley needs new capital to continue operating on a big time scale in Cincinnati.

Then there is a rumor that Larry MacPhail, recently appointed vice president and general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was a stockholder in the Reds. As such he would be required by baseball law to sell his holding when he joined the Dodgers.

George Potak is another of the large group of candidates which passed its physical tests in the C. Y. O. gymnasium.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Two sets of brothers were included in the 194 boxers who reported in the Catholic Youth Organization gymnasium, 31 East Congress street, last night for the physical examinations which made them eligible for competition in the Golden Gloves sectional tournaments.

The brothers were Dick and James Stewart and Joe and Ed O'Connell. The O'Connell combination was broken up, however, when Brother Ed was one of the fifteen who failed to pass the tests. Joe O'Connell, a 1936 C. Y. O. novice champion, will be competing for Golden Gloves for the third time. In 1935 he reached the novice semi-finals in the Chicago Stadium.

Moon Goes to Work.

Willie Moon, colored flyweight fighter, who attained recognition by his recent conquest of Walter Cavelieri, C. Y. O. flyweight champion, in the Illinois Athletic club tournament, passed the physical examination with high marks. Then he went right to work in the C. Y. O. gym preparing himself for sectional competition.

Cavelieri, by his victory in the C. Y. O. tournament in December, automatically qualified for the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, which opens in the stadium on Feb. 28.

Four of the C. Y. O.'s best candidates were unable to face the physicians last night because of a series of bouts in Green Bay, Wis., where they appeared against a team representing St. Norbert's college. They will be examined at the next session in Trafton's gymnasium next Monday. The four absentees were Hiner Thomas, middleweight; Stanley Murczek, welterweight; William Goldsmith, lightweight, and Eddie Foys, light heavyweight.

You've Heard of These.

The turnout included scores of boys who look as if they may go a long way down the Golden Gloves championship trail, but a few, on the basis of past performances, appear to be especially dangerous to their rivals throughout the city. On this list are the names of such battlers as Wayne Fidler and Ernie Wilson, featherweights; James Diamico, Al Noto, and Bob Chan, lightweights, and John Lewandowski, welterweight.

Six candidates from the Lewis Holy Name Technical school in Lockport were driven forty miles to the examination room by Brother Fabian of the school. The candidates are James Ross, 112 pounds; Jim Carey, George Ozsbolt, and Frank Smosna, lightweights; John Arnold, 147 pounds, and James Snow, light heavyweight.

Hines Finishes Second After a Final 67.

Wins $700 Prize.

Hines closed with a rush, and his 67 today, the lowest of the field, moved him from the also-ran class to runner-up to Picard and a purse of $450. Byron Nelson, who carded a 64 along with Thomson yesterday, finished with a 71 and third place money of $350. Thomson had to be content with $280.

Thomson's Approaches Short.

Picard, second high money man in the pro ranks last year and winner of the Argentine open last October, passed Thomson at the turn coming home this afternoon as he shaved two strokes off par 36 going out. He continued his consistent work, and with Hines and Nelson pushing toward the front, Thomson's big siege guns began to fade. His approach shots too often left him with long putts, and they weren't going down as they did yesterday.

Horton Smith of Chicago, winner of the last Pasadena open two years ago with a score of 279, wound up badly today with 73 for 282.

NOTRE DAME AND PITT DISCONTINUE SPORTS PACTS

"Schedule complications prevent us engaging Pittsburgh teams for the next year or two," Elmer Layden, Notre Dame athletic director, said yesterday afternoon. "We probably shall be able to adjust this situation in the near future," he added.

George Keogan, Notre Dame basketball coach, branded as absurd reports in Pittsburgh that Notre Dame had insisted that the Panthers refrain from using a zone defense in their two games this year. Notre Dame won the first game, 51 to 41, at Pittsburgh last week.

"Pittsburgh can use any defense it wants," Keogan said. "As a matter of fact, it employed a modified zone defense against us last week. It is as absurd to say that basketball contracts are drawn with stipulations against a type of play as it would be to say that football agreements forbid a team to use a seven man line or baseball contracts eliminate the use of the double play.

Columbus, O., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The University of Michigan basketball team broke a tie with Wisconsin for third place in the Big Ten basketball standing by defeating Ohio State, 29 to 26, before 5,715 tonight in the only game on the conference schedule.

John Townsend.

The triumph was the second of the season for the Wolverines over Ohio State and left Michigan in undisputed possession of third place in the race with a record of four victories and two defeats. The loss was the third of the campaign for the Buckeyes, who have scored two victories.

Capt. John Townsend of Michigan was the game's high scorer with 12 points on five field goals and a pair of free throws. Four of his baskets came in the first half when the Wolverines overcame an 8 to 2 deficit to establish a 17 to 14 advantage at the intermission.

Buckeyes Get Going.

Michigan stepped away to a 2 to 0 lead on James Rae's shot from the foul line, but Ohio then scored eight points before the Wolverines connected again. Baker dropped two fouls, Boughner pushed in two long ones from the side court and Hull got away from Beebe and dribbled in for a close shot to give the Buckeyes an 8 to 2 lead.

Michigan cut the advantage to 8 to 7 as Townsend tipped in a basket, Rae batted in a rebound shot, and Townsend added a free throw. Hull dropped a basket from the four line, and Boughner added another on a long shot to run the Buckeye margin to 12 to 7.

Townsend broke away from McDonald for two short field goals and Goletz was sent in by Coach Olsen of Ohio State to guard the Michigan star. Michigan tied the score at 14 all when Charles Pink scored from the foul line, then took the lead on Beebe's foul. Townsend's fourth basket of the period, scored just before the gun, gave the Wolverines a 17 to 14 advantage at the intermission.

Michigan Stretches Lead.

Michigan ran its lead to 23 to 14 before Ohio was able to score in the second half. Thomas counted from the foul line, Rae pushed in one from under the basket and Thomas tipped in another short one before Schick scored Ohio's first points of the half on a shot from the center of the floor.

Beebe matched this with two goals to give Michigan a 27 to 18 lead. Baker dropped a short shot, Hull a free throw and a basket and Boughner a long field goal to give the Wolverines a 27 to 24 lead with three minutes of play remaining.

Both teams missed several shots before Townsend broke loose to score from under the basket and Boughner connected to make it Michigan, 29; Ohio State, 26. Neither team was able to score again.

HAWKS PILE UP ONE IN ROW AND WAIT FOR WINGS

Thursday Game Borders on the Crucial.

Games Tonight

New York Rangers at Boston.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks, proud and perhaps gasping a bit with surprise at their own sterling talents, yesterday began pointing toward Thursday night's engagement in Chicago Stadium. Thursday they are to meet the Detroit Red Wings to determine whether the Hawks are to breakfast Friday half a game out of the American division cellar or 2½ games above that dank locale.

Sunday night's 3 to 2 Hawk victory over the league leading Boston Bruins was most opportune for morale building purposes. The Wings, apparently aroused from the doldrums that had 'em the first half of the season ,on the same night and by the same score defeated the New York Americans. If the Hawks had followed the form charts to take a spanking from the Bruins, the game here Thursday night would have been for immediate occupancy of the cellar.

This Is a Relief.

Now the Hawks can not plunk into the cellar before next Saturday night's games are over. The Wings will play the Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday night and the Hawks will be idle. Therefore, if the Detroiters beat the Hawks Thursday night and the Leafs Saturday night, the Hawks will be in the basement when they go against the Rangers here next Sunday night. If the Hawks play Thursday night as they did against the Bruins, the cellar threat should subside considerably.

Manager Jack Adams of the Red Wings has not had the same lineup in two consecutive games and there were rumors around the National league yesterday that the Detroit skipper probably will keep switching, even though his team has won its last two games, the winning goal in each instance being scored by Eddie Wares, late of the Philadelphia Ramblers. It was said yesterday that Adams was trying to cook up a deal with the Montreal Maroons, who, like the Wings in the American division, have amazed their following by languishing in the Canadian division cellar.

One Victory and They're Good.

As a result of the victory over the Bruins, all efforts of the Hawks to bolster the lineup apparently ceased. Whenever a rebuilding program gets under way and the Hawk management is about ready to spend some dough, the lads always pop through with a surprise victory to lull the front office back into a state of smug complacency and gratified economy.

C., defending titleholder, took the medal with a 78 in the qualifying round of the women's championship of champions golf tournament today. One stroke behind came Patty Berg, Minneapolis star, but she and Miss Hemphill were the only ones to break eighty.

Match play starts tomorrow morning.

AMERICANS GET BEATTIE IN DEAL WITH RED WINGS

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The New York Americans of the National Hocky league tonight announced the acquisition of John [Red] Beattie from the Detroit Red Wings in exchange for Joe Lamb. Both are left wingers. Beattie, who is to join the Americans tomorrow in Toronto, where they are practicing this week, played several seasons with the Boston Bruins before being traded to Detroit for Gordon Pettinger last month.

Lamb, a veteran of ten years' service with the Montreal Maroons and the Americans, probably will be sent to Detroit's International-American league farm club, the Pittsburgh Hornets.

COLLEGIANS AND HEBREWS HEAD WINDY CITY CARD

The Windy City Basketball league teams will begin the second round of play tonight in the Park Casino, Madison street and Hamlin avenue. One of the games will pair the Collegians and the Chicago Hebrews. In their last meeting the Hebrews won in the closing seconds. In the other league game Harmon's Demons will play the Kokots.

To finish the schedule and championships playoffs before the Central A. A. U. title games, officials of the league announced that games will be played every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings in the Park Casino for the remainder of the schedule.

STEINMETZ FIVE LOSES, 43 TO 30; FIRST SETBACK

Three of the leaders of the City High School Basketball league suffered their first defeats yesterday. In the senior division Steinmetz lost to Von Steuben, 43 to 30, in the north section, while in the junior division in the same section Roosevelt was handed its first setback by Sullivan, 31 to 28. The Morgan Park seniors dropped their first one to Harper, 33 to 24.

The other contenders maintained their relative status but the Lane juniors were forced into overtime to score their fourth straight victory, defeating Schurz, 34 to 32.

Close All the Way.

It was nip and tuck all the way with Schurz leading, 30 to 28, in the closing seconds. Frailey saved the day for the Tech with a long shot. In the extra period Lane took the lead on a field goal by Krystymiak and two free throws by Malewig. Swiella registered two free throws for Schurz to close the scoring.

The Marshall seniors scored victory No. 5 in the west section in defeating Austin, 33 to 25, while the Wells, Schurz, and Von Steuben seniors collected their fourth triumphs.

Fouls Are Plentiful.

In the nine senior games yesterday a total of 233 fouls were called, which with the 191 in the junior division, made a grand total of 424.

High individual scorer for the day was Wioblewski, Foreman senior forward, who accounted for 24 of his team's points in defeating Washburne, 60 to 47.

ments. No entry will be accepted if post marked later than midnight next Sunday. All boys entering the tournament since the first examination and prior to tomorrow will be sent instructions to report to Trafton's gymnasium for Monday's examinations. Later entries will be assigned to the final tests, which will be held Feb. 4 at the same place.

Three More Centers Start.

Boxing opened in three tournament centers last night and will continue in these cities tonight. These tournaments are in Nashville, Tenn.; Ogden, Utah, and Huntington, W. Va. Tonight the first rounds of Golden Gloves boxing will start in Lafayette, Ind., and Detroit, Mich. The Ogden and Huntington tournaments will be completed this week.

Sioux City, Ia., as well as the C. Y. O., already has determined its eight champions. Thus by the end of the week four of the fifty teams will have been selected.

The maximum number of contestants in the Tournament of Champions is 400.

BEAT COLLEGIANS

Green Bay, Wis., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Chicago's C. Y. O. boxing team defeated St. Norbert's college tonight, 4 to 3.

The Chicago boxers won the first three contests, lost the next three, and in the deciding bout, Frankie Kainrath, C. Y. O. and Chicago Golden Gloves 118 pound king, pounded out a three round victory over Al Scarlata.

The other C. Y. O. boys to win were Clarence Brown, Eddie Foys, and Stanley Murczek. They defeated Al Urlich, Johnny Platt, and Pat Clark, respectively. Hiner Thomas, 1935 C. Y. O. middleweight champion, lost to Cornelius Young, 1936 C. Y. O. middleweight champion; Savior Canadeo whipped Tony Motisi, and Johnny Anderson won over William Goldsmith.

U. S. WOMEN ARE BEATEN IN TABLE TENNIS TOURNEY

LONDON, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The United States women's table tennis team, defending the world championship Corbillon cup, lost two of its first three matches today, but the American men scored three consecutive victories in defense of their title.

The men's team, which won the Swaything cup last year, topped off its performances by whipping England, 5 to 0, in the third match tonight. Earlier the Americans had beaten Germany, 5 to 2, and Wales, 5 to 0.

The women's only victory was at the expense of Ireland, 3 to 0. They lost to Hungary, 3 to 1, and took a 3 to 0 beating from England.

The American men still must dispose of Ireland, Poland, Latvia, and Austria in its own division to be certain of qualifying for the final playoff against the group two winner Wednesday.

Aron Replaces Day for Bout with Burns

Milt Aron, Illinois' foremost contender for the welterweight championship, has been substituted for Davey Day in a ten round bout against Charley Burns of Johnstown, Pa., at Marigold Gardens next Monday. Day asked to be excused because of the recurrence of an old back ailment. In the event Davey fails to recover in time to go through with a contest scheduled in the Coliseum March 4, Aron again will be the substitute. . . . Sammy Angott, Louisville junior lightweight, is expected to be Harvey Woods' opponent in the Marigold headliner Feb. 7. . . . Barney Ross, 1929 Golden Gloves featherweight champion, now world 147 pound champion, and his wife arrived from New York yesterday to spend a few days in Chicago before leaving for a two weeks' sojourn in Miami, Fla. From Miami they intend to head for Hot Springs, Ark.

Reports that Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, will be given exclusive rights to promote fights in Chicago Stadium have been renewed. Rumors current last August that the Madison Square Garden boxing head would lease the west side arena for a series of shows during the winter failed to materialize. . . . Ole Olson will be Fritz Von Schacht's rival in the windup bout on the wrestling program in Rainbo Fronton tomorrow. . . . Jimmy Le Grone, Des Moines, Ia., lightweight, and Babe Breeze of Manhattan, Kas., have been added to the fight card in the Milwaukee Eagles club Monday. They will share featured honors with an eight rounder involving Tony Cianciola and Remo Fernandez.

Joe Triner, head of the Illinois boxing commission, will conduct a meeting of the board Friday afternoon before going on a two weeks' road trip Sunday. Triner, who flew from New York Sunday night to attend the funeral of his mother, said no definite offer has been made to Promoter Mike Jacobs about bringing the impending Joe Louis-Challenger Max Schmeling championship bout to Chicago, contrary to reports emanating from the east last week. He reiterated, however, that Chicago has the inside track despite stories that Detroit and Philadelphia have a good chance to get the big fight. F. M.

HOLD FUNERAL RITES TOMORROW FOR MRS. TRINER

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Triner will be held tomorrow from the home of her son-in-law, Dr. Frank A. Lagorio, at 442 Wellington avenue, to Bohemian National cemetery, 5300 North Crawford avenue. Mrs. Triner, mother of Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois athletic commission, died Sunday of a heart attack. She was 74 years old. Rites will be conducted at noon in the cemetery chapel.

Surviving are her son and four daughters. Pallbearers will be Attorney General Otto Kerner, Sheriff John Toman, Dr. Antonio Lagorio, founder and director of the Chicago Pasteur institute; Albion Polasek, head of the department of sculpture at the Art institute of Chicago; Miles Geringer, publisher of the Bohemian Daily; Adolph Pick, Bohemian violinist; John Cwatall, and Henry Horak.

M'MILLEN PINS OLAF OLSON IN WHITE CITY BOUT

Jim McMillen, Antioch heavyweight, threw Olaf Olson in 43 minutes 10 seconds in a wrestling match at White City last night. McMillen weakened Olson with a series of flying tackles and then pinned him with a body slam.

Ruffy Silverstein threw Jack Conley in 7 minutes 14 seconds. Farmer Mack downed Ken Fenlon [25:02]. Joe Dvorak threw Jack Kogut [8:09], and Buck O'Neill threw Chief Lone Eagle [11:09] in other matches.

Zale Pounds Out Decision Over Schaft

Tony Zale, former Gary sectional Golden Gloves champion, scored an eight round victory at the expense of Henry Schaft of Des Moines, Ia., at Marigold Gardens last night. Zale weighed 159 pounds and Schaft 154.

Zale scored four knockdowns, two in the seventh and two more in the eighth. Schaft incurred a cut eye in the second round and a cut mouth in the last.

Schaft Jars Zale.

In the third round, however, Schaft had his opponent missing and scored with several punches. The Iowan's best round was the sixth. In that session he made Zale's knees buckle with a left hook to the jaw. A few seconds later a terrific right to the head forced Zale into a clinch.

Tony Petoskey, welterweight from Muskegon, Mich., handed Remo Fernandez a beating in an eight round slugging match. Fernandez was floored once in the fourth and once in the final round.

Campagna Beats Edwards.

In the last of three bouts at four rounds Emil Campagna, west side light heavyweight, easily defeated Sherman Edwards. Edwards, who was substituted for Benjamin McKinney, was knocked down three times in the first session, and once in the third and fourth.

Yates Enters Coliseum Six Day Bike Race

Cecil Yates, former C. Y. O. rider, will compete in the six-day bicycle race starting Sunday night in the Coliseum. His entry was received last night.

Yates has been out of bike racing for a year and a half, competing in automobile races. He rode as a mechanic at the last Indianapolis race.

JACOBS AIMS TO REMATCH FARR WITH BRADDOCK

Promoter May Sidetrack Baer Bout.

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—A return 12 round bout between James J. Braddock, former heavyweight champion and the Welshman, Tommy Farr, in Madison Square Garden, April 1, was all but signed for today.

Promoter Mike Jacobs said he hopes to have the bout in the bag by Friday when Braddock is expected to decide to accept 35 per cent as his share of the gate instead of the 37½ per cent he is demanding.

Farr Offered 20 Per Cent.

Farr also held out for 27½ per cent—just what he got for last Friday's fight—instead of the 20 per cent Jacobs offered, but Tommy who still feels he was the victim of a raw decision last week is so anxious for a return crack at Jimmy, it is not likely he'll let this difference stand in the way of the meeting.

He made this attitude plain when he flatly turned down Jacobs' offer to fight Max Baer here March 11. "It's Jim I want," said Tommy. "I'm not going to take a chance of getting hurt before I meet him again."

Before going into conference with Jacobs, Farr and Braddock posed for photographers and Tommy apologized to Braddock for not shaking hands with him in the ring after Friday's fight.

Farr Explains Action.

"I can't see why the people should expect me to kiss Braddock after getting what I thought was a raw decision, but I humbly apologize to Braddock if I hurt his feelings. I didn't see him when he came across the ring and the films will bear me out. I didn't know what the booing was about when I left the ring. If I had known Braddock was up there to shake hands I'd have run back up those steps to meet him."

Tommy plans a short rest in Miami before beginning training for his next bout. Braddock also plans a short trip to Florida with his wife if he agrees to fight Tommy again.

Phillips Quintet Wins, 36 to 32, Over Demons

The Phillips "66" quintet, champion of the Missouri Valley A. A. U. Basketball league, defeated the Frankie Harmon Demons, 36 to 32, last night at the 132d Infantry armory. Phillips led, 19 to 12, at the half. Ray Ebling, forward, scored 10 points to lead the Phillips' attack.

FINDS CBS CHIEFS LISTENING IN ON AN NBC PROGRAM

Reporter Does a Little Sunday Sleuthing.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Week-end cuff notes: While awaiting Helen Hayes' appearance on the CBS Double Everything show Sunday your reporter heard Donald Duck's raucous retorts wafted up a corridor. Investigation disclosed CBS executives listening in on an NBC program! In that particular instance they showed good judgment, too. . . . Every once in a while one network has something the other wishes it had. In Fortune's recent story about Toscanini and the NBC Symphony the photos of the maestro were copyrighted by the Columbia system. That network had them made when Toscanini was directing the New York Philharmonic symphony. Toscanini, loathing photographers, has not had many done since. Yesterday, however, NBC announced that it would soon have some new candid shots of the maestro. Whether these were taken with his permission was not revealed.

To get back to Miss Hayes—she gave the Double Everything show enough lift that, for this one presentation, it almost merited its name.

June Lang, Brian Donlevy, and Cesar Romero, arriving here today for the "In Old Chicago" première on Thursday, will be interviewed on the air — Miss Lang by Eddie and Fannie Cavanaugh at 2:45 p. m. today on WBBM, Brian Donlevy by Bob Elson at noon tomorrow on W-G-N on the Man on State Street program; Miss Lang by Ruth Brine on WJJD at noon tomorrow, and Miss Lang and Romero by Elson at noon Thursday on W-G-N.

The première at the Apollo theater will be aired over WIND at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, with Jimmy Dudley describing the proceedings.

WMBI, the Moody Bible institute station, will launch its founders week with a radio rally next Monday. . . . WHIP has started an international amateur hour under the direction of Baron de Vincko, who is Vincent Kalmik. . . . The communications commission has authorized the construction of a new radio station on the 1,500 kilocycle band for Galesburg.

A blow by blow description of Max Schmeling bout with Ben Foord in Hamburg, Germany, is to be aired over the Mutual at 9:30 a. m. next Sunday. . . . Erno Rapee, the noted radio conductor, will come here to direct the Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra in a concert on Tuesday, Feb. 1. . . . Rosalind Marquis, a Chicago girl who has been in Hollywood making pictures, will be the songstress with Hal Kemp's orchestra when he opens at the Drake hotel on Feb. 4.

SIXTEEN PROMISE TO STOP SMOKE LAW VIOLATIONS

Owners and operators of sixteen buildings, charged with violating the smoke ordinance, promised yesterday to take corrective measures to prevent recurrences of the offenses. The promises were made to Frank A. Chambers, head of the city smoke inspection and abatement department.

Among the sixteen was P. C. Nilles, superintendent of equipment for the city street department. The complaint showed that a garage used by that department at 2555 North Ashland avenue violated the smoke laws. Nilles said he would reduce the smoke output. Nine more owners and operators of buildings will appear before Mr. Chambers today.

Eleven women, working on a WPA project, started yesterday on the compilation of a card index system of all buildings in Chicago subject to smoke inspection.

They met when Compton visited Mr. Wilson's summer home and later often were White House guests.

BABY DIES WEEK AFTER SURGEON EXPOSES HEART

LONDON, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Geoffrey Knight, 2 years old, who lived for a week with his heart exposed, died tonight.

The boy, son of a Dover miner, was suffering from pneumonia when brought to a hospital here. Physicians discovered that fluid pressing on his heart had enlarged it to three times its normal size.

A surgeon cut away two of the child's ribs, split the pericardium sac enclosing the heart, and stitched several portions to the chest wall to permit drainage and daily washing. Late last week physicians expressed the belief he would live.

SEC RULE CURBS SHORT SELLING IN 'BAD' MARKET

Seeks to End Sharp Stock Declines.

(Stock market trade yesterday fell to the lowest level since Aug. 31. Details on page 22.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Short selling of any stock except at a price at least ⅛ of a point [12½ cents a share] above the preceding sale will be forbidden by new regulations announced today by the Security and Exchange commission. The new regulations will become effective Feb. 8.

The commission indicated that the purpose of the new regulations was to prevent a declining market from becoming a demoralized rout. Brokers expressed the opinion that the rules will make short selling virtually impossible when prices are declining. New York Stock exchange regulations at present forbid selling stock short at a price less than the preceding sale.

SEC Defines Short Sale.

In announcing the more stringent rule, the SEC defined short selling as the sale of "a security which the seller does not own, or any sale which is consummated by the delivery of a borrowed security."

The commission said that odd lots—less than 100 shares—transactions will not come under the scope of the new regulations. Short selling of odd lots of stock has not been an important market factor, it was explained. The commission also indicated it believed that small short sale transactions could be easily regulated.

Members of the commission explained informally that they believed short selling in a rising market has a desirable and stabilizing effect in that it tends to prevent harmful booms. The new regulations, they insisted, will not affect short selling on a rising market.

On the other hand, short selling on a falling market is undesirable, they contended, because it tends to accentuate the decline.

Brokers Must Designate Sales.

The commission also ordered all stock brokers taking orders for transactions to designate whether each order is for long or short sale. Brokers were prohibited from making deliveries of borrowed securities in the case of a regular sale. A similar rule already is in effect on the New York Stock exchange. Rules of the big New York market also exempt odd lot transactions from provisions of short selling restrictions.

In announcing the new regulations, the commission also made public a study on short selling of twenty stocks on the New York Stock exchange in the week ended Sept. 13 and the week ended Oct. 3. The study showed that sales in the stocks were increased 30 per cent by short selling in the two periods.

More than 72 per cent of all short selling by members of the exchange was concentrated in United States Steel, Chrysler, and General Motors stock, according to the study. Only forty-four of the 4,551 members of the New York Stock exchange made short sales of United States Steel, twenty-seven made short sales of General Motors, and only twenty-three made short sales of Chrysler during the two weeks, the commission said.

Short Selling Concentrated.

Of the fifty-four short sellers, five were said to have accounted for 60 to 68 per cent of all the short selling by members. No names of individuals were given.

The commission expressed the opinion that the selling which forced down the price of Chrysler, General Motors, and United States Steel tended to depress the entire market because of the prominence of these three issues.

Studies on short selling will be continued, the commission indicated. Amendments will be adopted if any of the present regulations needs to be altered, it was said.

Short sellers hope to buy stocks at lower prices than those at which they sold and thereby make a profit. The SEC recently revised margin requirements sharply upward for short sellers and lowered margin requirements for purchases.

PLAN TO REVAMP UTILITY BLOCKED BY ACTION OF SEC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—The Securities Exchange commission disapproved today a plan of reorganization for the Genesee Valley Gas company, using for the first time its power under the utility holding company act of 1935 to block a reorganization.

The commission charged the plan failed to merge gas utilities belonging to the Genesee Valley company in accordance with the spirit of the so-called "death sentence" section of the holding company act. The commission contended a proper plan should provide for the merger of the applicant's New York state operating subsidiaries into a single operating unit. It also criticized the proposed plan of new stock distribution.

Glass Moves to End Bank Holding Firms

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—The movement for the abolition of bank holding companies gained momentum today when Senator Glass [D., Va.] disclosed he was drafting legislation to do away with them and Treasury Secretary Morgenthau announced a conference on legislation in this field.

Senator Glass.

Morgenthau told reporters he was in complete accord with Glass in the view that such holding companies ought to be abolished, but he declined to comment on the attitude of other federal officials concerned with banking. He said a group of them would meet the latter part of this week to seek an agreement on legislation to regulate or prohibit bank holding firms.

Criticized by Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt recently criticized holding companies in the banking field, declaring that some community banks were controled in large financial centers and that the little banker was passing. This, he said, was a bad thing.

Morgenthau indicated he agreed with Senator Glass that bank holding companies should be allowed a period of time to liquidate. Glass, former secretary of the treasury and author of much federal banking legislation, said he was considering a five year period for this purpose.

The interdepartmental banking committee, a subcommittee of which will attend the conference late this week, includes Morgenthau, Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board; Chairman Leo Crowley of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation; Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and J. F. T. O'Connor, controler of the currency. Morgenthau declined to say which ones were on the subcommittee.

Not an Administration Bill.

Glass, a frequent and caustic critic of many administration policies, said his measure was not an administration bill, but added he had discussed it with Secretary Morgenthau. He said it would not affect branch banking. It was recalled that Roosevelt had disavowed last week any suggestion that his remarks against holding companies in general meant he was opposed to branch banking.

A bank holding company is one which holds enough stock in one or more banks to control the latter. Branch banks are merely branch offices of a bank. Branch banking is forbidden in some states.

A recent survey by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation showed that an eighth of the nation's bank deposits were in banks controled by bank holding companies. The FDIC said there were twenty-three major holding companies controling 400 banks and forty minor holding companies controling 160 banks.

Officials said Transamerica corporation, headed by A. P. Giannini and interested chiefly in west coast banks, was the largest bank holding company on an asset basis.

KENNEDY URGES BUSINESS OFFER REVIVAL PLANS

Boston, Mass., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy, newly appointed American ambassador to England, today said the failure of business men to come forward with suggestions that would aid the administration is one of the factors retarding recovery.

"I don't know how the government can be in possession of any more facts than business," he said in an interview. "I think the President would like to have somebody suggest something to him."

As an example of what he termed the confusion among business men, Kennedy said he received different versions from each of three well established Chicago merchants to whom he talked. One, he said, suggested that business "crack down on labor," the second favored a balanced budget, and the third thought the solution was in placing purchasing power in the hands of the public.

REFUSE BLANKET EXTENSION FOR PAYING IDLE TAX

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering today refused to grant a general extension of time for the payment of pay roll taxes under the unemployment insurance title of the social security act by Illinois business men and industries. Helvering's refusal was announced in a letter to Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

Senator Lewis, however, pointed out that Helvering said individual taxpayers might obtain extensions of not more than 60 days by applying to the collector of internal revenue in Chicago and showing that delay was needed. Returns on the unemployment insurance tax, which is 1 per cent of the pay roll for the calendar year 1937, must be filed by Jan. 29 under the law.

Fight Over Tax Plan Prolongs House Inquiry

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—The house ways and means committee was forced today to prolong open hearings on the revised tax program when a host of witnesses clamored to be heard. The committee had hoped to conclude the hearings last week, but heard a number of witnesses today and granted the petition of a dozen more to be heard tomorrow.

Joseph F. Tumulty acts for Board of Trade.

The protest of most of the witnesses continued to be directed against the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes which the committee plans to revise. Outright repeal of the taxes was urged by most of the witnesses who appeared.

Store Official Testifies.

The tax on closely held corporations also drew criticism. Irving C. May, official of a Richmond, Va., department store, told the committee his auditors estimated that the "penalty" tax on closely held corporations would make his company's taxes proportionately 17 per cent greater than those of a competing store more widely held.

Clinton Davidson, representing New York investment advisers, suggested changes in the tax law regarding personal holding companies. He said many personal holding companies want to liquidate, but cannot afford to under present tax laws.

Davidson proposed that the companies, on dissolution, be permitted to pay taxes according to the length of time assets have been held.

Ellsworth C. Alvord, Washington attorney and tax expert for the United States chamber of commerce, opposed the proposal to place a special tax on corporations controled by families or a few individuals.

Asks Repeal of Stamp Tax.

Joseph P. Tumulty of Washington, representing the floor traders of the Chicago Board of Trade, asked elimination of a 3 per cent stamp tax on sales of commodity futures.

"The effect of the tax on particular types of operations, such as hedging and spreading, which are essential to the successful operation of the marketing machinery, are bad," Tumulty said.

He said its unjustness was obvious when it was understood the levy must be paid on a loss as well as on a profit.

TREASURY WILL DRAW DOWN ON BANK DEPOSITS

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—The United States treasury today issued a call for the repayment on Thursday of a part of the funds which it has on deposit with banks here and in other sections of the country.

The withdrawal, which equals 10 per cent of the balance on deposit for the account of book credit subscriptions to the treasury 1⅛ and 1¾ per cent notes, dated June 15, last, amounts to $17,496,400 for the entire country, of which $10,716,300 will be withdrawn from depositaries in this federal reserve district.

After this call there will remain on deposit to the treasury's account $775,771,600, of which $460,369,000 will be in depositary banks in this district.

U. S. STEEL DIRECTORS MEET TODAY TO DECIDE ACTION ON DIVIDENDS

Directors of the United States Steel corporation will meet today to consider dividend action. It is expected that the regular quarterly preferred payment of $1.75 will be ordered despite the low rate of steel operations in the last three months, but financial circles would be surprised if directors took action on a common dividend.

A divident of $1 a share, the first since March, 1932 was paid on the common last Dec. 1. This was generally believed to be motivated largely by a desire of directors to break the dividend "drouth" and reduce the surtax on undistributed profits.

Disbursements by other corporations announced yesterday included a special final liquidating dividend of $22.35 a share to the few stockholders of Nevada Consolidated Copper company who have not exchanged their stock for Kennecott Copper corporation shares.

Charis 25c		Feb. 1	Jan. 28
Chi Yellow Cab, 25c		Mar. 1	Feb. 15
Ft Worth Stock Yards, 37½c		Feb. 1	Jan. 22
Globe&Rutgers Fire 2d pfd.		Mar. 1	Feb. 24
Life Savers 40c q		Mar. 1	Feb. 3
McColl Frontenac Oil 10c q.		Mar. 15	Feb. 15
*Nevada Consol Copper $22.25

*Final liquidating dividend.

The letter "q" in the table refers to regular quarterly dividends. The letter "s" refers to semiannual dividends.

HEARINGS ENDED ON FREIGHT HIKE; AWAIT ARGUMENT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—A brief truce between railroad operators and shippers began today when the interstate commerce commission concluded hearings on the proposed 15 per cent increase in railroad freight rates.

During the remainder of the week commissioners will study a mass of testimony—all of which has been entered in the records—preparatory to opening oral arguments Jan. 31.

Through the increase the railroads hope to get $517,000,000 additional revenue each year.

Today several eastern steel companies opposed the increase, demanding exemption from any increase on iron ore. They said the steel industry is bearing "more than its fair share" of transportation cost.

William Hirth, Columbia, Mo., editor and live stock producer, urged the increase, declaring "We have got to get business going again, and the only way is to get the railroads going again."

Roosevelt and Jones Agree on Reducing Board of RFC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was represented by Chairman Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation as being amenable to the latter's suggestion that the membership of the RFC board be reduced from seven to five "in the interest of economy." The proposed reduction would affect only one present member of the board since Frederick H. Taber, Republican of Massachusetts, was not reappointed at his own request when other members of the board were renominated by President Roosevelt last week.

Caterpillar's 1937 Profit Is $10,168,689

Caterpillar Tractor company, Peoria, Ill., yesterday reported that its net profit for 1937 totaled $10,168,689 compared with $9,849,592 in 1936.

With the exception of 1929 the 1937 earnings were the largest for any year in the present company's history. After provision for preferred stock dividends, profits were equivalent to $5.09 a common share compared with $4.92 a share on a similar basis last year. No provision for federal surtax on distributed earnings was made, inasmuch as dividends paid were in excess of net profits.

Caterpillar's sales totaled $63,183,487 compared with $54,118,003 in 1936, and were the largest on record. The company makes Diesel motors and farm and road equipment.

Mexico Ships 7,200,000 Ounces of Silver to U. S.

New York, Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Shipments of 7,200,000 ounces of silver from Mexico and 1,200 ounces from England arrived here over the weekend, it was learned today. Also in the Mexican shipment, sent from Vera Cruz to the New York Federal Reserve bank, were two cases of gold bars. The London silver consisted of 1,075 bars consigned to the Guaranty Trust company and 182 bars to the Chase National bank. The Mexican shipment is believed to be part of 35,000,000 ounces which the United States treasury agreed to buy at 45 cents an ounce.

AM. TELEPHONE BENEFICIAL AS HOLDING FIRM

Would Be Subject to Federal Ban.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company would come under a holding prohibition such as President Roosevelt has indicated his administration is working toward.

American Telephone controls through stock ownership twenty-three operating telephone properties, separately incorporated, and a manufacturing subsidiary, Western Electric company. It directly owns a nation-wide system of long distance telephone lines. By virtue of the latter holdings it functions in part as an operating company, but most of its business is carried on through the subsidiary properties.

Most of the subsidiaries are wholly owned by American Telephone. It holds more than 99 per cent of the stock of Illinois Bell Telephone company and the Western Electric company, and all of the stock of New York Telephone company.

Separate Boards for Units.

Each subsidiary is governed by a separate board of directors selected by the officers of the parent company. The boards have in practice a large degree of autonomy. They are made up of the officers of the subsidiaries and business and banking executives from the geographical territory in which the operations are carried on. The directors picked from outside the company ranks are usually in the majority on the board.

From an operating standpoint the Bell system resembles a federation of affiliated companies which coördinate their activities through a central agency, the parent company.

The system constitutes the largest public enterprise in the world. It has been singularly free from the financial abuses that have marked the histories of some holding companies promoted in recent years.

Capitalization Conservative.

Its capitalization is conservative, as shown by the unbroken record of dividends throughout the depression years, when virtually every other corporation in the country found it expedient to reduce payments to stockholders.

The parent company has carried on extensive research and development work that has enabled the subsidiaries constantly to expand their business. It has followed a consistent policy of keeping abreast of the times by frequent large scale modernizations of its communication facilities. The parent company supplies engineering, technical, and other services to subsidiaries, and advances capital to them at times.

Under the holding company type of organization American Telephone has been able to delegate a larger degree of authority to its subsidiaries, while retaining the advantages of centralized control, than would appear to be possible if all of its properties were directly owned by a single company.

Each Unit Is Entity.

Under the setup each subsidiary is a corporate entity which commands more prestige in its area than would the division of one large company, it is asserted. Without abandoning any of the advantages of large scale operations, American Telephone has achieved a flexibility not common in large concerns.

Plant, equipment and other investments of the companies in the Bell system were valued at $4,578,787,000 at the end of 1937. The job of administering these properties, providing efficient national service and earning a return for shareholders would be rendered more difficult, it is said, without a holding company system.

A more highly concentrated management and operating control would appear inevitable if the holding unit were abolished. One of the most frequent criticisms of the holding company is that it has encouraged such concentration.

Action Delayed Until Today On Dissolution of Co-op

Stockholders of the Farmers National Grain corporation, grain marketing coöperative, yesterday recessed until 10 o'clock this morning without acting on a proposal to dissolve the corporation. Stockholders are waiting for a report from the directors, who also continued their meeting until this morning.

Canners Give City Title of 'Food Capital'

Chicago's prestige as the food capital of the country was emphasized yesterday with the arrival in this city of between 10,000 and 15,000 persons directly connected with the canning business and affiliated and related lines to attend conventions of their organizations.

The largest groups now meeting are the National Canners' association, the Canning Machinery and Supplies association, and the National Food Brokers' association. The first two named are meeting at the Stevens hotel and the third at the Palmer house. Another large group is the National American Wholesale Grocers' association, meeting at the Congress hotel.

Use Billions of Cans.

Between 7 to 10 billion cans are used in the distribution of food each year in this country. This does not include cans taken by the beer industry. Officials said that one of the growing divisions of the canning industry is in the sale of juices, including fruit and tomato juices. Last year, it was said, America consumed 31,000,000 cases, representing more than one billion cans, of juices of various kinds.

Twenty-five years ago, it was said, canned baked beans were the leader in this branch of the industry. Then soups took the lead.

Progress in the can and container industry has improved the methods in the food canning industry, it was said, thereby adding to the worth of canning as an outlet for farm products. Improved methods in the manufacture of tin plate have been of great help to the canning industry.

Equipment Is Exhibited.

In connection with the Stevens hotel meetings, the manufacturers of canning equipment have a large exhibition showing the latest improvements. Among the innovations this year is an X-ray type of machine which enables the packer to study the condition of his product after it has been canned.

Among the speakers at meetings here yesterday were Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland and Neil Carothers, director of the college of business administration, Lehigh university, who addressed the canners' association, and John Albright, an official of the bureau of the census, who addressed the National American Wholesale Grocers.

Senator Tydings stressed the importance of legislation enacted by congress as enabling machinery making possible the enforcement of fair trade practice acts of individual states. He asserted this legislation makes possible the control of "loss leaders," —merchandise sold below cost by merchandisers for the purpose of attracting customers to their establishments in the hope that they would buy other goods. Loss leaders, Senator Tydings declared, have been an instrument of monopoly used to crush small business.

MOST RAILWAYS REPORT FREIGHT TRAFIC DECLINE

The Rock Island was an exception in showing a gain of 2.5 per cent over last year, although the total was less than in the preceding week. The Baltimore & Ohio was the only reporting road to show a gain over the preceding week, although its total was less than a year ago. Comparisons follow:

CHICAGO RISES TO HIGH RANK AS MONEY CENTER

Strides Ahead as Key to Rich Area.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Chicago, in the course of its growth as the center of a great inland industrial, trade, and agricultural empire, has developed into one of the biggest financial centers of the world.

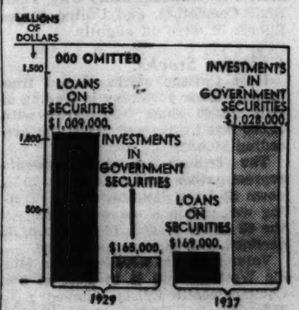
Melchior Palyi.

In the last twenty-five years total deposits in commercial banks here have increased threefold, growing from less than one billion dollars to almost three billions. The growth carried Chicago from fifth to third place among world financial centers. It now outranks Paris and Berlin and is surpassed only by New York and London.

Melchior Palyi, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, in his recent book, "The Chicago Credit Market," found that the manufacturing and trade activities of the Chicago area required a large bank credit to finance its operations.

Center of Rich Area.

"The fifth largest world metropolis in population," Palyi said, "Chicago is the financial center of one of the richest and most active sections of the world. It should carry [1935] the financial leadership at least of an area with a yearly average income of more than $2,000,000,000 from farm production and something like $15,000,000,000 from industrial production."



This chart shows how Chicago banks have reversed their 1929 position with respect to collateral loans and investments in government securities. The figures are taken from federal reserve bank data on reporting member banks in Chicago on Nov. 6, 1929, and Dec. 29, 1937.

Banks' Position Strong.

Whatever the near future holds for American business, whether it is a continued downtrend in the new depression or the hoped for reversal and expansion, Chicago banks are in strong position to finance the requirements of the central west.

The banking situation here is greatly improved over what it was when the system was called on to cope with deflation and panic in the early 1930's.

Today there are fewer than 60 banks

PROTECTION— Not Collection

Credit Insurance is exactly like fire insurance, theft, flood, tornado, or any other conventional insurance. You buy it for protection, not collection. Even if you can meet any unexpected credit losses safely, is it prudent or profitable to do so?

A policyholder (name on request) recently filed a claim -- the first one in 10 consecutive years. He writes: "We have not carried this insurance expecting to collect claims, but as a matter of protection. We hope that it will not be necessary to have adjustments in the future."

American Credit Insurance

protects Manufacturers and Jobbers against Credit Losses which diminish profits and the fear of Credit Losses which restricts sales. Credit Insurance encourages the sales manager and protects the credit manager. Both can drive forward fearlessly.

Policies are more liberal, more wide-reaching than ever. All classes of accounts are now insurable -- singly, in groups, or general coverage. Investigate. Telephone or write this office.

CREDIT INSURANCE KEEPS WELL-LAID PLANS FROM GOING AWRY

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 24.—Stock market prices closed mostly within fractions of previous finals on the stock exchange today. Although the list steadied somewhat after dragging lower throughout the forenoon, losses outnumbered gains. Of 626 issues traded, 280 closed lower, 186 higher, and 160 were unchanged. It was the slowest session since Aug. 31, with turnover of only 537,130 shares.

The apparent stagnation of the market was taken as proof by some observers of the uncertainty prevailing among traders and investors. Many of them have been reported to have taken to the sidelines awaiting clarification of legislative and business situations.

—o—

Price movements were narrow. After an irregular opening, the price level sagged slightly until late in the day, when a mild rally got under way, led by steel stocks, as the result of estimated higher production this week. Final prices for leading steel issues were fractionally lower, with U. S. Steel and Bethlehem most active.

Motors were actively traded, but were irregular. Chrysler, Yellow Truck, and Graham-Paige closed at fractional gains. General Motors slipped slightly.

—o—

Carrier shares were irregularly lower. Atchison, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central, and Canadian Pacific were among the firm issues. Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, and Union Pacific, among others, pointed lower.

Public utility issues continued to give a relatively good account of themselves. Leading issues closed unchanged to modest fractions higher.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The trend in railroads liens was lower today in the bond market, but selective buying lifted some issues.

Baltimore and Ohio convertible 4½s, Eries 5s, Southern Railway 4s, Northern Pacific 4s were up fractionally. Off fractions to a point or more were Chicago and Alton 3s, Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s, St. Paul 5s, Nickel Plate 5½s, M-K-T 5s, and New York Central 5s.

Foreign governments were slightly higher. United States treasury obligations were mixed, ranging from losses of 11-32ds to gains of 6-32ds.

Industrials were somewhat easier. Anaconda Copper 4½s, Bethlehem Steel 4¼s, National Dairy 3¾s, Penn Dixie Cement 6s, and United States Rubber 5s were off slightly.

Chicago Stocks.

Most Chicago stocks moved fractionally lower yesterday in trading of only 18,000 shares, compared with 19,000 last Friday and 21,000 the preceding Monday.

The Tribune average of twenty representative stocks closed at 10.33, down .06 from Saturday's close. Trading was within a narrow range. Of the 69 issues traded, 12 advanced, 39 declined, and 18 were unchanged.

Volume leaders were irregular. Middle West was up ⅛ to close at 5⅜. Commonwealth Edison climbed ⅛ to 25⅞. Electric Household was ⅛ lower at 3⅝, Marshall Field dropped ⅛ to 8⅝, and Walgreen fell ⅝ to 19¾.

Bank Stocks.

Except for Northern Trust company shares, which were bid up $5, Chicago bank stocks were steady to lower yesterday. Weakest was First National bank stock, which declined $5 a share to $218 bid, $222 asked. Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company stock was off $2 a share at $100 bid, $103 asked. Other bank shares were mostly unchanged from the close of last week.

Of the first ten banks six are in New York. Besides the first three mentioned the New York banks are Bankers' Trust company, seventh, with deposits of $852,796,800; Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, eighth, with $831,259,100, and Manufacturers' Trust company, tenth, with $610,292,500.

Others Outside New York.

The other two in the leading ten banks are the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association, San Francisco, in fourth position with deposits of $1,357,378,800 and the First National bank of Boston, ninth, with $615,939,200.

Although the ten leaders were the same at the end of 1937 as on Dec. 31, 1936, there were four changes of position within the group The First National Bank of Chicago, which ranked seventh at the end of 1936, moved up to sixth last year, changing places with the Bankers Trust company of New York. The National City bank of New York climbed from third to second place, trading positions with the Guaranty Trust company of New York.

Middlemen—Why They Exist.

Why cannot the middleman be eliminated, and his profit be divided between the producer and the consumer, to the mutual advantage of both? This question is often asked, and arguments in favor of the elimination of middlemen are frequently heard.

It is apparent that handling of commodities by middlemen increases their cost. The question is whether either the producer or the consumer could perform the necessary functions of the middleman at less cost. Attempts to do so usually have failed.

Have you ever decided to drive out of the city and deal directly with some farmer in purchasing your supply of eggs, butter, and fresh, vegetables? The price you paid probably was lower than the price of the same articles at your neighborhood grocery, but you probably did not allow for your transportation costs, the value of the time and labor expended, and the risk of accident to your automobile, your person, or the commodities purchased, in figuring the total cost.

If you did, you probably found that, instead of saving money, the actual cost was as great or greater than if you had purchased at a store near your home.

The greater the distance required for transportation to the consumer and the larger the quantity to be transported the greater is the usual differential between the cost of getting commodities to the consumer by way of the usual trade channels and the individual, producer to consumer method. Middlemen exist because being specialists in their particular lines, they can perform their functions more economically than can persons who are not specializing.

Steel Production Increases for Fourth Consecutive Week

Steel operations in the United States are scheduled at 32.7 per cent of capacity this week, according to estimates made public yesterday by the American Iron and Steel institute. This is the fourth consecutive week in which a gain has occurred since a three year low of 19.2 per cent was reached in the 1937 year-end holiday week.

This week's improvement represents an increase of 2.9 points, or 9.7 per cent, from last week, when operations were at 29.8 per cent of capacity, according to the institute.

Far Below Year Ago.

The gain since the year-end bottom is one of 13½ points, or 70.3 per cent, but this week's rate is less than half that of a year ago, when operations were running at 77.9 per cent of capacity. It also is far below the 49.4 per cent rate prevailing two years ago.

The current four week rise was preceded by 15 consecutive weeks of decline which plunged the national operating rate from 80.4 per cent of capacity in the short period between Sept. 13 and the end of the year. It was one of the sharpest declines on record.

Rate Best Since Nov. 15.

This week's indicated rate of 32.7 per cent of capacity is the highest scheduled in the industry since the week of Nov. 15, when operations were at 36.4 per cent of capacity after a two month drop.

The current gain was somewhat larger than had been expected in Wall street, where an estimate of only slightly better than 30 per cent was anticipated.

Strides Ahead as Key City of Rich Area.

in Chicago compared with more than 200 in 1929. Yet deposits at the end of 1937 were larger than for all the banks of the city nine years ago. Even after a drop of more than $200,000,000 from the 1936 peak, the 1937 year end total is still ahead of the pre-depression peak established in 1928. Deposits in Chicago banks last Dec. 31 aggregated just a little less than $3,000,000,000.

The weakness of the banks in 1929 was due primarily to an overbalance in collateral loans—that is, stock market loans and other loans on securities. That condition was not peculiar to Chicago. It was nation-wide.

New Situation Arises.

This topheavy structure of collateral loans has disappeared. There is a new overbalance today in respect to investments in federal securities. The weakness or strength of this is entirely dependent on government credit.

Chicago banks have reversed their collateral loan and government securities investments position since 1929. Federal reserve reporting member banks in Chicago had a little more than a billion dollars of collateral loans in November, 1929. On the same date they had $165,000,000 worth of governments.

At the end of 1937 the reporting member banks showed government securities holdings of slightly more than a billion dollars and loans on securities of $169,000,000. In 1929 the banks had less than $200,000,000 on deposit at the federal reserve bank. At the end of 1937 they had nearly $600,000,000.

Real Estate Loans Lower.

Real estate loans, another weakness of the banking situation in 1929, are now much smaller. The volume of real estate loans made by all member banks in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district aggregated nearly $600,000,000 in 1929. In 1937 they were about one-third of this total.

In addition to deposits in banking institutions, there are nearly a quarter million persons in Chicago who had deposits in the postal savings system of more than $102,000,000 at the close of 1937.

Chicago leads all cities in the country in the purchase of United States savings certificates. Of the total of $636,748,500 of these certificates sold by the government in the year ended Aug. 31, 1937, $25,577,200 were bought in Chicago. New York was second with $23,617,125.

URGES ILLINOIS TAKE CHARGE OF LOCAL FINANCES

State supervision of public finances of local governments in Illinois was urged by Prof. R. S. Van de Woestyne, lecturer on public finance at the University of Chicago, yesterday at the City club weekly luncheon forum.

Van de Woestyne asserted that uniform county and municipal accounting under state-imposed standards, restrictions by the state on purposes for which loans may be made and periodic audits of local accounts by state auditors would help to solve the present muddle of local finances in Illinois.

The first step, he said, would be the establishment of a state department of local finance, and the filing with the department by all local governments of statements of their financial status on uniform blanks provided by the state. He said Massachusetts has used such a state control system effectively for more than 25 years.

Oil Firm Plans $2,500,000 Outlay to Expand Output

The Richfield Oil corporation yesterday announced plans to spend $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 for acquisition of additional oil production facilities this year. The company, which was reorganized last March, has added more than 600 men to its production department and has ten drilling crews in the field, compared with one a year ago. New wells completed since March have increased the company's production from 17,000 to 20,000 barrels daily.

Treasury's Discount Bills Are Sold at Higher Prices

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau announced tonight that slightly higher prices were paid for the treasury's weekly offering of $50,000,000 of 91-day treasury bills. The average price was 99.974 compared with 99.972 last week. Today's prices were equivalent to borrowing money at 0.103 per cent compared with 0.111 per cent a week ago.

OFFICIALS OF OIL STATES CONFER AT HOT SPRINGS

Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—Governors or representatives of oil producing states met here today at the suggestion of Gov. E. W. Marland of Oklahoma to study problems relating to the oil industry, Gov. Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas welcomed the delegates.

Alexander Wilson, administrative assistant to Gov. Horner of Illinois, Dr. M. M. Layton, chief of the Illinois geological survey, and Dewitt Billman, secretary of the Illinois legislative bureau, are among those attending the conference, which is expected to end Thursday.

Gov. Marland made a plea for conservation. He estimated at 33 billion barrels the amount of oil discovered to date. He estimated production at 20 billion barrels, leaving an estimated reserve of 13 billion barrels, which, he stated, was not sufficient for the next ten years.

BUSINESS LOANS BY BANKS SHOW ANOTHER DROP

More Idle Funds Go Into U. S. Obligations.

In contrast with the trend which prevailed a year ago, business loans made by member banks of the federal reserve system in the week ended Wednesday continued the decline that has been in progress for several months, it was disclosed yesterday in the reserve board's weekly report of bank conditions in 101 leading cities.

In the week ended Wednesday there was a decline of 63 millions in business loans, paring the total to 4 billion 438 million. In the week ended Jan. 12 the decline was 12 million. For the last two months the decline in these loans, which are considered a barometer of business conditions, has aggregated $433,000,000.

Hold More U. S. Obligations.

The member banks continue to increase their holdings of government obligations. A year ago the banks were reducing these holdings and were lending more money to industry and business. This year, as opportunities for investing money profitably decline along with the business activity, the banks have been putting their idle funds into government obligations.

In the week ended Wednesday bank holdings of federal obligations showed a net gain of $45,000,000 over the amount held Jan. 12. A week earlier the banks increased their holdings by $47,000,000.

STOCK EXCHANGE IN BOMBAY STAYS CLOSED IN CRISIS

BOMBAY, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The Bombay Stock exchange closed abruptly Saturday because of a swift decline in prices, remained shut today, and directors were understood to favor suspension until the end of February.

The newspaper Times of India demanded salutary action against brokers whom it accused of "doing a wholesale business with insufficient margin, thereby imperiling the whole structure of the stock exchange."

The newspaper recalled that a government investigating committee recently reported that 80 to 90 per cent of the business of the exchange was speculative, and that the situation called for early government action.

WHEAT RALLIES; WEST IS SWEPT BY DUST STORMS

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Saturday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Corn	.60¾	.60¾	1.00¼
Oats	.32	.32	.50¾
Rye	.74¾	.74¾	1.00¾
Soy beans	1.05¼	1.04¾	1.57¾

Duststorms of an intensity seldom experienced at this season of the year yesterday swept parts of Nebraska, Kansas, and the Oklahoma and Texas panhandle, causing a rally in wheat prices. There were reports of heavy damage to the winter wheat crop in areas which have been suffering from lack of surface and subsoil moisture for a number of weeks.

Sections of the winter wheat belt which needed moisture the least received soaking rains over the week-end, but no precipitation was reported in the more western areas, and the official forecast held little hope of rain.

Wheat Sags, Then Rallies.

Wheat prices were somewhat lower in the early trading yesterday as the result of reports of rain in the more eastern areas, but there was no material pressure on the market.

Later, when trade messages told of soil drifting and crop damage, short sellers started to cover and caused a rally of about 1¼ cents from the low point. Closing trades in futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net gains of ¾ cent. Winnipeg futures advanced 1 to 1⅞ cents, although foreign demand was said to have been relatively slow.

Foreign wheat markets were generally stronger on reports that Germany was inquiring for Argentine new crop grain.

Visible Supply Decreases.

Routine news attracted little attention from wheat traders yesterday. The visible supply decreased 2,966,000 bushels last week to 75,051,000 bushels, or 56,000,000 bushels under the peak accumulation reached last September. The figure was 50,378,000 bushels a year ago.

CATTLE, LAMBS SAG; CONSUMERS BUY SPARINGLY

Despite the low level of meat prices in the butcher shops in recent weeks, and last week in particular, consumer buying has not expanded sufficiently to check the decline in cattle and lamb prices at the Chicago stockyards.

Lambs fell 25 to 40 cents yesterday to the lowest levels since May, 1935. The top loads at $7.95 showed a decline of 30 cents. This was 80 cents lower than Monday of last week and $5.30 under the high spot of last summer, a drop of 40 per cent.

Both cattle and beef prices sank to new lows yesterday. Reductions in the various cuts of wholesale beef ranged from 50 cents to $2 per hundred pounds, the top grades of beef again getting the brunt of the decline. The bulk of the supply of steers sold 25 to50 cents lower and in many instances sales showed more loss.

$39,750,000 for Sugar Beet Bonuses Is Recommended

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—The senate appropriations committee today recommended appropriation of $39,750,000 to pay 1937 sugar beet bonuses under the Agriculture Adjustment program. It also agreed to recommend reappropriation of a balance of approximately $34,500,000 left over from last year for use by the agricultural department in making crop production and harvesting loans to farmers. The house approved the same items last week.
